KERR 'SPANKS' M'NAIR IN COUNCIL ROW

Today

Faith and a Snake-Bite.
Shame Is a Good Sign.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRINCE VON STARHEMBERG, in a private conference, saw Dictator Mussolini, and gossips suggest that Mussolini will encourage Austria to restore a Hapsburg, the young Otto, to Austria's throne.

Otto, young heir to the Hapsburgs, is extremely good looking, would deeply interest any movie director.

But why people as intelligent as the Austrians should think of taking an another Hapsburg, after what the last Hapsburg did to them, is hard to understand.

There is little enough left of Austria now. Do the Austrians want Italy or Germany to take that little or divide it between them?

NEVER ADOPT a plan, unless you know all about it.

William Bryant, in the Louisiana Penitentiary, read about Dillinger "escaping from prison with the aid of a toy pistol, made of wood, terrorizing guards by the dozens, taking away their weapons."

A newspaper clipping about that pistol was found on Bryant's body, after he had been shot dead, trying the same "wooden pistol" method of escape.

Bryant and his fellow convict, William Chandler, whittled out two toy pistols, two, surely, would be better than one. They and eleven other convicts that followed them were all killed, wounded or caught.

Seven shots from a repeating rifle finished Bryant, when he pointed his wooden pistol at a guard and ordered "hands up."

DILLINGER'S FATHER, an old Quaker farmer, has been forbidden to "make a little money" by appearing in public, in New York City, to lecture on his son's life and death. Legitimate actors and theaters protested, although there seems little connection. He who would pay to see Dillinger's father would hardly pay to see "Hamlet," and the father might have earned his money usefully by warning youth that crime does not pay, with or without a wooden pistol.

THE REV. ALBERT TEESTER, of North Carolina, thinking it his duty to prove the power of God in some practical way, picked up a rattlesnake, allowed it to bite him twice, assuring his congregation that God's power would protect him.

He picked up the rattlesnake "in Jesus' name," thinking this might prevent the serpent biting. It did not, and he said, "Although I was bitten, it does not destroy my faith in Jesus Christ. The best physician in the world, God, is attending to me."

SURE ENOUGH the Rev. Teester got well, although he suffered pain. To the "twenty-two saints" of his little congregation the clergyman showed his hand, scarred by snake fangs, then turning his eyes upward, said:

"God, I want you to have every bit of glory out of this hand."

SUCH COMPLETE faith might well move a mountain, although no man can say how much glory the Ruler of the Universe would find in curing a case of snake-bite. A simple remedy will do that.

NEW YORK STATE, which makes a practice of commuting and reprieving all sorts of masculine murderers for all sorts of masculine reasons, with a parole board that turns out many of the worst criminals, saying practically: "Go and kill some more," allowed a miserable woman, Mrs. Anna Antonio, to die in the electric chair, to the state's disgrace.

It is some comfort, however, to know that the state is ashamed of itself, for to be ashamed is the first sign of improvement.

WITH THE WOMAN, killed by the state as she had killed her drug-peddler husband, three strong, broad matrons were sent into the death room. They stood almost touching each other, as close to the death chair as caution would permit, shutting out from reporters and other witnesses the actual sight of the woman's hideous death.

If New York State is now ashamed of killing women perhaps it will go farther, and STOP killing women.

SIKORSKY, who made the biggest passenger plane now flying successfully, the S-42 Brazilian clipper, predicts "fifty-ton aircraft," three times as big as S-42.

The 50-ton heavier-than-air ship will come, pass and seem like a toy, compared with real airships of the future. Column-

Doug and Mary to Meet In Hollywood Soon, She Says as Love Stories Fly

MARY PICKFORD . . . . . SHE'S GOING TO MEET DOUG SOON

ACTRESS HINTS SECRET PACT

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mary Pickford disclosed upon her arrived here from Chicago today that she will meet her estranged husband, Douglas Fairbanks, in Hollywood soon, but she asserted she "probably will have less to say concerning my domestic affairs following that conference than I have now."

Miss Pickford would neither confirm nor deny reports of a pending reconciliation with Fairbanks nor would she comment on the nature of her forthcoming conference with the motion picture star.

Fairbanks is en route from Europe to New York aboard the Rex.

Concerning her domestic affairs, Miss Pickford said she felt the "less said about the entire matter, the better, adding:

"In fact, I regret the public has seen fit to become so highly interested in the matter."

Miss Pickford's disclosure was made in a roundabout manner in answer to a question as to what were the possibilities of a reconciliation.

Miss Pickford disclosed also she had reecived a telephone call from Fairbanks in Paris before he sailed for the United States. She declined to disclose the nature of the conversation.

Mary alighted from her train here and was besieged by a group of autograph seekers. Several relatives also were on hand to greet her, including 6-year-old Hugh Chalif, a son of Mrs. Verna Chalif, Miss iPckford's cousin.

The boy presented Miss Pickford a ring as a homecoming gift. The actress smiled:

"But he says he can't marry me yet."

Miss Pickford said that as far as she knew Fairbanks' immediate plans after reaching New York

Mountains Hunted For 13 Jailbreakers

MARYVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Officers today searched the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains for 13 prisoners who escapepd from the Blount County Jail last night after overpowering Robert French, the jailer.

Sheriff E. R. McReynolds said he believed "an outside gang" aided in the jail delivery.

PLANES SEEK 'CHUTE, FLYER

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—An airplane search was started today for an aviator believed to have been lost or injured after descending by parachute in a storm last night.

Several residents in the hilly country around Custer City and Songbird, near Bradford, reported they saw the flyer coming down but did not see his airplane.

Planes from the Bradford airport circled the wooded ridge of the Alleghenies about 10 miles from this city in an effort to find the man. First surveys were fruitless.

Mrs. C. B. Hazard, a resident of Custer City, told the police she saw the parachute-jumper distinctly through field glasses.

She said he was descending slowly. It was raining at the time and a fog obscured visibility.

Plot to Blow Up Gulf Plant Charged

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Three men, described by police as striking employes of the Gulf Refining Company, were held in bail today while police continued their investigation of the finding of 32 sticks of dynamite in the home of one of them.

Supt. of Police Joseph A. Le Strange says a detective uncovered what appeared to be "the formation of a plot to destroy" a Gulf company plant in South Philadelphia.

Phantom Again Knifing, Eighth Woman Stabbed

International News Service.

DEFIANCE, O., Aug. 14.—Defiance's "phantom" knife-wielder reappeared for the sixth time here today and stabbed his seventh woman victim.

The vigilantes were summoned by a secret prearranged signal by police officials.

Victim of the latest attack of the knife-wielder was Miss Mabel Krotz, a middle-aged spinster, who was stabbed in the forearm. She was accosted as she was burning paper in the alley in the rear of her home.

Police said the description of the maniac, as given by Miss Krotz, tallied perfectly with the ones furnished by the other victims.

According to police records, the knifer made his first appearance on May 30.

In previous attacks, the victims were Mrs. Frank Bentley, Miss Kathleen Parret Mrs. C. R. Williams, Mrs. Henry Hasch, Miss Rosemary Mansfield and Mrs. Ethel Ansley. None was injured seriously.

M'NAIR GETS 'SPANKING' FROM KERR

Controller Raps Mayor For Passing Buck On Bonsall

His Honor's cries that the Controller was holding up city business in the fuss over appointment of a new City Solicitor were drowned out by Dr. Kerr's whacking retort.

The Mayor first sought to embarrass his political enemies in Council by calling a special meeting of that body to confirm Attorney Ward Bonsall as the new City Solicitor, succeeding Cornelius D. Scully, who was fired.

BUCK PASSED TO KERR

His Honor implied that, even with a majority of Council away on vacation, he had to do this because Controller Kerr would not pay the new solicitor's salary without Council confirmation.

So today in New York, where he is signing city bonds, Controller Kerr got his dander up, grabbed a telephone and dictated this statement to his Pittsburgh office:

"He (McNair) has thrown out the inference that because the City Controller's office has held up the pay of city assessors not properly appointed that it might also hold up the pay of a new City Solicitor.

"I would, of course, do nothing of the kind.

"I have an obligation under the charter and the Mayor has an obligation. When the Mayor meets his obligations he has found and will find that the Controller's office always meets its obligations.

". . . Any solicitor named by the Mayor would be paid with approval of the Controller until

Insull Lieutenant Soon to Know Fate

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—A verdict by nightfall was in prospect today in the trial of Marshall E. Sampsell, former Insull utility executive, on charges of embezzling 4,000 shares of stock of the Central Illinois Public Service Company.

Closing arguments were to begin today after the Criminal Court jury heard Sampsell's story of frenzied finance that preceded collapse of the utility empire headed by Samuel and Martin Insull.

Six Hurt In Crash On Sawmill Blvd.

Six persons were injured when two automobiles collided in Sawmill Run boulevard near Edgebrook avenue last night.

The injured, taken to Mercy Hosipital, were Harry Unimus, 30, one of the drivers; his wife, Ida, 30; their son, Norman, 7, and his sister-in-law, Miss Bella Fishoff, 24, all of Library road, and Edgar Rae, 33, and his wife, Martha, 35, of 94 Dawn avenue. The suffered lacerations and bruises.

Fan Dancer Bride of Levinsky

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—"No sir! There wasn't going to be any marryin' for the Ole Kingfish."

But early today, only a few hours after the "Ole Kingfish" issued his last declaration of independence, there was. King Levinsky of heavyweight boxing fame was married to Rosie Glickman, a World's Fair fan dancer known by the stage name of Roxanne Carmine.

None of the Kingfish's friends really knew the inside story of the sudden marriage, which was performed at Crown Point, Ind., by Justice of the Peace Edward Kemp. Some said it was a neat bit of matchmaking by "Leaping" Lena Levy, the King's sister-manager. Others figured the King denied his intention of getting married to the last minute so that he could get married secretly.

IT HAPPENED THIS WAY

Anyway, this is what happened:

At midnight, "Leaping" Lena, bristling with pride and all decked out in a new fall dress, rushed into the Associated Press office. That's happened many times before. The editors merely yawned, then they looked up. With "Leaping" Lena was a pretty girl, all smiles. "Leaping" Lena beamed. She exclaimed:

She beamed some more:

"Yeah, a fan dancer, boys. Boys, take a look—King Levinsky's wife-to-be. Rosie Glickman's the name and is the King crazy about her!"

The photo department got busy and Rosie was quickly photographed.

DENIES BRIDAL PLANS

Then someone figured it would be a good idea to call the Kingfish as the bridegroom should have something to say for himself on such an occasion. The Kingfish said evenly over the telephone:

"Aw, Lena's nuts. There ain't going to be any marryin' for the Ole Kingfish. Say, I'm not the marrying kind. After two weeks of married life, the Ole Kingfish wouldn't have a dime. Nothing doing."

Lily Pons' Poverty Myth, Says Court

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—A plea of insolvency, entered by attorneys for Lily Pons, French star of the New York Metropolitan Opera, as the reason for her non-payment of Argentine income taxes, was refused today by a court hearing the government's case against her.

The court killed the plea when it was shown that the singer had earned in Argentina and remitted to her European bankers more than 136,000 pesos (about $40,800) in two months.

Mlle. Pons departed for Europe last week.

One-Pound Baby Expected to Live

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 14.—(INS.)—The baby boy, weighing only 1 pound 3 ounces, which was born to Mr. and Mrs. Biago Sanfilipo, an Italian couple living near here, on Saturday, was reported to be holding its own today in an Atlantic City incubator.

Dr. A. L. Esposito, who attended at the birth, said the infant had "a very good chance of surviving."

Cuban Strike Grows, Army Flies Mail

HAVANA, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A strike of Cuba's postal and communications employes grew more serious today as Treasury Department workers, some bus and trammen and a group of dockworkers threatened to join it.

Air mail service to the United States was reopened after a three-day interruption, by using soldiers and civilians to fly the planes.

Gandhi Concludes Fast in Good Health

CALCUTTA, India, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Mahatma Gandhi was in excellent health and spirits today at the end of his seven-day fast in protest against the Indian government's treatment of a pundit among his followers. Physicians declared, however, that he will need three weeks of convalescence to recuperate.

3 ZOO 'CATS' SHOT, BOSS LEAVING

Ailing Lions, Tiger Destroyed, Johnston Denies Shakeup.

Things happened today at the city's much-criticized zoo.

Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston announced that Arnold J. Schaumann, the head keeper, had been granted an immediate leave of absence. Johnston denied Schaumann was leaving because the Highland Park zoo was under criticism.

And Schaumann made it known that two zoo lions and a tiger had just been destroyed.

Schaumann sails tomorrow for Germany to see his father, who he said is seriously ill.

The two lions, Romeo and Juliet, were shot because they had rickets, blamed on inbreeding.

This still leaves the zoo with five lions and one tiger, Schaumann said.

E. J. House, a member of the Zoological Commission, will take care of Schaumann's work.

This commission was appointed by Mayor McNair to investigate the zoo following charges of disgraceful conditions.

'SOCKS' HORSE BITING BOY

So he socked the horse.

There were a half-dozen youngsters picking apples in an orchard in West End.

The horse stretched out his long neck and picked up 7-year-old Hugh Finale, of 731 Hollywood street, by his neck, then dropped him.

Both horse and rider are unidentified. Maybe the horse is Cavalcade.

MEN TO VOTE IN APOLLO PLANT

National Labor Board Begins Mediation Efforts Here

The Apollo Steel Company today agreed to an election of employe representatives for collective bargaining, under supervision of the National Steel Labor Board.

The board, holding its first hearing here, sat in Federal Court and heard the petition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, as presented by Attorney Charlton Ogburn.

The agreement was reached within an hour. Yet to be decided are the form of the ballot and the date of elections.

Judge Walter P. Stacy, chairman of the board, secured the agreement of counsel and suggested that the company and the union submit the form of ballot each preferred and meet again late today. Sitting with the chairman were Admiral H. A. Wiley and Dr. James Mullenbach.

UNREST CHARGED

George Athya, chairman of the mill committee of the Amalgamated, had taken the stand just a few moments when Judge Stacy interrupted to learn that the steel concern was not unwilling to have a federal-supervised election.

Athya had talked about the unrest at the plant, and how he had difficulty keeping the men at work. He said:

"The feeling of the men is running high, although we have been trying hard to keep them at work. They claim the company is running over them, and they told us they didn't want to come back unless they get what was their rights under section 7-A of the NRA code."

Athya denied the company union was functioning, and engaged in an argument with W. J. Guthrie, attorney and vice president of the Apollo company. Athya held the so-called employes' representatives' terms expired in June.

COMPANY UNION

Guthrie maintained the employes' representation plan was functioning.

Previously, H. O. McIlwain, financial secretary of the Apollo lodge of the union, testified the Amalgamated had 890 signed members and 610 fully paid up—more than 50 per cent of the employes of the company.

Guthrie repeated that he was willing to meet representatives of his employes as such, but would continue to refuse to recognize the Amalgamated. He said the petition for an election was just a trick of the union to force recognition.

Later, both sides agreed to withdraw all testimony, and have all except the agreement stricken from the record.

'Kickless' Beer Delays Freedom for Playboy

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Aug. 14.—Harrison R. McCready, well-known Pittsburgh playboy, has lost his drinking prestige.

Not whisky or gin but merely 3.2 beer, he says, has put him back in the Preston County Jail here for 10 more days.

Temporarily released from jail to visit his attorney, McCready decided to quench his thirst, which had become "very dry" while serving a 60-day sentence for driving while intoxicated.

The 27-year-old playboy said:

"The strongest thing you can buy around here is 3.2 beer and I had about 10 bottles. The sun was shining and it was hot and it must have made me a little drunk. It never did that before. It's like soda pop in kick."

The jail authorities heard about it and didn't like his walk so they chucked his 10 days off for good behavior. So instead of being released tomorrow he will have to remain until August 26.

McCready added:

MORGENTHAU TO SEEK INTERNATIONAL MONEY PACT

SILVER POLICY TO FIGURE IN AGREEMENT

Government Officials See World Trade Spurred by Action

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Within a short time Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau plans to begin informal conversations with representatives of foreign governments looking to an international monetary agreement on silver.

The initial discussions are expected to take place between Morgenthau and ambassadors of financial attaches of the principal foreign nations. Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Russia, Japan and China, as well as some of the Latin American countries, will be sought by the United States to enter into an international money pact in an effort to develop a real world monetary system of stability.

Officials claim such a program would bring about a stabilization of international trade, regarded as the most important essential in the resumption of commercial relations between the nations of the world.

HIGHER PRICES IS AIM

The domestic silver program has been designed essentially to increase commodity prices. Officials took the view that could the world silver price be placed on a comparatively even level at 50 cents an ounce or upward there would be a pronounced reaction in the prices of other leading commodities. The gold program was fashioned to produce a similar result. But its effect, however, has been negligible.

Correspondence was made public today which clarified the relationship of the White House and the Treasury in connection with the silver program. The initial letter was dated June 14 and directed the issuance of silver certificates in the denominations of $1, $5, $10, $20 and $100 against "all silver bullion or standard silver dollars now in the Treasury not held for redemption of any outstanding silver certificates."

In addition to bullion there existed in the silver stocks about 10 million dollars in "free standard silver dollars."

BEGINS BUYING

On August 13 Morgenthau notified the Treasurer to start the issuance of silver certificates "in a face amount equal to the cost of the silver holdings." This was in contrast to the June order which provided for the issuance of certificates on the basis of $1.29 per ounce of silver.

The President, on August 13, directed Morgenthau to issue silver certificates against silver in the Treasury received on or after June 15. These certificates will be issued at the cost price of silver and the difference between the cost and the statutory price of $1.29 an ounce will be held in the Treasury. Against this surplus silver certificates may be issued later at the rate of $1.29 per ounce.

Under the order of December 21, 1933, the Treasury so far has purchased 10,671,000 fine ounces of silver. Purchases under the silver purchase act started yesterday, but so far no report has been made as to the amount acquired.

were to fly to Denver to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Fairbanks, who died in Los Angeles last week.

Speaking of her business plans, Miss Pickford said she had a number of projects pending, but was "superstitious" about discussing them in advance of their adoption. She explained:

"I have learned it is unwise to make any definite announcement on pictures until the contracts are signed. I do hope to appear in a play for Henry Duffy, but it will have to be something picturable. He wanted me for 'Mary, Queen of Scots,' but as the play was to run only two weeks, I declined.

"The type of role I prefer in doing a stage play is the real, down-to-earth human character. I do not want to do society parts that have been featured in scripts submitted to me. There are so many others who wear their clothes better than I do and all that sort of thing."

night to play a character part in a satirical comedy. It was the fruition of a long cherished ambition.

He was cast in the leading part of Oscar Jaffe, an eccentric theatrical producer, in "Twentieth Century," by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur. With him in the cast was his wife, Ruth Johnson.

A capacity audience saw a different Groucho than the favorite of the musical comedy stage and motion picture screen. Slapstick tomfoolery was gone and so, too, was the bristling stage moustache. Only an occasional sly glance cast roguishly across the footlights recalled the Groucho of old.

Weather Conditions

The high pressure that was centered over Manitoba and the Dakotas yesterday morning moved eastward, and is now located in the region of Hudson Bay and extends down over the lake region and into the Ohio Valley states. It is causing moderately cool weather over those sections. The low that caused the showery conditions over this section yesterday is now in the Far Northeast. A western low is centered over Nevada and Southern Idaho and extends over into the Dakotas. It is attended by considerable cloudiness and scattered light showers. There were, however, generous rains in portions of the Dakotas during last night. Maximum temperatures dropped below 100 degrees yesterday over Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma for the first time this month. One hundred or higher occurred, however, over most of Texas.

River Conditions

The rivers are falling slowly, except in a few localities in the upper rivers, where heavy rains occurred. Stage at Franklin is 1.10ft foot below zero; Lock No. 2 (Monongahela), 10.4; Pittsburgh, 10.8; Dam No. 4, 9.2; No. 6, 9.4; No. 10, 9.2, and No. 12, 8.2. The dams are up. The Ohio River will change but little.

GRILL 4 SEIZED IN BANK HOLDUP

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—State police today were grilling the four suspects arrested yesterday as the bandits who held up the Manor National Bank and escaped with $3,000.

The authorities would not comment on reports that two of the prisoners have confessed, but they did say that three of them are familiar to the police.

One of the suspects, Maynard Baker, alias Kinsman, is the same who was shot in the arm in Pittsburgh's East Liberty in February, 1933, by City Detective John Daley, during the chase of a suspected auto thief.

George Klaus, 19, of East Pittsburgh, who was arrested in a Pittsburgh rooming house, is the only one not known in police circles, the state officers said.

Francis Waddell, 29, alias Winters, of near Turtle Creek, is on a 15-year parole from Allegheny County, having served a six-year sentence for holdups, the police reported.

Harold E. Doriot, 20, of East End, was paroled from Huntingdon (Pa.) Reformatory after being sentenced in Allegheny County. In one instance he was sentenced to a year as the driver of a stolen auto in which a friend was killed in a wreck.

LINE DRIVE HITS FILM 'ATHLETE'

JACK HOLT

Holt and Brophy were participating in a scene depicting a baseball game with a group of youngsters. Brophy was pitching, Holt batting.

Brophy uncorked a fast one just as Actor Jimmie Butler, playing third, let loose a particularly loud cheer of the Bronx variety. Brophy turned toward third and Holt connected. The ball traveled virtually a straight line toward the pitcher's box, felling Brophy.

EX-QUEEN JOINS ALFONSO AT SON'S BIER

Victoria Mourns for Youth Doomed by Family Affliction

POERTSCHACH - ON - WOERTHER SEE, Austria, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A grief-stricken mother hurried today to this peaceful lake retreat where lay the body of Prince Don Gonzalo, 19-year-old son of Spain's former rulers.

Watching over the youth's body were his father, former King Alfonso, and other relatives.

Throughout the day a stream of village sympathizers called to express condolences. Almost every head of state in the world cabled expressions of sorrow to the popular Alfonso, who has met with a series of misfortunes since he was deprived of his throne.

Physicians said a simple operation would have saved the prince, who died Sunday night following an automobile accident, but they did not dare use knives. The slightest lesion, they feared, would cause the royal youth to bleed to death because of haemophilia, the family affliction.

Former Queen Victoria was notified of her son's death while in the resort village of Davos, Switzerland, and left immediately for Austria.

The date of the funeral will not be set until her arrival. The secretary of Alfonso told the Associated Press by telephone from the villa:

"I am sorry I cannot give you any details of the funeral arrangements, or even the date, as everything will be decided by her majesty, Queen Victoria, who is expected today."

England Forging Ahead, Heinz Declares; People Have Faith in Leaders

England is forging ahead in business because the people have confidence in their government and its avoidance of experiments that are not founded on the fundamental principles of economics, Howard Heinz, president of the H. J. Heinz Company, said today on his return from Europe.

He said he found that the government's policies are so clearly defined that trade and sentiment are not disturbed by uncertainties.

Heinz, who is chairman of the National Industrial Conference Board, visited England to witness the opening of the latest addition to his company's London plant. He also attended the sessions of the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris.

ENGLAND PROSPEROUS

He said:

"My visit to England was the most encouraging of any since the war. England is comparatively prosperous. Steel, tool and machine, building and other statistics show remarkable forward strides from the low levels of the depression and in many instances industries are running full. People are better dressed and have smiles on their faces. Theaters, movies and races have never been so well attended. Swimming pools are being established along the roadsides, for England has adopted this form of recreation.

"England is handling her unemployment problem through a sound system whereby the employe, the employer and the government have a tri-party agreement which guarantees the worker 26 weeks of unemployment insurance money before he is put on relief.

TEN YEAR TRIAL

"There are various reasons for this improvement. England has gone through a reconstruction period, covering at least 10 years. During that time she has tried few radical experiments and declined to violate and defy natural economic principles. England was forced off the gold standard in 1931, but has not tampered with her monetary system. The banks and the government work together, through one of the best banking systems in the world. Banks and government have confidence in each other, and the people have confidence in both, as well as their monetary system. Because of this general spirit of confidence, England is moving forward, despite a temporary reactionary movement which is considered natural, but not discouraging.

"When she was compelled to go off the gold standard, England saw to it that her commodity price and wage levels were held stable. As a result of this remarkable control, there have been few wage disputes and strikes. There has been only a four-point advance in the cost of living, and most of this recently. In my opinion, should the commodity price level go up because of tariffs and subsidies, England will be prepared to meet the necessary wage increases and keep price levels and wages in balance.

MONEY STABILIZED

"The British believe monetary stabilization is fundamental to world recovery. They realize that exchange stabilization is impossible until the countries which desire it can come to a definite declared policy on their interior commodity price level as well as a fixed monetary policy.

"Most of the people I interviewed feel that nothing can be done about the British debt to the United States for some time. England does not have the gold to pay, and we cannot take goods because payment in that form would result in additional unemployment. The British, however, do not have repudiation in mind.

"As to France, there is growing unemployment there. The people have great confidence in the franc and have hoarded about 30,000,000,000 francs. Technically, France can probably remain on the gold standard no matter what happens to the rest of the gold bloc, but the high rate of exchange is so affecting her exports that some authorities feel she will regard it advisable to devalue the franc in relation to sterling and dollars, should there be stabilization in these two currencies."

Boil Well Water, Health Head Warns

bus, in his tiny caravel, might have predicted a sailing ship 100 feet long. He could not have dreamed of a ship 1,000 feet long, driven by steam.

THE FUTURE will see the 1,000-foot long lighter-than-air ship, all metal, flying above clouds, storms and high winds, sailing around and around the earth, dropping smaller ships with passengers for various ports, New York, San Francisco, Tokio, etc.

And such ships, taking in "wireless power" from waterfalls and other power plants along their route, will be burdened with no fuel load and come down to earth rarely, for major repairs.

What men can imagine they can do.

Huge Slide at Niagara Due to Winter's Cold

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Low water and the extreme cold of last winter were blamed today for the 30,000,000-pound rock slide from the brink of the Horseshoe Falls.

Charles F. Seyfred, superintendent of the Niagara reservation on Goat Island, which separates the Horseshoe Falls from the American cataract, pointed out the cold caused the rocky lip of the waterfall to crack, due to the absence of water. Heat expansion this summer caused the rock to move gradually until it broke off yesterday, he said.

Prof. Reginald H. Fagrum, University of Buffalo geologist, said the rim of the Canadian, or Horseshoe Falls, has shown within the last 15 years a greater tendency to disintegrate than the American side, because of the "tremendous fall of water on the Canadian side which constantly undermines the underlying soft shale."

Nature having done a bit of plastic surgery, the face of Horseshoe Falls today presented a smoother appearance to those who follow the honeymoon trail to this resort spot.

A heavy flow of water now rushes over a section of the brink of the Canadian cataract which was dry until the rock collapse of yesterday.

Eventually, science reckons, the sloping limestone ledge will crumble away and the falls will degenerate into a series of rapids. That, however, is [illegible] hands of years in the future. The falls recedes five feet [illegible]

1,500 CLERGY ARRESTED IN GERMANY

Catholics, Protestants Seized to Enforce Hitler's Rules

By TOM WILHELM
International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Fifteen hundred Catholic and Protestant pastors have been arrested in Reichsbishop Mueller's campaign to force all German clergymen to submit to control by the Hitler government, International News Service learned today.

Of these 670 are reported to be still under detention.

These figures represent arrests in Prussia alone, where resistance to Reichsbishop Mueller's decrees has been strongest.

PRIESTS DETAINED

It is estimated that probably 250 Catholic priests are still detained. Among them is Father Stiller, Jesuit lecturer at Friedburg University and a well-known writer. Father Stiller is accused of having sent letters to the Vatican, among them being one from former Vice Chancellor von Papen.

Seven hundred of the arrested Protestant clergymen are said to have been detained for investigation because they are members of Masonic lodges.

Among the prominent Protestant pastors arrested were the Rev. Karl Habicht, the Rev. Dietrich Graue, the Rev. Franz Behrend, chaplain of the Moabit prison in Berlin, and several former pastors of the imperial court.

RUMOR BISHOPS IELD

The government amnesty decree, announced last week, has become effective and 3,000 prisoners, political and minor criminal offenders, have been released from prison and concentration camps. No prominent personages, so far as can be determined, have benefited by the amnesty decree.

called. It was true. The Kingfish and Rosie had just been married. The Kingfish was married under his real name of Harry Krakow and gave his age as 23. The bride gave her name as Rosie Glickman, 19.

HONEYMOON SECRET

You couldn't reach the Kingfish today. He and his bride were registered in a Loop hotel, but their telephone went unanswered. "Leaping" Lena had given orders not to be disturbed until 3 p. m. "Leaping" Lena was asked:

"Where did the Kingfish and Rosie go on their honeymoon?"

The reply was:

"Up and down the United States highway and then to Chicago."

STUPENDOUS! HE CRIES

The Kingfish was located later at the bridal suite. The happy man was asked how he liked being a benedict. He shouted:

"Stupendous! I just met her a week ago yesterday and fell in love with her right away. Asked her to marry me in 15 minutes. She 'okay,' but my sister Lena squawked and I had to think of my public, too, so I waited awhile."

Then, to his bride:

"I got lots of managers now, eh, kid?"

"Yes, dear, and now you're going to be the champ."

"Sure, kid, but Baer won't give me a shot at the title. Hey, lemme see the papers. When the Kingfish gets married, they all know about it and when some other mug gets hitched, who knows about it? My public, see what I mean?

AUSTRIA ASKS TO KEEP ARMY

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—British official quarters stated today that Austria has asked permission of other European powers to retain for another year the 8,000 extra soldiers who have been on the rolls of the Austrian army for the last 12 months.

When told of reports published abroad that Austria wanted a bigger army to prevent a new "putsch," a British spokesman replied:

"There is nothing to it. A year ago this month the powers gave Austria permission to add 8,000 men to her army.

"All Austria wants now is the right to retain those men on her lists. The powers are studying the request, which just has been made in a routine fashion."

Reds Battle Hitler Via Phone Books

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Special Hitler guards sped about Berlin today confiscating telephone books in public booths after the discovery Communists had rubber-stamped them:

"Not one vote for that betrayer of the people and workmen—Hitler! Vote for Thaelmann!"

Arrests Emphasize French-Polish Rift

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Indicative of the tenseness in relations between France and Poland, once close allies, three Frenchmen, including two directors of the French-owned Zyrareow Textile Company, were arrested today, charged with "managing the factory contrary to the best interests of Polish stockholders."

Von Papen Flies To Austrian Post

15 More Face Gallows In Dollfuss Putsch

VIENNA, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Fifteen more Nazis were marched into a courtroom today to be tried for treason, a grim procedure which has left eight of their fellows dangling on the gallows.

They are accused of participation in the seizure of a radio station and the chancellery July 25 in an uprising which resulted in the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss. More than 100 other Nazis are awaiting their turns to go on trial here.

Austria's hangman, although he is having a busy season, observes the formalities. Not even the weather interferes.

He wore faultless evening dress and a high silk hat when he executed four policemen last night, a few hours after they were convicted of participation in the Nazi revolt. A steady rain fell as the four went to their deaths in the yard of the district court building.

They went through the ordeal stoically, rejecting the opportunity to make a final statement. Five other policemen tried with them were given prison terms ranging from 15 years to life.

Just before the verdict was announced 260 Vienna policemen were jailed on charges of affiliation with the Nazi cause. Many other persons in various provinces are under arrest, pending their trial.

MRS. CULBERTSON'S EXPERTS DEFEATED BY AMATEURS

'WATCH HE-MEN HOWL!' BRIDGE EXPERT SAYS

'Delighted to Lose' With Ely at Home Minding Children

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—After defeating the pick of the eastern bridge experts, four young men from Ohio who play bridge for the fun in the game, and not as a business, had possession today of one of the country's most prized trophies, the team-of-four award of the American Bridge League.

Virtually a "pickup" team of four, the two pairs never before having played together, the Ohioans first eliminated the famous "Four Aces" in the semi-finals and then last night beat by 2,550 points a combination of four New York experts captained by Mrs. Josephine Culbertson.

Members of the winning team are William F. Hopkins and Charles H. Porter, of Cincinnati, and Aaron Frank and Jeff Glick, of Cleveland. Hopkins and Frank are attorneys, Glick is a salesman and Porter is a businessman.

Playing with Mrs. Culbertson were Alphonse Moyse, Sherman Stearns and Theodore Lightner, all of New York, who used the bridge system sponsored by Mrs. Culbertson's husband, Ely Culbertson.

Mrs. Culbertson Tells Of Defeat by Amateurs

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—In all sports men compete against men and women against women, but in the most gruelling, nerve-devastating and longest of all competitions—national contract bridge championships—the best players of both sexes become slightly insane and are worked up into a frenzy of excitement in the relentless fight for the first, second or third places in contract bridge.

The last contract bridge championship began one week ago and ended only last night with the finals for the main event, the team-of-four contract bridge championship play, in which the western team of Messrs. Jeff Glick, Aaron Frank, Foster Hopkins and Charles Porter, of Cleveland and Cincinnati, inflicted such a superb defeat on my team, made up of tried veterans like Theodore A. Lightner, A. Moyse, Jr., and Sherry Stearns.

Because my three teammates, like real he-men, could not agree which of them was the greatest player, I was unanimously elected the captain—and now, of course, a few hundred thousand men are murmuring out of their wives' hearing:

"What do you expect with a woman on the team and a captain at that?"

The finals were played by two teams. At the start there were 32 teams of 128 experts and super experts. After a series of most surprising upsets Mr. Sims' team was knocked out by Mr. Jacoby's team, and Mr. Sims almost knocked out Mr. Jacoby.

Then the team of Mr. Burnstine and Mr. Jacoby was knocked out in turn and yesterday afternoon the westerners met for the finals with my team. We were defeated by brilliant bidding and play.

VICTORY FOR WEST

This is the first time in many years that a western team has come to the East and carried away the trophy. I am delighted. In fact I am so delighted that I will venture a statement with which my husband will probably disagree. He has nothing to say in the matter since I took his place so that he could stay at home and finish his book and attend to the children. I say:

"I am more pleased that the western team won than if we had won it ourselves."

And this is particularly so as we were outbid and outplayed all along the line. It was wonderful. But even if I had won it would not have been worth the six days I have missed seeing my two real champions, Joyce and Bruce. And I agree with the vehement protest they entered:

"Why should you go away, Mummy, to play cards with strangers? We can beat you here."

PRICE OF BEER FIXED BY PACT

Agreement by Pittsburgh brewers to co-operate with wholesale beer distributors of Allegheny County in maintaining present prices under the new National Recovery Administration set-up, effective September 1, has been reached, Harry I. Neaman, local member of the beer regional board announced. The new prices will be $1.45 a case to the distributor, $1.70 to the retailer, and $1.90 for home delivery.

The agreement was aimed to prevent small retailers, such as drug stores, candy stores and grocery stores from purchasing beer from the brewers at the same price the distributors pay.

Mr. Hill

The director did not set a specific value on the estate in the will, but set forth it was "over $10,000."

NIAGARA DEATH PUZZLES KIN

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 14.—Police here after hours of questioning relatives and friends of the dead woman, have admitted inability to determine the motive for the suicidal plunge of Mrs. Ruth W. Hyde from a cable car into the swirling rapids of the Niagara River Sunday.

The attractive, titian-haired 32-year-old wife of two years appeared to be an ideal companion for her 87-year-old husband, William P. Hyde, wealthy Bradford oil producer. Before her marriage the young woman had been employed as housekeeper by Hyde.

They were together constantly after marriage. Mrs. Hyde was regarded as an unusually solicitous wife. In return, her husband provided for her most liberally. Ever smartly dressed, she had a car of her own. Only a few weeks ago Hyde had presented his wife a check for $1,000.

Crushed and heart broken over his wife's death, Hyde today could not explain her action. Other relatives say Mrs. Hyde never had intimated she was anything but happy.

DEATH 'FINIS' TO AUSTIN BOOK

SANTA FE, N. M., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The final work of Mrs. Mary Austin, 66, noted American writer, with more than a score of books to her credit, may never be published.

Mrs. Austin, at work on a sequel to her "Starry Adventure," published in 1931, ceased writing yesterday to lie down for a nap. Heart disease claimed her life as she slept. She had been in ill health for many months.

Her books dealt with many subjects. "Starry Adventure," was, perhaps, the best known and was one of the last things she had published. She wrote two plays, one called "Fire," produced in the Forest Theater, Carmel, Cal., in 1914, and the other, "The Man Who Didn't believe in Christmas," in New York two years later.

Mrs. Austin was married to Stafford W. Austin, of Bakersfield, in 1891. He died four years ago.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A mysterious cablegram received here from Los Angeles may lead to exhumation of the body of "Dolores," famous model who died here last week, it was reported today by the London Daily Sketch. The cable said:

"Daughter Vivian Benton wants Dolores de Castolane, buried Potters Field Wednesday, shipped here. Cable total costs."

Edwin Schofield, father of the lovely woman who was known to thousands as "Dolores," to a very few by her own name, said he was mystified by the message. He explained he had paid for a decent burial for his daughter, and had no idea what the request could mean.

ROUT ATTACKER OF GIRL

Homestead police today were searching for a Negro who attempted to attack Miss Helen Sullivan, 22, in her home, West Eleventh and Sarah streets, yesterday.

ALL-STEEL SHIP LAUNCHED HERE

The Peace, a new all-steel Diesel driven towboat, rode the Ohio River today.

A large crowd, including many rivermen, watched with interest as workmen knocked away restraining blocks on the ways at noon today, and the boat started her flight into the Ohio.

Five more weeks of work remain on the boat, which has been built for the Union Barge Line Corporation. Her total cost will be $250,000, Dravo officials say.

The Peace has a length of 160 feet with a beam of 34.

The Peace, officials said, will be classified as A-1 for river service by the American Bureau of Shipping. A sister ship is under construction.

BABY HOSTAGE FOR DEBT FREE

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mrs. Beatrice McNabey, 23-year-old red-haired Baltimore cabaret entertainer, was reunited today with her 2-year-old daughter, Norma Jean Taylor, whom a North Bergen woman had held as security for the payment of a board bill.

Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow ordered Mrs. Clara Gross to return the child to its mother and ruled he had no jurisdiction in the matter of the payment of the bill.

Mrs. Gross said the child had been in her care for 14 months at $10 a week and that $530 was due her. Mrs. McNabey, whose professional name is Bea Baxter, said only $250 is due.

She was ordered by the court to pay Mrs. Gross' counsel fees of $25.

Midnight Love Trysts Laid to Movie Cutie

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—Beautiful blonde Ena Gregory Rogell held romantic midnight rendezvous with William Van R. Smith, wealthy retired Beverly Hills attorney-capitalist at his luxurious 22-room villa, her husband, Alfred Rogell, noted movie director, charged today in a $150,000 alienations of affections suit against Smith.

Rogell on Saturday filed suit for divorce, accusing his actress-wife of being over-friendly for seven and one-half years with other men and with attending cocktail parties while he rested at home. Today's action, however, named Smith as the man who broke up the Rogell home.

Mrs. Rogell said the past week she had stayed at the home of her mother because Rogell had locked her out.

The dazzling blonde declared she was "shocked" at Rogell's charges and said the love balm suit was "completely upsetting."

Said defendant Smith:

DE MILLE WINS CENSOR O.K. BY 'GOOD TASTE'

Noted Producer, Here, Seeks 'Queen' for Newest Film

Two words which spelled fame for Cecil B. DeMille today were voiced by the noted producer in answer to filmdom's newest dilemma—censors vs. sex. They are:

"Good taste."

Making a forced stopover here due to fog over the Alleghenies while flying from Los Angeles to New York, DeMille explained his view of the situation which has all Hollywood agog and stooped in gurtly. He said:

"I have no use for vulgarity in any form in any art. It's unnecessary.

"I've produced 66 pictures, and the censors have never interfered with me."

SCORNS SHEARS

Asked if the thought of censors' scissors played any part in production of his vehicles, he replied:

"Of course not! I don't think what the censors will think—I think of what ladies and gentlemen will think."

DeMille further revealed his search for a girl to portray Queen Berengeria in his forthcoming production, "The Crusades," and held out a bit of hope to the thespian ambitious—and talented. He declared:

"There's plenty of room in Hollywood for good actors. I don't mean the youngsters who scrimp and save just to go to Hollywood—I mean those with real talent."

DON'T GO 'BROKE'

But, he added, their finances should include six months' maintenance and fare home.

His "Queen Berengeria" will not be of the tall, regal type, he disclosed. Describing his objective, he said:

"Something—well, like Helen Hayes but. . . Well, you know—like Helen Hayes. As a matter of fact, I can't find anything wrong with Helen Hayes."

And so—who knows?—the demure Miss Hayes herself may be the Queen. In the meantime, however, DeMille will scrutinize New York's stock companies and keep an eye open generally.

His destination the world premiere of his "Cleopatra" tonight, the producer's stay here was his second forced stopover since leaving Los Angeles Thursday morning. The DeMille party, traveling by private plane, spent Thursday night at the Grand Canyon, due to adverse weather conditions. En route, DeMille spoke at Denver and Kansas City. His visit to New York is his first summer trip East in 18 years.

HOSPITAL-FORT FOR '5 QUEENS'

CALLANDER, Ontario, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The new home of the Dionne quintuplets is to be "The Dafoe Hospital," named in honor of Dr. A. R. Dafoe, who attended at the birth of the five little girls 11 weeks ago yesterday and has seen them every day since.

The building, now under construction, is expected to be ready September 1.

Even the parents of the children will not be allowed to visit the building, and the babies will be kept isolated there as long as they need constant medical attention.

It was planned to construct a six-foot fence around the new home with a barbed wire top to assure privacy against prowlers and tourists seeking to catch a glimpse of the children, still confined to incubators.

CRUEL MOTHER SAVED BY CHILD

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A mother who punished her 6-year-old daughter with fire was free today because of the intercession of the child.

Little Nora Ruth Niciforos told Justice Eugene Daney, Jr.:

"I love my mommy. I was a bad, bad girl and picked things up after she told me not to. She never was mean to me before."

And because of her daughter's plea, the court released Mrs. Milana Niciforos, who admitted holding the little girl's fingers over gas flames as a punishment, with a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

The girl's fingers were burned severely.

Delay Boy's Trial In 'Queen's' Death

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 14.—(Universal)—Prosecutor Paul Updegraff failed in his fight for an immediate special session of court for the trial of Neal Myers, University of Oklahoma pharmacy student accused of murder in the death of his beauty queen sweetheart, Marian Mills.

Denying Updegraff's plea for a special session, the court tentatively set September 10 as the date for the trial to begin.

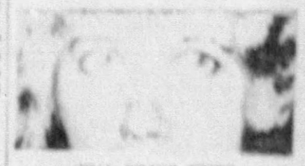
'I AIN'T AFRAID,' SAYS EVA COO, FIGHTING CHAIR

'Ruth Snyder Eyes' Defiant at Insurance Murder Trial.

By JAMES H. STREET

Universal Service.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Eva Coo, whose eyes look like those of Ruth Snyder, who went to the death chair with



EVA COO'S EYES

Judd Gray several years ago for the murder of her husband, and whose fate may be the same as that of the beautiful blonde of that tragedy, is on trial charged with killing a man near a haunted house in order to collect insurance on his life.

The crime for which Ruth Snyder and Gray paid the supreme penalty in the death chamber at Sing Sing had for its motive the collection of the victim's life insurance. And Mrs. Anna Antonio, frail little Italian mother, electrocuted last week, went to the same chair for hiring two men to murder her husband for his insurance.

FOUR JURORS PICKED

Only four jurors had been tentatively approved by the state when court opened today.

Eva—her friends call her Eve—is charged with luring her handyman, Harry Wright, to the midnight shadows of a deserted mountain homestead and knocking him down while her alleged accomplice, Martha Clift, seesawed a heavy automobile over his broken body, until he was dead. The alleged motive was insurance. Mrs. Coo had $9,000 worth on his life.

RUTH SNYDER'S EYES

The buxom blonde gave Universal Service the first complete interview she has granted since her indictment.

NOT AFRAID, SHE SAYS

Her eyes darted nervously—cold eyes like Snyder had and her fingers twitched nervously, but she smiled and said:

"I ain't afraid. I ain't afraid of nothing. I did not do it. Why, I wouldn't hurt a fly. I cried when my parrot died. I had taken Harry in when his Ma died. His Ma was my friend, one of the few I ever had. I gave Harry work. Now they say I killed him.

"But I ain't afraid. I got faith in God and my lawyer. My word is as good as anybody's before the law, ain't it?"

"My past? Humph, I ain't got nothing to say except I was born in Washington state and I ain't got no folks in this country. My husband died in Washington."

She wore brown shoes, straw hat and a sweater suit. Her hair was frizzy. She is particular about her hair and had a barber fix it before the trial.

Mrs. Cliff was not present in court. She is under separate indictment and the concensus is she will turn on Eva and try to save herself as a state's witness.

EARLE PLEDGES REALTY TAX RELIEF

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate, George H. Earle, today pledged his support in Pittsburgh to reduce taxation on real estate, in a signed statement to the Tax Justice League of Pennsylvania.

Earle's statement declared that the "present onerous tax burden" on homes, farms and real estate must be relieved. It continued:

"I pledge my administration to the enactment of an income tax exclusively for school purposes to lighten the school taxes on real estate.

"School taxes on real estate should and must be reduced to a minimum. Drastic economies in the state government will also be effected to the end that a greater contribution may be made by the state to the school system."

ACTIVE HERE

Earle, who has made Pittsburgh his campaign headquarters during the past few days, made his statement today in the presence of Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

He continued:

"I strongly favor consolidation of city and county governments wherever possible provided, however, that there shall be no interference with or abatement of the rights of self-government of the communities involved.

"I shall sponsor and support legislation enabling the various political subdivisions of the commonwealth to abate penalties, interests and costs on all delinquent taxes.

"Immediately upon my induction into office, I shall take steps to insure a constitutional convention to permit modernization of our state government."

EARLE'S PLEDGES

In addition, Earle pledged himself to:

"Economy and efficiency in governmental operation.

"Elimination of waste in the collection of state taxes.

"Abolition of excessive fees in the collection of all taxes.

"Enactment of legislation to bring to an end exploitation of consumers by public utility corporations.

"A balanced budget through the limitation of expenditures to a normal and reasonable income. The maintenance of the state's credit is imperative.

"Honest elections and the necessary revision of our laws to prevent election frauds."

TEACHERS' PAY CUTS CURBED

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Only four school districts in the state have been granted permission to reduce teacher salaries below 90 per cent of the 1932-33 level, Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, announced today.

Dr. Rule attributed improved financial conditions to a reduction in the number of districts requesting such permission. Last year about 200 districts asked such permission and fewer than 100 were granted.

This year about 50 districts made the request, but financial affairs for practically all have been adjusted by the department through economies and allocations from a special aid fund of $5,000,000.

Such action, Rule said, will make possible opening of every school in the state on schedule.

Search for Banker Missing From Fair

MAYWOOD, N. J., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—George H. Gray, 42-year-old banker, who vanished while en route to the World's Fair at Chicago, today was the object of a nation-wide police search.

Gray has been missing since August 2, when he started by airplane for Chicago. The plane was forced down at Altoona, Pa., and its passengers were supposed to continue their journey by train. Gray has not been heard of since he left the plane.

Driver Ordered Held In Death of Child

Ray Sigley, 28, of Washington, Pa., was ordered held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge in the death of 5-year-old Ruth Kilyk, in a Coroner's jury today.

Ruth was killed three weeks ago when an auto struck her on the sidewalk outside her home at 636 Nobelstown road, Greentree.

POLITICS

State Liquor Stores Political Issue

By MARK SHIELDS

The state's liquor store system will confront the Republican party as a potential campaign issue when the Republican State Committee meets in Pittsburgh in September to frame a platform.

Mr. Shields

Attorney General Willis A. Schnader, the gubernatorial candidate, prepared the liquor store legislation in the last special session of the General Assembly at the instance of Gov. Pinchot.

Later he negotiated with distillers an agreement on the controversial floor . . . x whereby the state assumed . . . considerable liquor debt, the explanation being that in no other way except through compromise could the state get any revenue through taxation. The tax, of course, as with all taxes, is being passed on to the consumers, and is not producing the predicted revenue.

Many Republicans as well as many Democrats disapprove the state store system.

The Democra' at their last convention sidetracked the subject with the observation that the stores had not had sufficient time to demonstrate their effectiveness in handling the liquor traffic. George H. Earle, the Democratic opponent to Schnader, as well as the Philadelphia Democratic leaders, was in a mood to condemn the stores, and Earle may take up the subject in later speeches, despite its absence from the platform.

Republican unrest is beginning through the Young Republicans. Questionnaires have been sent to them throughout the state. The questions deal with prices, availability of stores, effect on bootlegging and similar subjects.

Provides Excuse For Extra Session

But the pungent question is this:

"Is it generally known in your county that the failure of the liquor stores to produce $20,000,000 profit to go toward relief (which was promised when the law was passed) is solely and directly responsible for the excuse the Democrats have found to force our state into a special session of the Legislature?"

Tonight in Delaware County Charles W. Carroll, state chairman of the Young Republicans plans to have some critical things to say about the stores at a rally of his associates. It is assumed he will suggest that the platform committee should take action on the stores and submit to the coming committee meeting here suggestions for revision of the present state liquor act.

So far in discussion among legislative candidates of both parties in Allegheny County there has been little mention of the liquor stores as an issue, but it is a live topic in Philadelphia, where chief opposition arose in the special session.

Coleman Calls Meeting Of County Leaders

Republican County Chairman William H. Coleman has invited all Republican county officials to a luncheon conference Wednesday, at which time discussion of the coming campaign will start among the regulars. Strategy will be mulled over, and the formation of a campaign committee will be canvassed, though there is no intention of making the campaign from the organization standpoint a battle by office holders.

Coleman intends to have his own committee, independent of that being formed by William B. McFall, comprising Republicans who have not in the past played the game with the regulars. The Republican county chairman is not apparently disturbed at suggestions the McFall committee will be the chief agency for the state ticket in Allegheny County.

While he has not spoken himself for publication on the subject, associates of the county chairman profess a confidence that if either body is to be paramount it will be the Coleman committee, headed by the regularly chosen local party leader.

Col. Peyton Flies To Vets' Reunion

Col. E. G. Peyton, wartime colonel of the 320th Infantry, left Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., early today in an Army plane bound for Pittsburgh, according to word received here. Col. Peyton, one of the few World War officers still on active duty, is en route to the convention of the 80th Division Veterans' Association, of which he is national commander. The convention opens Thursday at Conneaut Lake Park.

OHIO PRIMARY FIGHT SPLITS DEMOCRATS

Associated Press.

Primary elections were held in four states today, ending campaigns marked with bitter words and the threat of senatorial investigations.

The sharpest contests lay in Ohio and Nebraska, with less spectacular primaries in Idaho and Arkansas.

The Ohio primary had a three-cornered scrap for the Democratic senatorial nomination as its focal point. Gov. George White, former Gov. Vic Donahey and Representative Charles West all sought the nomination in a fight embracing all factions of the party. United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, supporting West, charged Gov. White with buying support with highway jobs and threatened a senatorial investigation if White were nominated.

FESS BATTLES THREE

The Republican senatorial race found Senator Simeon D. Fess, G. O. P. stalwart, opposed by four candidates. For Governor the Republicans had seven candidates in the ring and the Democrats three.

In Nebraska, a fight between Gov. Charles W. Bryan and Arthur F. Mullen, former national committeeman, for control of the Democratic party was the high spot. Bryan, seeking the senatorial nomination, was opposed by Representative E. R. Burke, supported by Mullen. Bryan supporters have charged Mullen with pouring money into the state to nominate Burke and two Republican candidates have predicted Senator George W. Norris would ask an investigation of campaign funds.

Nine candidates sought the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, while five were entered in the Republican race. Five sought the Republican senatorial nomination.

FIGHT IN IDAHO

Gov. C. Ben Ross' bid for a third term as Governor of Idaho attracted the major interest in that state's primary. He was opposed by Frank Martin, former state attorney general, and Ashel B. Wilson, member of the State Board of Education. Three candidates sought the Republican gubernatorial nomination. The state also had congressional contests.

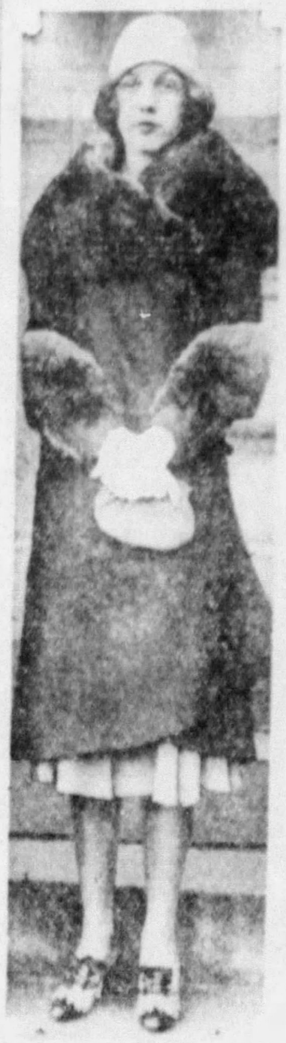
In Arkansas Gov. J. Marion Futrell sought renomination against former State Controller Howard A. Reed. The state's seven representatives in Congress all sought renomination.

10,902 Licensed To Sell Liquor

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—The Liquor Control Board has granted 10,902 retail liquor licenses and refused 2,286, according to its latest summary today.

Collection of $22,848 for licenses this month brought the total to $2,741,958. Checks are now being prepared totaling $598,400 for mailing to municipal units as refunds on licenses for the month period ending August 1.

Vare Heiress



MRS. MILDRED VARE KIPP

FAMILY GETS VARE WEALTH

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The will of William S. Vare, leaving the bulk of his estate to his wife and two daughters, has been admitted to probate today.

The petition accompanying the will gives the nominal value of the late political leader's personal property as "$200,000" and does not list the value of his real estate. Exact value of the estate will not be determined until an inventory is filed.

Two $5,000 bequests to the Methodist Episcopal and Protestant Episcopal hospitals, are invalid under the Pennsylvania testamentary laws because Vare's death occurred less than 30 days after execution of the will.

The widow, Mrs. Ida Morris Vare, receives two-tenths of the estate outright. A similar share is to be held in trust for her benefit during her life, and after her death the principal is to revert to her daughters, Mrs. Beatrice Shaw and Mrs. Mildred Kipp. Two shares, each of three-tenths of the estate, are set aside for the daughters.

GEM ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD

R. A. Hays, roomer at 5917 Harvard street, Swissvale, was being held in the Swissvale Police Station today on a charge of being a suspicious person, while police attempted to connect him with jewel robberies in this district.

Police reported that when they arrested Hays they found jewelry worth about $3,500 in his car. Hays claims he is a salesman for a Chicago jewelry firm.

Meanwhile, authorities are searching for Thomas Grierson, of Center, Pa., who also was reported to have roomed for a time at the Harvard street address. Police want him for questioning in connection with a Dayton, O., gem robbery.

Grierson disappeared after he had taken his bride of a week, Rose Grierson, 18, to the Columbia Hospital following an auto crash in Wilkinsburg. The woman was questioned by police, but later released.

Grierson was traced to the Harvard street address, where Hays was said to have told police that he knew Grierson and would bring him to the Wilkinsburg Police Station. When Hays failed to do so, police went back to his room and found that he had moved. However, Hays was picked up early yesterday in Swissvale and jewelry was found in his car.

ASK 'MILLIONS' FROM LUKAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Paul Lukas, film actor and former Hungarian cavalry officer, was sued today for 206,100,000 crowns, or 16,568 pengos. An attorney figured that would be about $5,025.

Mr. Lukas

The suit was filed by a legal firm here for Ben Blumenthal, Budapest theatrical man, and the Theater Betriebs of Hungary, who claimed Lukas borrowed 207,772,000 crowns from them on promissory notes and paid back only 672,000 crowns.

$75,000 for Study Of Relief Outlays

A grant of $75,000 for a study of methods of spending $32,000,000 for private and public relief annually in Allegheny County has been made by the Buhl Foundation, it was announced today.

The grant was made at the request of the Federation of Social Agencies and the Community Fund, which play a large part in distribution of welfare by private agencies.

LIGHTNING HITS 4 AT MEET

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Aug. 14.—With approximately 3,000 firemen gathered here for the Western Pennsylvania Firemen Association's annual convention, this town was thrown into a turmoil when lightning struck four employes of a carnival.

When the bolt struck, the four were erecting a ladder in preparation for a high-diving act.

They were knocked to the ground.

Spectators were panic-stricken.

The victims were rushed to the Mt. Pleasant Memorial Hospital, where the condition of one of them was pronounced serious. He is George Harman, 26. The others were treated and permitted to leave the hospital.

Two Tarentum firemen were injured at the opening of the convention yesterday, one of whom drove a spike through his hand while helping erect a tent. The other received a heavy blow on his leg from a mallet.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—A resolution praising William Randolph Hearst for his vigorous presentation to the American public of "the fundamental truths and traditions of our government" was introduced in the Legislature by Senator McNaboe, New York Democrat.

The measure calls upon the State Board of Regents to improve on educational institutions the need of giving students a more complete understanding of the Federal Constitution "and the merit of our form of government and the guarantees of liberty embraced thereunder."

ZIEGFELD GIRL 'CINDERELLA' ONCE MORE

Universal Service.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 14.—It's only in the story that the prince finds Cinderella. In real life she dashes home to her kitchen when midnight strikes and is promptly forgotten.

Her prince appeared in the person of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, who glorified her as the "typical Colleen" and made her the toast of the big town.

Instead of the pumpkin coach, there was a Rolls Royce, and instead of the king's palace a penthouse on Central Park West. Her pictures were in all the papers; her jewels and gowns were famous. And then the hour struck and she disappeared.

Reporters working on a murder story here wandered into a quick-order lunchroom today and one of them eyed the pretty waitress who took his order. He said:

"I know the face, but the name?"

"Eve. The rest of it is Shannon."

Maybe Cinderella didn't mind the kitchen so much after she had danced at the ball. Eve Shannon certainly didn't seem to mind the lunchroom. She smiled as she said:

"There weren't many jobs on Broadway. And my father is a miner and he was out of work. This job pays $12 a week and tips, so I took it."

FINISH PLANS FOR VETERANS

Nearly 200 members of the general committee which next week will be host to 25,000 delegates and visitors to the thirty-sixth national encampment of United Spanish War Veterans, made final reports last night at a banquet in Donahoe's cafeteria.

Capt. Robert S. Cain, general chairman, presided. Quartermaster Gen. James J. Murphy, of Washington, was guest of honor. At the meeting it was reported that all hotels will be filled to capacity, and application for 60 air-conditioned railroad cars has been made in order to care for all visitors.

The encampment, scheduled through August 23, will open with a memorial service in Nixon Theater Sunday night. Heading the list of convention speakers are Judge Leon McCord, of the Supreme Court of Alabama; Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing; William H. Armstrong, commander-in-chief; Mayor McNair and Col. C. C. McGovern.

A highlight of the mammoth meet will be a "veterans' field day" at South Park next Tuesday.

Flier, Crash Victim, Wills Fund Here

Herman Greig Veeder, Jr., who was killed in a plane crash near Junin, Aurgentina, two months ago, left an estate of more than $10,000 to his mother, Mrs. Mabel Marshall Veeder, of Denniston avenue, his will revealed today.

Veeder, a Cornel graduate, had been in South America for 10 month inspecting oil tanks constructed by McClintic-Marshall Corporation.

Poor Champ! He Has No Corn to Husk

MR. HENRIKSEN IN ACTION

Title at Stake, Drought Plays Dirty Trick

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Consider the case of Sherman E. Henriksen, of Lancaster County, Neb., who is the corn husking champion of the United States, a title he won last year in the national meet in Nebraska.

Henriksen, who in winning last year qualified as a home state boy who made good, is in a tough spot this year. He has a championship to defend and no corn to practice on.

Asked if he intended to defend the title, Henriksen laughed and said, "I will if there is any corn left to pick." He added:

"A fellow should have a little corn to practice on. He needs to get out and pick a few hundred bushels to limber up his fingers and get the range of the wagon, but there isn't a hundred bushels of corn in this entire county.

"What there is in the fields will all be cut and silaged, but it'll make good feed and what isn't cut will make good fodder."

But field or no field to practice on, the champion sees one bright aspect of the situation. It looks like he won't have to engage in any county elimination before the state meet.

Leaves Daughters Bequests of $5

Patrick J. Devlin, of Crosby avenue, whose will was filed for probate today, made these bequests: $5 each to two daughters, Mrs. Mary Devlin Herron and Mrs. Anna D. Rainey, the rest of his $5,000 estate to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Devlin, Jr., and their children.

At the hospital, according to police, Mrs. Larkin first accused her husband, W. C. Larkin, of tossing her from the car, but later said she fell out.

Larkin denied pushing her. He was arrested at his home on an assault and battery charge.

FURNITURE HEADQUARTERS

JAP PRINCESS MUM ON N. Y. NIGHT CLUBS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Their imperial highnesses Prince and Princess Kaya, of Japan, reached New York today and felt it a "great honor."

The prince and his consort were met at Quarantine by an imposing delegation of Japanese and American officials. The prince is first cousin to her imperial majesty the Empress of Japan.

A 21-gun salute boomed for them at Fort Jay as their ship steamed up the bay, and they stood upon the bridge of the Majestic to hear it.

The princess wore a large beret of ultramarine blue, a Shantung sport suit or robinsegg blue with a large dark blue bow at the neck, and white shoes. A string of pearls and a pearl ring completed her makeup.

The prince chatted for a few minutes with Japanese newspapermen in the ship's library and then bowed an invitation to the American reporters, to whom he talked through an interpreter. He said:

"We feel it a great honor to have an opportunity to visit the United States.

"My stay will be short and that I regret, but in Washington it will be a great pleasure for me to talk with the President."

The prince said he and the princess had been traveling for seven months and emphasized that his trip was not an official one, adding that he would be much pleased if his visit promoted pleasant relations between the United States and Japan.

The reporters wanted to know if the Princess had any special interests in the United States. She replied, also through the interpreter, that she wanted to see those things that all Japan is talking about. These she named as the Empire State Building, the Museum of Natural History and the "social works."

The princess said she was disappointed that she could not see the American schools because of vacation.

Somebody asked if they planned to take in any night clubs. The interpreter laughed in an embarrassed way. He said a few words to the princess. She laughed. The prince laughed. The interpreter said:

"That is an embarrassing question."

Well, then, was the princess interested in American clothes? Yes, much interested. Did she think New York had taken the leadership from Paris? She refused to say, and the interpreter explained:

"You see, she hasn't seen much of American clothes yet."

The imperial couple will see a baseball game tomorrow, visit West Point on Thursday and go to Washington Thursday night.

Fish Show Plans Mapped by Society

The Pittsburgh Acquarium Society will meet at the Hotel Henry at 8:30 tomorrow night, to discuss final arrangements for their annual fish show, to be held at Phipps Conservatory, West Park, from September 9 to 16. Miss Beatrice Schirn, president, will have charge of the meeting.

M'NAIR EXPECTS 'RIPPER,' NEWS TO LEADERS

Mayor William N. McNair believes there is a ripper bill being written that, when the next Legislature convenes, will legislate him out of office.

He said so.

But a poll of leading Democrat and Republican politicians and some members of the Legislature revealed today that it's just talk—so far.

The politicians expect a city manager bill to be introduced at the next session. One said:

"There has been one every session for a number of years, and this should be no exception."

But they say that no bill has been prepared or, for the time being, is planned.

James L. O'Toole, Jr., assistant city solicitor, who resigned last week after his chief, Cornelius D. Scully, was forced to resign by the Mayor, had this to say:

"I'm against a ripper bill. Why wait that long?"

It was apparent, however, that political leaders would not consider the matter until it should come before the Legislature.

Previously the Democrats supported a city manager bill. Such a bill might also appeal to the Republican organization now.

M'NAIR'S CALL FORCES CRISIS

COUNCIL SUMMONED

Be all that as it may, His Honor yesterday called a special Council meeting for Thursday to approve Bonsall's name.

The Mayor also announced to Council in a separate communication that he, himself, will act as city solicitor without pay until such a time as Council confirms a successor to Scully.

While the Mayor did not mention Bonsall's name in his letters, he has revealed that Bonsall is his first choice for the solicitorship.

He declared he would send Bonsall's name to Council, but qualified by adding:

"Of course if I hear that he can't be confirmed, there will be no use in sending in his name."

From present indications, the Mayor may call loudly for a special meeting, but his summons is not likely to be heard by a quorum of Council.

SAYS HE'LL PERSIST

The Mayor, however, is determined to keep calling Council meetings until he gets a quorum, he said adding:

"I'll be over in Council Thursday. If the members don't show up, I'll call another meeting for Saturday."

There are but three councilmen now at home. Two are in Ireland, one is in the Catskill Mountains, another in Denver, Col., and a fifth in Dunkirk, N. Y.

The Mayor, commenting on the councilmen's absence, said:

"The newspapers say there is a crisis. If there is, where is Council?"

FINLEY OFFERS M'NAIR BOOKS

Charles A. Finley, Mayor McNair's No. 1 adversary, has informed Mayor McNair by letter that the city's chief executive does not need a court order to inspect the books of the Traction Conference Board.

He offers to show him any of the records the Mayor may wish to see.

The Mayor was inclined to be a trifle sulky about the Finley letter. He said:

"That's all right for Finley to say that. What I'm interested in is what the judge says. I'm not going to violate that injunction."

The Mayor had contended in court that an injunction granted Finley to prevent the Mayor or Secretary Theodore L. Moritz from disturbing him in his work prevented any checkup by the Mayor on the earnings of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company.

Rate Battles Involved In City Solicitorship

Key Point in Mapping Legislation to Bring Utilities in Line

The choice of a city solicitor is likely to give an immediate indication of the future attitude of the McNair administration toward public utilities.

Mayor McNair's campaign was filled with promises of a battle for lower utility rates that would shake the pyramids of the corporations to their foundations.

The first six months of McNair rule has seen an immense amount of activity both in Council and the Mayor's office.

The City Solicitor's office has been a key point in dealing with the utilities and in drawing legislation by which Council might seek to bring the companies into line on various proposals.

KENNEDY GONE

The City Solicitor who presided over all this work is gone, resigned at the Mayor's request, and with him resigned John J. Kennedy, special assistant in charge of utility litigation.

The Mayor has already appointed Ward Bonsall, his personal attorney, to the position held by Kennedy with the possibility of moving him up into Scully's job, if Council will approve.

Bonsall is likely to work in much closer harmony with the Mayor's ideas than did Solicitor Scully and so the Mayor's own proposals in regard to utilities are likely to come almost immediately into prominence.

But another man must be named, either for the utility job or the solicitorship, and should that new appointment come from the ranks of the corporations lawyers, there is a general feeling at City Hall that the utility program would likely slide quietly into oblivion.

Under Scully and Kennedy, a substantial start was made on a campaign for lower utility rates.

Auditors have been working on a valuation of the properties of the South Pittsburgh Water Company within the city wards in the South Hills, with the idea of fixing a valuation at which the company could sell its lines to the city.

The ruling of the Public Service Commission that utilities should not earn more than 6 per cent on their valuations has been followed up by the Law Department, and earnings of local gas, water and electric light companies were being checked preparatory to a possible action before the commission.

While the city Law Department took no direct part in seeking to bring a new low-priced cab company to Pittsburgh, it did give some indirect aid to the Zone Cab Company seeking entrance here. Council failed to approve an active fight by the city on behalf of the new company.

The Law Department also sought to get some concessions from the Pittsburgh Railways Company for the extention of the Traction Conference Board agreement, but this action was also set at naught by the action of Council in refusing to take a definite state with the P. S. C. in regard to amending the traction agreement.

PLANNED CONDUIT TAX

The most recent thing done in the law department is work by Assistant Solicitor Kennedy to tax utilities for conduits and vaults under sidewalks.

It was discovered that a substantial amount of city property in the high value district downtown is occupied by utility lines and equipment. Rental for the use of the space would provide a substantial source of revenue.

The Mayor's plan to tax rentals on land failed when an adverse opinion was rendered by Scully, who said it constituted a double tax on property and so could not stand. It is not impossible that the Mayor will make a new effort when he gets a new city solicitor to put a heavier tax burden on land.

Most of the utilities are large land owners.

A decision on what to do about the proposed meter tax, ruled out by the courts, must be made soon. The decision of the court may be appealed, or the city can pass a new ordinance terming the meter tax an excise tax, and so distinguishing from a levy on personal property.

The Mayor has been against the meter tax. That is significant, as his opinions are certain to carry greater weight after the object lesson which has occurred in the law department.

Salesman Leaps 11 Floors to Death

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Albert J. Gardineer, a traveling salesman, of Piermont, N. Y., leaped to his death here today from the eleventh floor of the DuPont Hotel.

HOLD TAXI RIDER M'NAIR FREED

Paul Tighe, 32, of 436 Sweetbriar street, Mt. Washington, discharged by Mayor McNair after a taxicab driver testified he pointed a revolver at him, was held for court last night on a charge of pointing firearms by Justice of the Peace D. E. Hubbard, of Mt. Lebanon.

The driver, Adolph Koch, filed an information against Tighe after the latter was discharged by Mayor McNair in Mt. Washington Police Court with a speech about the cab company's "exorbitant fare."

Koch testified Tighe pointed a revolver after inviting him into his home for the balance of a $2.55 fare. Koch, who lives at 116 East North Diamond street, notified police, who arrested Tighe. Tighe posted $500 bond.

VETO ON TOLLS WINS BACKING

Residents of Castle Shannon and Overbrook, meeting in the Overbrook fire station last night, urged Pittsburgh's City Council to sustain Mayor McNair's veto of the ordinance enabling the county to construct the toll plaza for the Liberty Tubes approach.

The action was taken after the meeting had been addressed by A. C. Purdy, George P. Kountz and Mrs. Hazel Schroeder.

Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners postponed action on the toll protest until a later meeting. It was stated no spokesman had appeared at the meeting.

HEY! HEY! CLERK PROVES PRINCE FOR DAY

International News Service.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 14.—Jacob Kuc, jobless 22-year-old Hungarian bank clerk, stared enviously day after day at the palaces and dreamed of holding a real princess in his arms.

He heard that the American minister, John F. Montgomery, had leased a yacht to give a party in honor of the diplomatic corps and Hungarian aristocracy. There were to be several princesses in the gathering.

Kuc turned stowaway and danced with every pretty woman on board the yacht, but mostly with princesses. He danced so much and so persistently with them—and caught them so tightly in his arms during the Viennese waltzes—that one of them complained.

Kuc's arrest followed, but he smiled and said:

"I knew I'd get punished if caught, but it was worth it."

In an itemized statement of PWA allotments up to August 1, Secretary Ickes reported the Keystone State received $42,561,951 for strictly non-federal construction projects covering a wide variety of public improvements.

RAILS GET AID

Approximately $30,000,000 was loaned to five railroads in the state. The largest sum was $80,650,000 loaned the Pennsylvania Railroad to complete electrification of its lines between New York and Washington.

The state's share of the $400,000,000 appropriated for federal-aid roads was $19,178,000.

In other federal projects, including 47 postoffices and postal stations, the government gave Pennsylvania additional millions.

COUNTY LOAN HUGE

The Bureau of Mines got $200,000 for construction and repair work at its experimental laboratory in Pittsburgh and in the experimental mine at Bruceton.

In addition to the loan to the Pennsylvania Railroad, the statement shows the Deleware, Lackawanna and Western got $4,666,000; the Lehigh Valley, $2,600,000; the Lehigh and New England, $1,212,000 and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, $331,000.

The largest allotment for public works was $24,500,000 allotted to the Allegheny County authority for its big improvment program in the Pittsburgh area.

BETTY SCORES IN HOTEL ROW

She obtained an order from Supreme Court Justice Valente restraining the hotel from cutting off service in the suite, and her counsel, meanwhile, moved to obtain another court order vacating a dispossess proceeding brought by the hotel against her for $600 back rent.

Several days ago Betty marooned herself in her eighteenth floor suite, refusing to leave for fear the rooms would be locked against her. Last Thursday dispossess papers were placed in her hand by a server posing as a messenger boy.

Gold Crown Stolen From Altar Image

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The altar of the basilica of Guadalupe, most famous Catholic shrine in Mexico, has been rifled, church authorities reported to police. Among the articles stolen was a gold and silver crown placed on the virgin's head recently on the occasion of the fourth centenary of the founding of the church.

Veteran Flagman On P. R. R. Killed

JEANNETTE, Pa., Aug. 14.—John Brenner, of Wilkinsburg, a flagman with 32 years' service on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was killed yesterday between Pitcairn and Jeannette. He was found dead on top of a box car, supposedly struck in passing under a bridge.

Ingram Chilly To Hollywood Pleadings

REX INGRAM
International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Rex Ingram, noted Hollywood director of the silent film era, who, with his wife, Alice Terry, also of silent movie fame, has been making pictures for the last decade in his own studio in Nice, France, is being begged by several producers to return to Hollywood to direct a talkie version of "Scaramouche." Ingram's outstanding success in silent pictures, it was learned today.

It is doubtful he will accept, Ingram insisting:

"I cannot imagine Danton carrying on conversation with Robespierre in English, and to do the picture in French in the United States would not warrant the production expense."

Ingram revealed he is soon to publish a book entitled "The Legion Advances," the story of authentic adventures in the Sahara, where he has frequently journeyed during the past 10 years. The book will be dedicated to Marshal Lyautey, who approved it before his death.

Ingram also has half completed his memoirs, replete with tales of Hollywood in the old days when he directed Valentino.

2 BANKS HERE BACK HOUSING PROGRAM

The First National Bank of Pittsburgh and the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company have notified the government of preparedness to make loans in the nation's billion dollar housing modernization campaign.

The First National Bank wired its acceptance of the insurance provision governing loans to home owners. The telegram was followed by a formal letter of acceptance.

The first bank here to notify local representatives of the government of willingness to make loans was the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company.

HEADS STATE LIST

It was one of the first three in the state to take such action, according to Edward N. Jones, state housing administrator. The others were the Mitten Bank and Trust Company, of Philadelphia, and the First National Bank of Scranton.

PROGRAM FAVORED

J. O. Miller, senior vice president of the Peoples Pittsburgh-Trust Company, said:

"We could see no reason for withholding our co-operation in this housing program. We are anxious to go along with the government."

Many other banks in this district are understood to be in favor of the program but have not yet applied to Washington for governmental insurance of the modernization loans, required before they can start lending.

BANKERS CAUTION

But a good many bankers have not yet made up their minds just what to do about it and are still studying the federal regulations governing such repair loans, which arrived here Saturday and Monday.

The president of one of the city's largest banks told the Sun-Telegraph:

"The plan seems workable. I believe loans will be made under it, but a lot depends upon the number of applications made for such loans and the credit standing of the applicants."

STUDY RULES

All bankers interviewed cautioned against "rash promises" that it will now be a simple and easy thing to obtain loans for repairing and modernizing houses.

While the government has provided $200,000,000 to guarantee modernization loans up to 20 per cent of the aggregate losses, thus providing one billion dollars worth of "protected" credit, the bankers point out that this does not mean they will lend money on "questionable" risks.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS :-: By PAUL MALLON

Fall Business Gain Seen in Increased U. S. Spending

Mr. Mallon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—NRA'er Leon Henderson received off-stage raspberries from his ex-colleagues in business when he said recently that a marked fall improvement was a good "gamble."

Mr. Henderson was suspected of whistling while passing graveyards. Also, there were many cuckles over the uncertainty implied in the use of that word "gamble."

Yet a check of the confidential estimates being made by the best business authorities indicates Mr. Henderson knew what he was talking about. The sources of these estimates cannot be disclosed publicly, but you may rest assured they are not graveyard whistlers for the New Deal.

They have confidential data showing the scope of the government's spending plans. Solely on these figures, they judge that the fall rise (September and October) will be more than seasonal, possibly seven per cent more.

REASONS

Exact figures on spending cannot be published. All than can be said now is that the money will be pushed out in increasing quantities through the AAA, PWA and "other agencies."

As an instance of what can be done: The CWA method of direct handouts is supposed to have been abolished last spring, but right now the FERA is passing out money under different guises to a substantial portion of the people who were living off the CWA. There are unconfirmable indications that as many as 3,000,000 persons are now being cared for, or will shortly be cared for, through this device.

Farm purchasing power can be maintained at a much stronger level than the drought would suggest. Farmers who have any crops will get real prices for them. Those in the drought areas will be supplied money by the government.

This money flow from Washington will certainly be accelerated until after the November elections. Then winter relief arrangements will be ready.

GRIEF

There is much more underlying bitterness against Mr. Roosevelt among big businessmen than has been publicly expressed. For instance, the most popular book in financial New York is one entitled "Frankie in Blunderland." It was written anonymously, but is published by a reputable firm, appropriately with a red paper cover.

Also, the financial air is filled with smoking room jokes about the New Deal, some of which are printable. Apropos of the Federal Deposit Insurance and the popular song "Of Thee I Sing, Baby," it is related that Mr. Roosevelt is cracking the bankers with a ferule and requiring them to yodel: "F. D. I Sing, Bebbee."

SENSE

Much of this sarcasm comes under the head of good fun, even if it is not always clean, and you find some financiers taking a sympathetic attitude toward the government. One financial wizard whose judgment is as good as any, has this very interesting view:

"I don't mind when the New Deal says there are to be no profits for a few years. I am not troubled when it tells the fat fellows they will have to live off their fat for a while. I do not get aroused even when it decides to make those who have money pay half of it to the government in taxes. I think all those are probably good things.

"But I do believe the time has come for a change of tactics on the part of the administration. I think its attitude is all wrong.

"The time has come to end uncertainty as much as possible and encourage business to go ahead. For instance, all the cards in social insurance legislation next session should be laid on the table. Business should be permitted to know how much its costs are going to be raised by such legislation. It also should be permitted to know the extent to which it is going to be affected by tariff policy.

"I do not ask that Mr. Roosevelt change his New Deal. All I say is, let us have it and get it over with. Business can re-adjust itself to what is demanded of it and then get started on something like a permanent basis.

"Until that is done, I cannot see any end to uncertainty or any chance for substantial progress."

NOTES

The opinion is general in the best silver circles that the new silver policy will hasten the collapse of Europe's gold bloc. The retirement of France from gold leadership has been expected as long, and is yet considered as certain, as Gen Johnson's retirement from the NRA . . . Chairman Kennedy, of the Securities Commission, has had some private business experience with the motion picture industry. His associates say that a recent private gathering of businessmen, one told Kennedy: "Now, take the motion picture industry." Whereupon Mr. Kennedy broke in and said: "You take them, I've had them."

HOUSING LOANS SPEEDED BY U. S. BANKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—By nightfall, the Federal Housing Administration expects every city to have at least one bank where property owners can obtain insured loans for repairs and improvements.

Roger Steffan, director of modernization credits, said so today as telegrams from bankers piled high upon his desk.

His chief—James A. Moffett—backed him up with an optimistic statement about bankers' willingness to make such loans.

The Housing administration announced the names of bankers selected in co-operation with the American Bankers' Association to advise and inform financial institutions in each state of the modernization program.

Bankers appointed as "liaison officers" to disseminate information and advise the banks in their states include Harper W. Spong of Harrisburg, for Pennsylvania, and Homer Gebbhardt, of Huntington, for West Virginia.

Steffan explained the administration wanted every eligible financial institution to participate in the lending, but that one co-operating bank in every community would assure success. He said applications were taken by some banks Saturday, and some loans probably have been made by now.

J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, has invited Moffett to confer with chief bank examiners here September 10. The examiners will return to their posts with detailed instructions as to classification of the repair and improvement loans.

Court Interpreter Decoyed to Death

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Three unidentified men apparently lured Alexander W. Soulgikoff, Police Court interpreter, to a false street address, surrounded his automobile early today and shot him to death.

Wounded twice, Soulgikoff staggered from the car and fell dead in the street. His slayers escaped. Police concluded he had been killed in a crime of vengeance.

ARAB-JEW WAR CALLS PLANES

CONSTANTINE, Algeria, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—French authorities were considering stringent measures today to prevent a recurrence of bloody riots between Mohammedans and Jews.

Governor General Jules Carde approved a request for Paris to send 500 military planes to Algeria and a plan for immediate mobilization of all French up to the age of 60, in the event of trouble, to aid the garrison here.

(The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported 70 Arabs implicated in the bloody disorders of last week were sentenced yesterday to terms ranging from two to three years in jail. Approximately 150 others are awaiting trial.)

The official death toll was 27, but unofficial estimates ran much higher.

SHOOTS BEAUTY, SLAIN BY POLICE

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The love of Ogden Throckmorton, 54, former assistant fire chief, for a pretty soda fountain girl, was blamed today for a shooting which resulted in the death of the man and the critical wounding of the girl.

Entering a downtown drug store late yesterday, Throckmorton shot the girl, Miss Opal Dry, a former beauty contestant; made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide and then was shot by Policeman Jim Houser.

Chief of Detectives John Wolsey said the couple had quarreled because the girl, who had been going with Throckmorton for several months since his separation from his wife, "of late had tried to repulse his advances."

The girl is near death.

Witnesses said that after Throckmorton caught the girl, following a wild chase through the store, he pressed the pistol to her back and said:

"Well, good-bye honey."

HERE'S A TALE OF LOYAL DOG

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mike, waiting outside a Confluence hospital for his young master, is an ordinary dog, often dirty, always hungry, but a dog of great faith.

However, Mike probably wouldn't realize that he is responsible for his young master being in the hospital.

The brothers, several miles away, decided Mike would be better off at home. Ralph told Mike to jump. Raymond turned from the wheel to see if he had landed safely.

"It gets right down to throat-ease doesn't it?"... ..asks Warren William

[RECENT OLD GOLD CONVERT]

See WARREN WILLIAM in his latest Warner Bros. Picture "THE DRAGON MURDER CASE"

Dear Mr. William:—

You are right. Throat-ease IS the key to better tobacco quality. In fact, it tells you almost everything you want to know about a cigarette.

For example: If a cigarette is really free of backbite and rasp, you know it is made of pure tobacco—without artificial flavoring. Its smoothness tells you, too, that its tobaccos are of fine quality, properly sun-ripened and aged.

As you have discovered, Mr. William, the cigarette with the greatest throat-ease likewise has the finest flavor. In the choicest tobaccos, throat-ease and taste appeal just naturally go hand in hand.

Sincerely,

P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.

P. S.—The gist is this, Mr. William:—

GIRLS IN FERA SCHOOL FREED OF RED LINK

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The Oberlin FERA resident school for unemployed women today won a clean bill in an investigation of charges that the 50 girl students tended to Communistic leanings.

Charles C. Stillman, field representative of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, after a personal investigation at Oberlin, sent a telegram to Aubrey Williams, assistant FERA administrator at Washington, clearing the school of charges. Stillman said in his telegram:

"A thorough investigation of the FERA resident school for unemployed women at Oberlin, O., convinces me that the school is being conducted in full accord with FERA purposes and regulations.

"Sabotage or violence or subversion of organized government has not, is not, and will not be taught and all three ideas are contrary to the belief of faculty members.

"Supporting exhibits with affidavits and other testimony follow by mail."

The charge of Communistic leanings grew out of reports the girls had sung the "Internationale," a Soviet anthem. A spokesman for the girls admitted the Soviet tune was sung, but said the girls sang it "just for fun" and followed it with "The Star Spangled Banner."

STRIKE CLOSES OHIO PLANT

DOVER, O., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—When violence began after more than 500 pickets surrounded the Greer Steel Company plant, where a strike of union workers began yesterday, H. C. Cappel, general manager, cut off the mill's power and announced operations would be suspended.

A company guard, one of 15 leaving the plant for their homes in Cleveland, was cut by glass as strike sympathizers shattered the windshield of his auto with bricks. Two of five cars in which the guards were riding were badly battered.

Both sides today prepared to appeal to the Federal Labor Board at Cleveland for settlement of the dispute, which arose because of alleged discrimination in the re-employment of union men. The shutdown affects 250 employes.

Textile Union Meet Hears Strike Calls

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Called into session a month ahead of schedule to face "an emergency in the industry," delegates to the United Textile Workers Convention were told by their officers that major walkouts are imminent in the textile trades.

Southern delegates presented 50 separate resolutions calling for a general textile walkout. A vote on the question was scheduled before the week's meeting closes.

'Leech' Doctor Held On License Charges

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—George T. Wilson, elderly Erie "leech" doctor, will face court to answer two charges of practicing medicine without a license. Wilson waived hearing yesterday on one of the charges preferred by D. A. McClinchy, father of an East Brady girl who died in Wilson's office last February.

GREEN UPHOLDS JOBLESS CLAIM

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The American Federation of Labor today stood behind its latest unemployment figures, 10,300,000, despite a challenge as to their accuracy by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Although the Chamber of Commerce said there were less than 7,000,000 unemployed last month, William Green, Labor Federation president, termed that estimate just a "guess" and said labor's calculation was based on "figures and facts."

Green said the A. F. of L. report has always been accepted by the government and economic organizations, and added "this is the first time any organization has challeneged our figures." He said figures were received from every municipality in the country and were tabulated scientifically, based on a system developed over many years.

FARMERS AID TRUCK STRIKE

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Knots of dispute held taut the lines of disagreement in the truck drivers' walkout today as strikers, buttressed by fresh food supplies and new cash reserves, maintained their non-yielding attitude toward the employers' offerings.

Their larder stocked with chicken, meat and farm produce donated by the Farmers' Holiday Association, and with $6,000, which Farrell Dobbs, strike leader, said was given the Drivers' Union No. 574 by the milk drivers' organization, strikers penned another rejection last night to revised peace terms.

They insisted upon settlement under the original Haas-Dunnigan plan, which the employers have rejected. The latter, with a warning they would make no further concession, submitted their latest offer through the Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, mediators.

It embodied no definite wage scale and would allow, strikers claimed, discrimination against them in reinstatement of workers when the walkout is terminated.

CODE VIOLATION CHARGES AIRED

Testimony against three employers charged with violation of National Recovery Act codes was heard yesterday by the NRA State Adjustment Board, meeting in the Law and Finance Building.

A garage owner was alleged to have paid one man $8.75 a week and another $12.50 for 84 hours' work. The code wage is $15 for 54 hours a week. The accused explained that the men park automobiles and do other work around the garage, and do not work more than one hour daily. The board held that an employe having a definite time to begin work and a definite quitting time was regarded at work between those hours.

Violation of the retail code was involved in the second case, the employer alleged to have paid an apprentice $7.50 for 70 hours' work. The code wage is $15 for a 48-hour week.

A restaurant owner testified that under the code his restaurant lost $300 in one month and that his employes agreed to work outside the code when he informed them if forced to adhere to the provisions he would have to go out of business.

How NRA Will Collect 200 Millions In Taxes From Industry Bared

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series of articles explaining NRA's new tax on American industry for code enforcement.)

By PHILIP PEARL
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A vast network of bureaucratic machinery will have to be erected on the NRA structure to collect its 200 million dollar "police" tax on American business.

The job has devolved on the code authorities. They must first estimate how much they need for their expenses, convince the members of the industry the tax will be equitably apportioned and then collect it. And at each step of the way they must hold public hearings, extremely costly in themselves when they multiply in numbers.

Take America's newest major industry—the wine and beer business.

The code authority for the alcohol beverage wholesale industry has just submitted a budget of expenses for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, totaling $734,436. Of this, $235,321 is for the wine distributors' committee and $499,115 for the beer division.

Each of these divisions is in turn split up into 18 regional boards, whose requirements range from $6,000 to $40,000. Because of the varying amounts, dealers in the 18 regions will be assessed at different rates. Wine dealers will have to pay from 1 to 2 cents a gallon, beer producers from 2 cents to 5 cents per barrel.

Naturally, the code authority will have to check each member's books to arrive at the assessments.

An even more complicated picture is presented in the lumber industry. Its budget for 18 months totals $4,905,904. This sum is to be split up among 101 regional divisions. Almost every one of these divisions has a different form or rate of assessment.

Of course, it will be impossible for the code authorities to budget exactly or collect in full. Deficits will be inevitable. And these will necessitate new assessments and the expense of collecting all over again.

(The expense of the code authorities in their policing of industry will be taken up in tomorrow's article.)

'NEW DEAL' HIT AT FOOD MEET

Walter Nichols, of Chicago, secretary of the Illinois Food Code Authority, was to speak on "Code Operation: Retailers' Attitude Toward Distributors," at this morning's session of the convention of the National Food Distributors' Association in the William Penn Hotel. The convention, which opened yesterday, will close Thursday afternoon.

C. Wendel Muench, of Chicago, speaking at yesterday afternoon's session, predicted that the competitive system in business would survive, and declared that the "New Deal" is a detriment, insofar as it reduces individualism. He said in part:

"There are virtues enough in the old competitive system to make it survive. The 'New Deal' in its effort to equalize the wealth in the country is to be commended, but insofar as it reduces individualism it is a detriment. Human progress is measured by the individual's conduct toward society, and not by society's conduct toward the individual. It is my opinion that the American people are too highly individual to retain regimentation longer than for temporary purposes."

Highway Foreman Charged With Bribe

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A man arrested by county authorities in a probe of alleged coercion by state highway employes prior to last May's primary election is at liberty on $1,500 bond, charged with bribery.

Gabe Collins, Elder Township road foreman, was arrested by County Detective Patrick McDermott, conducting the probe. He was held for court yesterday by Justice of the Peace Rose F. Campbell, of Hastings.

Erie Disbands Vice Squad After Cleanup

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Erie's plain-clothes vice squad, which had been on special duty for the past 10 weeks, has been disbanded. Sergt. Oscar Robb and two patrolmen, who have been raiding illegal liquor establishments, gambling places and disorderly houses, were ordered to report in uniform today for regular duty.

Officer Charges 2 Overpowered Him

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 14—(AP.)—Two men were in jail today charged with overpowering Edward Oler, Waterford constable, and stealing his automobile. Oler charges the two, Ben Edyek and Clarence Smith, of Wesleyville, forced him out of his car and made off with the machine as he was taking them to Waterford for questioning on a truck accident.

CAPITAL PARLEY ON ALUMINUM STRIKE NEAR

A conference between heads of the American Federation of Labor representing the striking aluminum workers, and the National Labor Board in Washington was scheduled for tomorrow as the government sought to end the strike, centering largely around New Kensington.

Fred Keighly, veteran conciliator of the United States Department of Labor, who has been surveying the situation here, is to go to Washington to take part in the conference.

What course the board's mediation efforts will take will be determined in the light of Keighly's study.

The conference originally had been scheduled for today but was postponed pending Keighly's arrival at the capital.

Boris Shishkin, American Federation of Labor economist, will head the labor delegation at the meeting. It was understood that no representative of the Aluminum Company of America will be present, and Keighly later will contact the company.

The strike began last Friday at midnight in the three aluminum company plants at New Kensington, Logan's Ferry and Arnold, and three other plants at Alcoa, Tenn.; East St. Louis, Ill., and Massena, N. Y.

No disorders were reported at the striking plants and union leaders said they "hoped the picketing would continue to be peaceful."

In Alcoa, Aluminum officials rejected a proposal of striking employes to replace 200 non-union men in the mill with union men, and the union retaliated by revoking passes through the picket lines of all but six high officials.

The non-union men, who remained in the plant when the strike was called, have been caring for machinery. Marooned in the plant, food and clothing have been sent them by parcel post.

Trainmen Picket Freight Terminal

YORK, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—An appeal to the Philadelphia Regional Labor Board is planned by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen on behalf of 80 employes of the York Motor Express Company, who say they were "fired" for failure to attend a company meeting.

The workmen "locked out" by the company picketed the firm's freight terminal last night after new men were hired.

Pickets Keep Guard At Massena Plant

Farm Hand Saves Train From Wreck

LINDSAY, Ontario, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A farm youth going about his chores prevented what probably would have been a serious wreck on the Canadian National Railway line at Uxbridge last night.

J. W. Forsyth, 18, had started for the cows in a back pasture when he saw a tree lying across the rails. Forsyth dashed up the tracks, waving his hands frantically. The engineer pulled to a stop within 50 feet of the tree.

Hookey Playing Now on Wane, Data Shows

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Three members of the board of education didn't believe it when Fred Hess, attendance director for Louisville schools, announced that only one day out of 10,000 was a "hookey" day for Louisville school children, in the 1933-34 school year. But those are official figures, Hess said.

GIRDLER DENIES CONTRACTING WITH UNION

The Republic Steel Corporation through President T. M. Girdler denied today that its letter to the National Steel Labor Relations Board advising it of its compliance with wages, hours and working conditions set forth in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' scale for Warren, O., meant recognition of the union, Girdler said:

"This letter was merely an expression of employment policy and was written upon the express understanding that the company was not making a contract with the Amalgamated Association."

Girdler said his company had refused to sign a contract, but said it would continue existing wages, hours and working conditions "which are as favorable" as the Amalgamated scale of wages paid by competitors in the Mahoning valley.

Michael F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated, was quoted yesterday as saying:

"The letter is a contract. We often have that form. There is no question of recognition; it's not an issue."

In his statement Girdler said:

"The company has previously stated that recognition in the sense demanded by the Amalgamated simply means yielding to the closed shop principle, and this the company has steadfastly refused to do. This policy will be maintained."

LAKE VICTIM'S SHAME HIDDEN FROM FAMILY

Universal Service.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 14.—Freda McKechnie hid the shame of her approaching unwed motherhood from her family, it was revealed today in Wilkes-Barre's new "American Tragedy."

When the girl who died in Harvey Lake learned from Dr. E. L. Meyers she was to bear the child of Robert Edwards, now charged with her murder, she begged that the truth be concealed from her mother, who waited in an anteroom, Dr. Meyers said:

"I asked her about the boy. She whispered, 'I know when and who,' I said to her then that she ought to get married. And she said, 'Yes, I want to.'

"When I asked if the boy would marry her, she dropped her head and her lips were quivering. She didn't answer for a long time and then she said, 'I don't know.' I didn't ask the name of the young man and she never mentioned it.

'DON'T TELL MOTHER'

"Her mother was sitting outside and I said to the girl, 'Now you want to tell your mother about this, don't you?' She got up from the chair quickly and said, 'No, no, I won't tell mother. Please, doctor, don't tell her!'"

It was the only time Dr. Meyers ever saw Freda. That night she broke the news to Edwards, 21, son of an official in the mines where her father was a laborer. A week later her body, with the skull blackjacked, was found in the lake where she had gone swimming the night before with Edwards. He is accused of having removed her as an obstacle to his love for Margaret Crain, East Aurora music teacher.

Not until a post mortem established the truth did she know of her daughter's condition, Mrs. George McKechnie said.

ODDS ON VERDICT

While District Attorney Lewis prepared a first degree murder indictment, which he will ask the grand jury to return against the youthful defendant, interest in the case reached such a peak that wagers at odds of 5 to 1 that Edwards will not be sentenced to the electric chair were reported being made.

The heavy odds against a death sentence were said to be based on the refusal of Lewis to say he will seek the death penalty. Lewis has insisted he cannot discuss his case until Edwards has been indicted and brought to trial.

REGISTER YOUR MACHINE GUN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The government sought today to stop free circulation of the gangster's favorite tool—the machine gun.

If a person possesses a machine gun after next month he'll have to register it with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

If he wants to get one after September 24, he'll have to get an order from the Commissioner, be fingerprinted, and pay a price boosted by a sales tax of $200.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue worked to draw up regulations applying the law aimed to keep machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and silencers for such weapons out of circulation.

Farmer Kills Self Over U. S. Crop Edict

GREENVILLE, S. C., August 14.—(INS.)—"Plainly suicide" was the verdict today of a Coroner's jury investigating the death of B. B. Medlock, 48-year-old farmer who allegedly shot himself through the heart because of a federal crop reduction order.

Medlock, father of 10 children, killed himself with a gun behind his barn Monday afternoon. His wife said federal investigators had ordered him to plow up three acres of cotton, planted in excess of his quota.

SHOE-ing In Fall Fashion!

Through the Spyglass

One stitch has apparently not "saved nine" in many instances that new shoes show. For lines and lines of stitching are found on many styles . . . particularly in vertical lines on the heels.

Green shoes have staged a comeback. Green suedes that add such depth and richness to green wool frocks this new season. Nice with browns, too.

And it's been "y'ars n' y'ars" since there was such a vogue for fabrics as there is now. Gabardines, marcella cloths, ribolines, and such-like, are being found in numbers of the newest models.

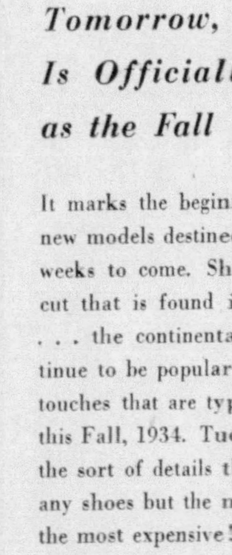
Patent leather . . . as good as gold when it comes to shoes. And especially good as heels . . . matching the rest of the shoe in color. P. S.—They don't scuff up like others, either!



With the first breath of the Autumn . . . new shoe styles are "shoo-ed" into the picture! The new shoes that are going to foot the Fall fashion notes are those that you see here—advance guard of the ranks that will soon be following in their footsteps! Shoes as distinctive as the costumes that spell A-u-t-u-m-n . . . shoes that follow the lines of your frock with an almost copy-cat similarity! There's no mistaking them . . . this Fall's new shoes!

Tomorrow, August 15th, Is Officially Recognized as the Fall Shoe Opening!

It marks the beginning of the showing of new models destined to trip through cooler weeks to come. Shoes that show the high cut that is found in the clothes of today . . . the continental heels (that still continue to be popular) . . . the "dressmaker" touches that are typically and distinctively this Fall, 1934. Tucks, pipings, applique—the sort of details that one seldom finds in any shoes but the most "high" fashion . . . the most expensive!

LAYS TROUBLES TO REMARK ON MELLON

His remark to one of his pupils that "maybe the Lord doesn't have any other place for Andrew W. Mellon" was given today by James J. Stewart, Plumville High School teacher, as one of the reasons he was termed a "radical."

Stewart told the Civil Liberties Union at a luncheon at Kaufmann's that the remark was made in 1932 when the students were discussing current events. He said the pupil asked:

"Do you think Mr. Mellon will live very long?"

James F. Chapman, superintendent of Indian schools, "interpreted" Stewart's answer as meaning that "Mr. Mellon ought to be in hell," Stewart said.

Refused a permanent teaching certificate, Stewart has appealed to the Civil Liberties Union for legal aid in his fight for the certificate.

CHAIR FOUGHT BY FUGITIVE

International News Service.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 14.—Joe Palmer grasped at the slenderest threads of hope offered by law today in an effort to delay his return to Huntsville (Tex.) prison, where he faces death in the electric chair.

With Texas officers due today to claim him as a fugitive, the southwestern desperado, who admitted his identity and described his gang activities with Ray Hamilton, Clyde Barrow and other bandits, pleaded with his attorney to "get my case put off as long as you can."

The attorney, Lucien Heflin, complied by asking for a two-day continuance of his case, and the state joined in the request because Texas officers had not yet arrived. Heflin said there really was little he could do, however.

Palmer, who fled the Huntsville prison death row with Hamilton and Blackie Thompson July 22, said:

"I'm not afraid to die. I'd rather die than spend the rest of my life in the penitentiary. The Texas prison is the most damnable place on earth."

'Pretty Babies' Draw 5,000 To Contest

OLYMPIA'S MIDWAY

Between 5,000 and 6,000 persons thronged Olympia Park, McKeesport, today for the Sun-Telegraph's all-day outing and "pretty baby" contest.

The "pretty baby" contest, set to begin at 2 p. m. on the dance pavilion, had at least 300 entries for the judges to pass in review.

The judging was to be done in three age groups—both for boys and girls. The ages were from 2 to 3, from 3 to 4, and from 4 to 5.

Twin boys and twin girls were to be judged separately, between the ages of 1 and 5 years. Many were entered.

The winning baby in each classification was to be awarded a prize. First, second and third place babies in each class were also to be given blue, red and white ribbons.

Thousands of free strips of amusement tickets were made available by the Sun-Telegraph.

Planned to Be Married, He Suddenly Quits

Wasn't feeling quite up to the MARK, and her boy friend didn't enjoy his evening. And he hasn't been back . . . He, too, was slightly under the weather. And still has that for his excuse . . .

Poor Lonesome Sal has had her troubles in love, anyway. One fellow called merely because he thought she was in love with him, and was falling too hard for him to let her alone . . . But she found him out in time. Lucky Sal, that time.

She wants to be happy. And in that, is not ALONE. Like JULIET, "There is no pity sitting in the clouds" for her. . . .

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have always been very much interested in your column and would appreciate some advice. I am a girl of 22, and very much discouraged.

Miss Brunot

I started to work when I was 17, and as usual, fell in love with a fellow-worker. He didn't care anything about me. But knowing how little I knew of the ways of the world, he made a fool of me. After awhile, I got wise to myself, and discarded him. It was a pretty fast job, I made.

STOPS SUDDENLY

After that I went out occasionally with other fellows, and about six months ago met a young man whom I thought was the right one. He told me he was very much in love with me and treated me wonderfully. We had planned to get married and were happy as two larks. Then one evening I was tired and not feeling very good, and neither was he. We had a few words that didn't seem to amount to much, and parted apparently amiably. A week passed by, and I did not see him. I called him up, and he was very nice, and said he hadn't been well, and would call me soon. But he hasn't done so. That's a month ago.

I wrote him a letter, and pleaded with him, but there was no response. What is the matter with me? I am rather moody, my life has made me so. Please find me a way to be happy.

LONESOME SAL.

No one but yourself, sister, can find the way to real happiness. That is within one's self every time. Contentment is a state of mind. It does not depend upon location or companionship. True, both these things can be a pleasing aid. But there is something more needed.

It is too bad to make experiences that have not been all they should be cost too much . . . that is what you are doing. Remember everything we go through should lift us up, and not shove us down.

Maybe it is the discovery of your moody nature that keeps your friend away. A man is more afraid of a moody woman than of any other kind. Most men like to go on the surmise that the girl they love is ALWAYS THE SAME. And to be always the same we must practice the development of will power, and not allow ourselves to look where the dark clouds are.

Remember, Lonesome Sal, there are all sorts of men in the world, and they aren't all out to make sport of you . . . there are honest, reliable ones that will do all they can to make you happy.

I never approve of any girl PLEADING with a man to come to see her . . . that isn't wise. You can ENDURE this man's absence a little longer . . . and then, most likely, he will heave in sight again just like the boat lost a little while in the billows.

CAN'T FORGET HIM

Dear Miss Brunot:

I'm a girl of 16 and always have a boy friend. Last November I met a boy I liked very much, and didn't see him again until December, when there was a party we both attended. After Christmas week we grew very fond of one another, and we even went so far as to declare our love in both letter and word. Then he started going with my girl friends. But has been back to see me. I've tried to forget him, but it is useless. Shall I ask for my letters? MISS X.

No, Miss X, do not ask for your letters. Be sport enough to let the written word take care of itself. Merely learn by the experience, and be careful what you say in writing the next time.

The boy may think he and you are too young to be serious with one another. In that he is right. So why worry? In the long run, everything is likely to work out very well.

PARENTS OBJECT

Dear Miss Brunot:

The Speak Up Column fascinates me. I am a steady reader. I have many friends and am invited many places. I refuse, because there is something on my mind. I go with a boy whom my parents disapprove of. And for no reason. They simply dislike him.

About a year ago this fellow asked me to go with him steadily. I didn't care for him then. But seeing him with other girls made me care.

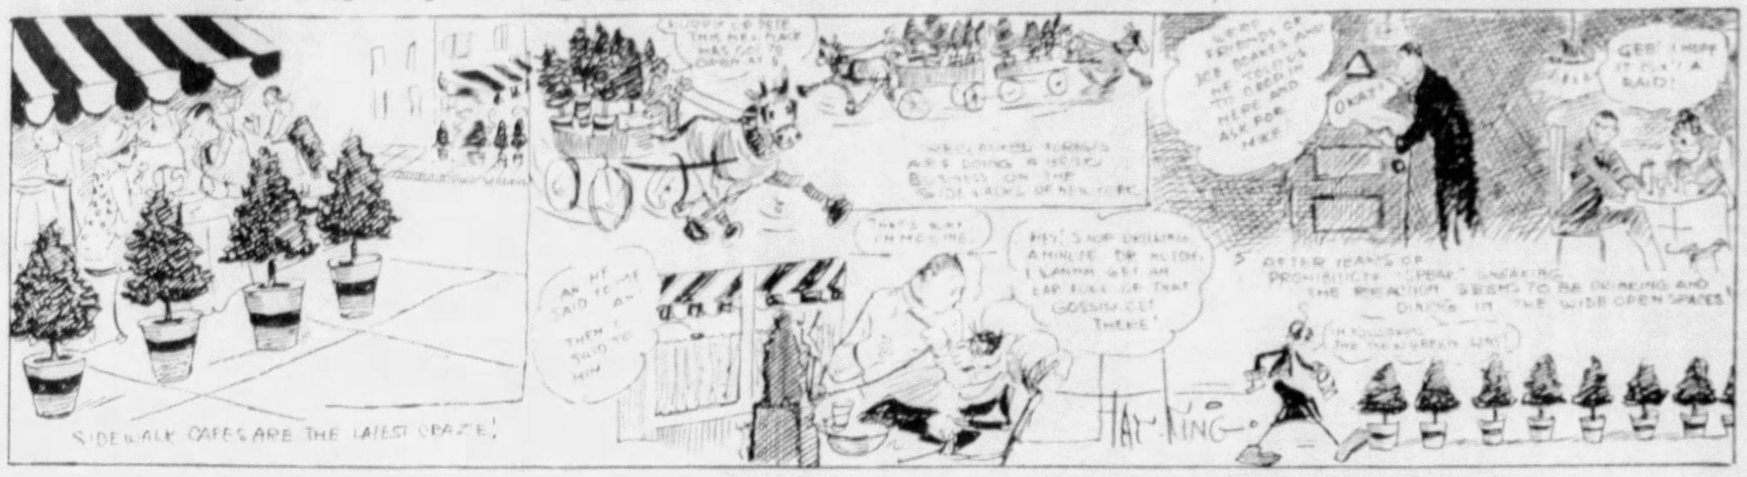
Now, I have been going with him for about eight months. We do not see each other very often. But each time he passes in his car my heart turns a flip-flop. I begin wondering if he is going to meet someone else, and I go frantic. Yet I am absolutely satisfied when with him.

He knows my parents dislike him, and yet he persists. I often hear people say, absence makes the heart grow fonder. It surely is this way with me.

P. D. J.

A man who waits for a girl can't be blamed for seeing her, even if her parents do object, and especially when they have no good reason. Why not have a very plain talk with your mother and father, and insist they state their reasons for their prejudice. Maybe they know something they haven't told you as yet. If the young man is a good worker, self-respecting, as well educated as you are, and loves you, I can't see any objections to his attentions. You have some of the symptoms of real love, that is certain.

PARIS HAS NOTHING ON US IN SIDEWALK DINING, SAYS FAY KING



By FAY KING

"Dining out" means just that these days—dining out on the sidewalk.

Sidewalk cafes are the new popular craze, and there seems to be no doubt that those wanting to drink and dine in the flood light is a reaction of those years of sneaking in and out of dark dismal speakeasies.

All you have to do now is follow the new green line of little trees and you will come to the entrance to a sidewalk eatery.

In every direction we see faithful Dobbins galloping along with small forests in the wagons behind them and this means new sidewalk cafes are about to open somewhere.

Paris certainly has nothing on us now, with a new Cafe de la Pavement springing up in every likely place.

Chinese Reach Farm Safely

My father's command, "Let's go!" galvanized us all into action. Bob jumped into the driver's seat of the car which we had commandeered from the captured Chinese, and in the tonneau of which were the small bicycles which Junior and Roderick had ridden away from the farmhouse so short a time ago, but that already seemed like a week at least.

The sight of the small wheels brought the realization that I had not yet learned the reason why the small boys had stolen away from the farmhouse before daybreak, an unprecedented action for such carefully sheltered and guarded children.

Of course I deduced that they must have followed Roderick's older brothers, Hank and Bill, to this woodland glade, where we had lured and captured the Chinese whom we had found calling for Lee Chow. But a deeper mystery even than the actions of the small boys was the reason for the excursion of Hank and Bill to the glade, where they evidently were watching for the Chinese.

I had no time, however, for any speculation upon the odd conduct of the young boys. My father's hand was suddenly upon my shoulder as I started to climb into the rear seat, above that part of the floor of the car where lay the trussed and gagged Chinese under the camouflaging blankets, pillows and suitcases. Donald had piled these back upon them as soon as my father had confounded the young state troopers with the letter from their captain commanding them to obey my father implicitly and not to interfere further in an affair which I knew must have greatly intrigued both their imaginations and their curiosity.

The troopers had done their work well. There was not a car in sight. But when we rounded the next curve, we saw the state troopers' car, with Joe inside, going at a moderate gait along the road.

Under my father's directions, Otto followed the police car until we came within sight of the crossroads, where we should turn to go to the farm house. Then, still seeing no cars on the road—for the boast of the young state troopers about being able to clear the roads was plainly no idle one—my father directed Otto to sound the horn and increase his speed.

We sailed past Joe's car at a pace that, while swift, was yet not fast enough to excite the interest of any other police officer. Joe saluted with an immobile face as we went past, and my father returned the salute as gravely. The next minute we were turning aside at the crossroads, and in five more minutes we were turning in at the farm gate.

Bill and Hank were watching for us a few rods down the road, and they signaled us to stop, running toward us and swinging themselves up on the running board as soon as we slowed down.

"Please don't start again just yet," they begged. "We don't want to be seen on this car by anyone in the house, but we have a message for you."

"What is it?" my father demanded.

"Aunt Lillian wants you to come to the kitchen door, and bring the Chinks in through the kitchen. She says there is no window overlooking the kitchen, and she seemed terribly anxious that nobody should know about their coming."

Contract Bridge -:- -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Backward Finesse

This is one of a series of articles in which Mrs. Culbertson explains certain principles of the new Culbertson System of Play. The examples and rules given by Mrs. Culbertson in these articles have never been published heretofore and are exclusive in Pittsburgh with the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It requires no particular finesse to take the ordinary garden variety of finesse. In fact, as I have frequently pointed out, the real finesse is in working out some plan that will make the finesse unnecessary. There are some types of finesse, however, that are really complicated.

Mrs. Culbertson

In the hand below a Small Slam contract was made by means of the back ward finesse—one of the rarest and most beautiful of plays. The backward finesse seldom succeeds because it depends upon the favorable position not of one card but of two. The good player is therefore more unlikely to rely upon this play than upon any other. But after South in the hand below had exhausted every other possibility and the bidding told him that the finesse which would appear to be his last hope was doomed to failure, he turned in desperation to the backward finesse and by recognizing his opportunity made six spades redoubled.

South, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 9 6 2 ♡ A 9 ◇ A K 7 6 5 ♣ K 9 8
♠ A 4 ♡ K Q J 8 7 6 ◇ J ♣ Q 7 6 3	North West East South	♠ 3 ♡ 10 4 3 2 ◇ Q 10 4 3 2 ♣ 10 5 2
	♠ K Q J 10 8 7 5 ♡ 5 ◇ 9 8 ♣ A J 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♡	4 ◇	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 N T	Pass
5 ♠	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

North overbid somewhat, since he almost forced a Slam without knowing that South's spades were solid; and South was therefore fully justified in redoubling when West doubled. The Double itself is open to criticism, for West could not have known his partner had a diamond stopper, and surely should have suspected that one of his opponents would have a singleton heart, so that his heart suit would never produce a trick. But, whether or not the bidding was correct, South found himself faced with the task of taking twelve tricks.

The heart King was opened and North won with the Ace. A spade was led and West won South's King with his Ace, returning a heart, which South ruffed. South now played another trump and went about the establishment of the diamond suit. His hope of establishing this suit was short-lived because on the second round West showed out and East was placed with five diamonds, enough to prevent any long cards' ever being established in that suit. South was now reduced to the necessity of avoiding the loss of a club trick, and he was positive that West's vulnerable Overcall and subsequent Double could not have been made without the one remaining high card which was missing—the Queen of clubs. On this basis South returned the lead to his own hand by ruffing a diamond, and led the Jack of clubs.

The many books which have stressed the point that "you cannot finesse by leading a Jack unless you also have the Ten" have overlooked this important exception to the rule. In this case there was no escape for East and West. West played the Queen on the Jack, and when Dummy's King won the trick South was in a perfect position to capture East's Ten by a second finesse. The nine of clubs was led and it did not matter whether it was covered or not—East could not win a trick in the club suit.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the hair is extremely dry it is benefited and softened by applications of castor oil. To one ounce of the oil add one ounce of bay rum. If you don't like the smell of it, substitute eau de cologne.

Layers of fat on the shoulders and back can be beaten away. Get some willing member of the family to close her hands, hammer with the sides of her fists.

The second chapter of the treatment consists of picking up the flesh in folds, rolling firmly. Then slap and tap and spank. During the fat cell slaughter, a heavy cream should be used.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Rheumatic Ills Are Serious

Rheumatism and arthritis are diseases which continue to confuse a great many persons. The American committee for the control of rheumatism has recently published a booklet called "Primer on Rheumatism." This describes the various forms of arthritis and rheumatism.

Dr. Copeland

Not all aches and pains of the body should be called "rheumatism." To do so is a common practice and often leads to improper treatment. The three chief types of rheumatism are known to the medical profession as inflammatory rheumatism, or rheumatic fever; chronic rheumatism, or arthritis, and muscular rheumatism, known as myositis.

The first form mentioned is commonly encountered in children and young people. It is serious because the germs may attack the heart and leave the sufferer with some form of heart disease. Ordinarily, rheumatic fever afflicts persons between the ages of 5 and 30 years. The disease is rarely contracted in warm climates. It usually occurs in the late winter or early spring.

Chronic rheumatism, or arthritis differs markedly from rheumatic fever. It is not as likely to be found in children or adolescents as in adults. In this form the heart is not involved, but the various joints of the body are affected.

As a rule it is persistent, lasting for years. If not checked it leads to marked pain and interference with normal activity. In severe cases the sufferer actually becomes crippled.

There are many kinds of chronic rheumatism. One form is more common among women. In this type of rheumatism there is considerable stiffness of the involved joint. The cause can often be traced to a focus of infection in diseased tonsils, diseased teeth or the nasal sinuses.

The sufferer from rheumatism or arthritis must place himself in the hands of a competent physician. The treatment depends entirely upon the form of affliction. It is essential that every sufferer obtain an abundance of fresh air, nourishing food, rest and relaxation.

In some instances the application of heat to the joints by the use of hot packs or electrical bakers is beneficial. This brings more blood to the joint, but whatever treatment is given should be applied only under the advice of a physician. If improperly applied, the condition may become aggravated.

In every instance it is advisable that an X-ray picture be taken of the involved joint. This is of great value in determining which form of treatment is likely to be most beneficial. Never neglect arthritis because if you do permanent and disabling deformities may result.

Heidelberg Operetta On Air

"The Prince of Pilsen," popular operetta that set all New York humming "The Message of the Violet" and "Old Heidelberg" 30 years ago, is revived by the Beauty Box Theater players in their broadcast over an NBC-WCAE network at 10.

"The Prince of Pilsen," an original operetta by Gusta Luders, tells the story of a Cincinnati brewer who is mistaken for the Prince of Pilsen during a visit to Germany with his family.

John Barclay, star of the Beauty Box Theater Stock Company, has the lead role, and is supported by Gladys Swarthout, mezzo-soprano, as the brewer's daughter, and Frank McIntyre as the brewer.

George Givot—"The Greek Ambassador of Good Will," Tommy Mack, Edith Murray and Freddie Rich's Orchestra are heard in a program of comedy and music on WJAS at 9.

The Goldman Band concert with Edwin Franko Goldman, conducting, presents a half-hour program over an NBC-KDKA network at Prospect Park, Brooklyn.

The program opens with Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," followed by Thomas' overture to "Mignon," and then Schubert's famous "Ave Maria," played from an arrangement by Goldman, still in manuscript form.

Another concert in the series which has been broadcast over NBC facilities by the Duluth Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Paul LaMay, is heard tonight at 9 over an NBC-WCAE network.

LaMay opens his program with the Carnival Overture of Dvorak, followed by Strauss' "Kaiser Waltz." Bach's "Air for the G String" and Tschaikowski's March Slav" completes the program.

Joan Warren Makes Air Debut Tonight

At least two Pittsburgh editors predict a brilliant career for Joan Warren, runner-up in the recent CBS-WJAS Dick Powell radio contest.

In fact, it is their opinion that Miss Warren will be a network star when the other contestants have been forgotten.

Pittsburghers have an opportunity to hear her over KDKA at 7:15 this evening, when she appears with Umberto Egizi's Orchestra on the Pittsburgh Varieties program.

Judge Piekarski On Air Tonight

Judge F. A. Piekarski, of the County Court bench, is to broadcast with the Aircaster at 6:35 this evening, in connection with the celebration of National Polish Day at Kennywood Park Wednesday.

Judge Piekarski is president of the Allegheny County Central Council of Polish organizations and is a prominent Polish national leader and well known Pittsburgh attorney.

He predicts 40,000 Poles from this section of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia will attend.

Junior Patrollers In 'Covered Wagon'

The Junior Patrol program tomorrow afternoon over WCAE from 4:45 to 5:15 will again feature Junior, Spike and Snuggins in their "covered wagon" tour through the "wilds" of the United States.

They are having what Junior refers to as "swell experiences" and are, apparently, totally unmindful of the fact that school will soon reopen.

Squabbling Puts Show On Rocks

"Going To Town," the KDKA variety show which has been delivering Sunday nights for some time, now is headed for the rocks.

It has been a successful broadcast, enhanced by the wit of Ed Lowry, the teamwork of Tim and Irene Noblette and the songs by Grace Hayes, not to mention the piano chores by Newell Chase.

Nevertheless, the show is doomed for two reasons.

It will be abolished first, because Joan Royal, program chieftain of NBC wants to create an institutional hour and give it the Sunday night spot—and secondly because the principals in "Going To Town" are reverting to vaudeville ham practices and squabbling among themselves for top billing.

"Not For Sale," might very well be the title for the new hour which Royal will create, because it will not be available to sponsors and it will feature each week a group of five or more loyal sustaining artists, who otherwise might never get a chance at nighttime programs because there are so few empty spaces left during the nocturnal hours.

The best of NBC sustaining talent will be paraded on the new show, just as "BS is parading its talent on Sundays.

The only difference is that CBS would sell its 8 to 9 Sunday night spot if it could; WJZ will maintain it to give the local non-commercial artists a break.

"Going To Town" has been a remarkable show and has held up [illegible] is the fact that on WEAF and CBS at the same time, there is major competition.

John B. Kennedy and Don Bestor, with a dramatic cast will launch an NBC series shortly in behalf of a radio tube and will dramatize and set to music the biographies of radio stars. . . .

STATE LAUNCHES QUIZ AT BUTLER POOR FARM

NEW YORK Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—H. G. Wells, always indifferent about American humor, is said to have exploded in a volcanic fit of laughing at breakfast in a Washington hotel on a recent visit. So much so that, when his waiter stepped toward him anxiously, he pointed to a paragraph in Bugs Baer's column. And burst out again.

No American humorist, with the exception of Ring Lardner, has achieved Baer's ability to hide away innocently in some rambling notations a line barbed with laugh provoking T. N. T. that will rock the reader. What is more he does it, almost without fail, 365 days in a year.

It has been so long ago that not many remember the Bugs Baer's hilarity had its genesis in sport page drawings. They were grotesque wing-dings and amusing but his metier is the unpredictable and cock-eyed dissertation on any topic that comes to mind.

Baer is a strapping near-six-footer, temperamental as a diva and a thorough going family man. When he can be induced to sit at a banquet board, his sallies leave diners prostrate. George Rector once told me of hunting up Baer on the night of his first arrival in Paris. The humorist was in a lounge suit reading Spinoza.

Bert Levy, vaudeville cartoonist, was recently trundled in a chair to a cartoonists' dinner in Los Angeles, where he made the wittiest speech of the evening, and was returned to his sick room. For years his whistling-cartoon skit was as well known in Europe and Australia as in New York. He had been wrestling with a strange malady for eight years through the sheer force of indomitable courage. He was one of the first men I ever saw wearing a Vandyke.

At Lindy's they were discussing an unpopular figure in the Broadway parade. Someone asked George Jessel's opinion. "It would take only a minute," he said, "but why waste a minute?"

The cafes, night clubs and smart ateliers once had a classy clientele known as "Cuban spenders." They were the wives, sons and daughters of the rich sugar and coffee planters and nothing was too expensive. Jewelry merchants found them better customers. Of course, for the majority, fortune has vanished. The old regime Cuban aristocracy now lives mostly in brownstone boarding houses in the West 80's—the sort where "paying guests" droop on stoops at night. And look far away.

The widow of John J. McGraw has gone back to the scene of her husband's first diamond triumphs—Baltimore—to live. Perhaps the least known of wives of baseball heroes to the public, she was nevertheless a keen student of the game. Many Giant players did not know her by sight. Yet she sat inconspicuously at innumerable games and her advice was almost invariably accepted by her husband. McGraw had at one time an enormous fortune but much of it was lost in unfortunate investments.

There's no place so gay as mid-town just before everybody arrives for work in the morning. There are the brass sign polishers, always whistling at their chore, the porters—and why are most porters bandy-legged?—filled with sudden smilings and bright greetings. Truckmen, going by with early loads, exchange banter with the sidewalk sweepers and polishers. Policemen going to their posts often indulge special pleasantries. It's a brief interlude soon wiped out by the furious swoop of later crowds.

Madison avenue is to have a store that caters exclusively to the pajama and lounging robe tastes of dandies. Every garment will be especially tailored with pajama prices ranging from $12 to $50 and robes from $40 to $195. London has several such shops. The increased use of such apparel is due largely to their exploitation in stage roles in recent years and the informality of attire by hosts at cocktail parties. Haberdashers say the well dressed should have 24 pajamas and a dozen robes.

On an upsweep of Riverside Drive last evening I observed that a dark, low hanging cloud over the Jersey palisades was actually the first I ever saw with a silver lining. "Take a long squint," cyniced Harry Silvey from a rear seat. "It may be your last."

U. S. WORKERS FIGHT SPOILS SYSTEM

Defend Civil Service From Politics of New Deal.

Formal action to save federal employes under civil service from the hands of political spoilsmen is planned by the Pittsburgh Union No. 66, Federation of Federal Employes.

Declaring that federal employees should unite in support of the merit system, Joseph T. Lloyd, president of the Pittsburgh chapter of the organization, said yesterday that the local unit will take action at its next meeting, September 6.

Lloyd, an employe of the Veterans' Bureau, House Building, said yesterday that politics has been responsible for the removal of federal employes in Pittsburgh, but pointed out that the spoils system in Pittsburgh federal offices has in the most part been confined to jobs not listed under the merit system. He explained, however, that he knows of a few cases where civil service employes were transferred from a civil service job to a job not under the service and then dismissed.

Federal civil service is losing much of its importance, Lloyd says, because of the fast rise of the many new government agencies.

An urgent appeal for the mobilization of public opinion behind efforts to save civil service from destruction is contained in a full-page editorial in the current issue of the Federal Employee, official magazine of the National Federation of Federal Employes.

The editorial says in part:

"On every front the spoilsmen are pushing forward. The hordes of job seekers are being accommodated. It is fallacious to assume that the drive of the spoilsmen has been successful only in the new federal agencies. The happenings of the past year, and, indeed, of the past month should serve as substantial proof that the merit system is far from impregnable."

OFFICIAL SIFTS BRUTALITY CHARGE

Ousted Superintendent Faces Trial by Grand Jury.

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 14.—Miss Isabel Pelley, investigator for the State Department of Welfare, was in Butler today to launch her investigation of alleged acts of brutality at the Butler County Poor Farm.

The charges have resulted in the ousting of Fred C. Herold, former superintendent, and the appointment of J. C. Barr to succeed him.

Mrs. Pelley's report will be submitted directly to Miss Alice I. Liveright, secretary of the Welfare Department.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Edgar H. Negley announced that since Herold has been ousted it may not be necessary to go ahead with a grand jury investigation of treatment of inmates of the poor farm.

Herold is under $1,000 bond pending action of the grand jury on two criminal charges filed by A. W. Bortmas, 84, and Peter B. Ross, 69, inmates of the farm who charged brutal treatment.

JACK'S BEAN STALK REAL

The mythical Jack and the Beanstalk has a true-life rival today, in the form of Jack Berger, 8, of 835 Ridge avenue, North Side. Jack has a beanstalk 24 feet high, which he started in a cup at Easter time.

The stalk grew and grew, and Jack had no yard to plant it in, so he gave it to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lower, of 913 Beech avenue.

Mr. Lower has added pole after pole for the vine to climb on until finally he can't reach any farther, and the stalk must give up hopes of reaching the sky.

Jack says he intends to climb the stalk and feels sure he'll find a giant at the top.

CRONKHITE BIDS VETS TO RALLY

Urging veterans to "forget the illusions of 1917 and 1918 and have a happy time," Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, war-time commander of the 80th Division, last night called for the "biggest delegation yet" to attend the fifteenth annual convention of the 80th Division Veterans Association at Conneaut Lake Park, beginning Thursday.

Praising the association, the general, who spoke over Radio Station KDKA, said:

Hapsburg Chin To Waggle in Austrian Porridge

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Looks like the Hapsburg deep-dish chin will waggle again in the Austrian porridge.

If Mussolini says the word it will be the Alps against the Balkans to see who can start the most avalanches.

The American hill-billies do nothing but sing. The European hill-billies do nothing but fight. The Czechs, the Rumanians and the Slavs hate the Hapsburgs with a love that is everlasting.

If Otto takes the Austrian throne, it will be another shad planking itself. His official string of titles will be:

"Monarch of the high balcony; emperor of the broadcasting tower, czar of the clay pigeons; ruler of the salute, and sole custodian of the door marked 'exit.'"

Otto is in a safe place now. Why toss the brussels sprout into the Hungarian goulash?

Injured When Bus Skids Down Bank

Sahagore Angelilli, 50, of Fallowfield avenue, was recovering in a Lewistown (Pa.) hospital today from injuries suffered late yesterday when a Pittsburgh-to-New York-bound bus on which he was a passenger tumbled down a 20-foot embankment.

Twenty-two persons were passengers in the bus. Ten were cut and bruised, one of whom was Vincent Swarchek, of Burgettstown. They continued the trip.

Investigators said the bus skidded on wet concrete near Lewistown.

END IN TROLLEY HEARING NEAR

Indications today were that hearings by the arbitration board named to seek a solution of the wrangle between the Pittsburgh Railways Company and its 1,800 conductors and motormen over wages and working hours, would be ended by the last of the week. The men are asking an increase from 74 cents to $1.10 an hour and a five-day, 30-hour week.

Witnesses before the board yesterday were R. D. Palmer, transient research engineer; Attorney Carl E. Glock, utility counsel, and J. P. West, traffic manager of the company.

Combating a charge of the union that the railways company is being charged excessive rates for current by the Duquesne Light Company, sister concern, Palmer declared that Pittsburgh and Cleveland railways companies pay the lowest rates he had found in a broad survey of numerous cities. Among those paying higher rates, he said, are Toronto, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Baltimore.

Tables of statistics on kilowatt hour charges for electricity in Pittsburgh and other cities were presented by Glock to substantiate Palmer's testimony.

West testified that if shorter hours are granted the men, exclusive of a pay increase, the increased cost to the company would be more than $1,540,709 yearly.

Baby Injured In Stair Tumble

Beatrice Katz, 2, of 547 State street, Wilson, was in a serious condition in McKeesport Hospital today as a result of a fall down stairs last night. She suffered a possible skull fracture.

EXAMS FACE 4 IN POLICE JOBS

Four police lieutenants will be required to take civil service examinations as the result of a ruling by the Civil Service Commission throwing out an entire eligible list for irregularities.

Those affected are Lieut. Joseph L. Walker, stationed in the superintendent's office; Lieut. Arthur Baker, of South Side Police Station; Lieut. Walter J. Mullen, of Central Police Station, and Lieut. Burd L. Renn, of Center Avenue Police Station.

They were appointed from a list resulting from an examination held December 4, 1933. According to the commission, examination papers were not preserved as is required by law, and there were so many other irregularities that it was impossible to purge the list.

There were 80 names on the list which was thrown out.

Walker holds an unusual position in Supt. Jacob Dorsey's office, in that he does clerical and other office work as a lieutenant. The highest officer previously at that position was a sergeant.

Bogus Rum Stamps Hold Man for Trial

Frank Vandercroff, of 1926 Bedford avenue, was held for court by the United States Commissioner today under $2,000 bond. Police Lieut. Patrick B. Dixon testified that on June 23 he had confiscated a quantity of counterfeit liquor revenue stamps in Vandercroff's home.

RIVER YIELDS BODY OF BOY

The body of Billy Arnold, Jr., 14, of Pitcairn, drowned when a bridge was washed away Saturday, was found today at Lock No. 2, Monongahela River.

The body was found by William Cocain and Harry Baum, lockmen, about 8 a. m., and identified by the boy's father. A friend of the Arnold family, Willis Evans, of Pitcairn, who was searching the Monongahela waters yesterday for the body, also was notified.

Arnold and three friends were hurled into the swirling waters of Turtle Creek in Trafford City when a foot bridge attached to a tree collapsed.

SOON TO OPEN BOULEVARD

The Boulevard of the Allies, being resurfaced by the State Highway Department, will be opened by Labor Day, according to H. E. Kloss, state engineer.

A large amount of sewer construction and heavy rains have delayed the job, he said. The boulevard is being repaired from the north end of the Liberty Bridge to a point east of Seneca street. The Harrison Construction Company has the contract.

State officials also plan to open bids September 14 for construction of a new section of Sawmill Run boulevard between Nobles lane and Overbrook, and for the construction of Noblestown road, West End, at a point where a landslide has narrowed that highway to two lanes.

Of the latter two projects, only the Sawmill Run job will require a detour.

WIFE NO. 1 SUES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Ruth Francis, of 3785 East street, who claims she is wife No. 1 in the life of Roy Francis, also known as Henry Francis, today filed a suit for divorce.

She charged cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities.

Francis was held for court on a charge of bigamy at a hearing in Morals Court Saturday. At the hearing wife No. 2, Mrs. Jean Lennon Francis, 19, of 1304 Beechview avenue, sobbed that Francis had not told of his previous marriage.

Wife No. 1 stated that she married Francis in 1930 and that they have a 4-year-old son. She said that her husband left her last March.

HURT, ACCUSES SAMARITAN

Arrested on a disorderly conduct charge after asserting he had been struck by his benefactor's automobile, William Staab, 36, of 154 Pius street, awaited arraignment in South Side Police Court today.

Staab, his head lacerated, was found lying on the pavement at Mary and South Twenty-seventh streets yesterday by Frank Ganzak, of 2810 Edwards way. He took the victim to the hospital for treatment and police were called.

Staab was said to have told police that he was struck by Ganzak's car. Ganzak denied the charge and police questioned neighbors, who said the man had fallen in the street and had been lying there for some time when Ganzak picked him up.

County Gets Contract For New Home Funds

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank today was to turn over to the County Controller a copy of a contract sent County Commissioners yesterday through which the county will receive a $350,000 loan and grant from the Public Work Administration to build a juvenile court detention home. Plans for the new building, to replace the present structure on Forbes street, near Craft avenue, are now being drawn up by architects.

Wife Balks Gypsy Pair, But Husband Loses

Mrs. Anita Affolter outwitted those two gypsy women.

But the gypsies outwitted Mrs. Affolter's husband, Jack, it seems.

The wanderers halted the Affolters, who live at 907 Ramsey street, Wilkinsburg, a few days ago near Canton, O., and asked if they had seen their comrades.

The Affolters said and gave proper direction. So thankful were the gypsies that they insisted on blessing the Affolters and wishing them luck.

Mr. Affolter happened to be a few feet distant from his car, in which his wife was seated.

Mrs. Affolter resisted all efforts to bless her kerchief or her purse.

But the other gypsy insisted on crossing a good-luck sign on Mr. Affolter's purse.

Later when he counted his money, at Mrs. Affolter's insistence, he was $1 short.

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

A fashionable first-night theater in mid-August seems impossible.

But it's not. There was one last night with nearly everyone who's in town there.

There were two reasons for this phenomenon—first, Judith Anderson, who came to town to be a star, and second, the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse, which brought her here.

MISS DOYLE

She appeared with a supporting cast of Pittsburgh amateur actors and actresses last night in the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse in the Arnold School Theater, Braddock avenue, in "The Female of the Species."

Pittsburgh Girls Act as Ushers

And the play will continue all this week.

It was the world premiere, by the way, of the play.

A group of Pittsburgh girls ushered last night, and will usher all this week. Their chairman is young Jean Jenks.

Among the many there—it was practically a full house—were the Robert Watson Schmertzes. Mrs. Schmertz—she's Mildred Floyd Schmertz, the artist—looked cool in a red and green and white geometrically patterned organdie evening dress.

Mrs. Edwin Ruud was there, of course. She was in an all-white costume.

And I had a glimpse, I believe, of Mrs. Frederick W. Edmondson and her daughter Anne. Mrs. Edmondson was in a powder blue knitted dress, and Anne in a white crocheted string with red for accent.

Mrs. Frank Weberman was chatting with friends on the lawn outside the theater (in the daytime in the winter time it's the Arnold School gym.) Peggy Rowles was there in a summery white lace evening dress.

And I saw H. Fred Mercer, Jr., Richard S. Rauh and the Brandon Smiths, all the dramatic critics in town, and ever so many more than I have space to mention.

Did the carpenter in the play—taken by Carl Pribek—look familiar to you? He's none other than the man who played the mustachioed role of head waiter at the soiree charettes at the Architectural Club this past season.

Stage star Judith Anderson is the house guest of Mrs. Edwin Ruud during her Pittsburgh stay—she was here this past week for rehearsals and will be here all week for the production.

We wandered idly along looking at everything and nothing . . . and that's how we found these super-extra stocking boxes that are destined to make some of the feminine hearts of the town happy.

Old ivory ones of leatherette . . . white, rubbed to the smart brownish finish that is so a-la-mode today in furnishings and furbishings . . . and finished with a medallion, center top. Six sections for hose . . . 85c. (In colors also . . . but the white is so much swankier!)

Appenzel is the name of a town in Europe . . . where female fingers spend their days making beautiful linens instead of getting into mischief like we do here! And CAN they make them? The finest you could wish . . . the finest we've ever seen . . . and, incidentally, the most expensive!

So view with joy these words that tell you about the wise woman in town here who has had a chance to buy a whole sample lot of these to sell at one-half their proper sums! Not that they're cheap at that . . . but they're cheap as Appenzel hankies go. And we just sorta thought that you might like to know in case—well, in case you laid a couple away for gifts or sumpin'!

For these are one-of-a-kind hankies . . . with the filmiest of drawnwork on their handspun linen. With seed stitching sprinkled about . . . and rich embroidery in the corners. Priced $1.50 and $2 . . . and they should be just double this!

Yo ho! Heave ho! What ho! And all the rest of it! See what we've found! A markdown of dresses that will leave the most indifferent of you utterly popeyed if we know anything about it!

Dresses . . . that were $10 . . . and $17.50 . . . and $19.95 . . . are all going to be priced at $5.95 now! Dresses that include every better one in stock. They have candlewick ones . . . hand blocked linens . . . silk ensembles (with coats) organdies . . . everything a late-vacationer could ask for to wear right up until and including September 15th! Or even to put away for a starter next summer. sizes 14 to 20. . . and very broken, of course.

Pretty tough on young mothers, this thing of holding the baby with one hand while trying to find saf-o pills and talcum powder with the other, and everything sliding and slipping and giving you gray hairs over it!

Boo! A bright thought came to some humane soul . . . and now we have a grand folding utility tray that "holds everything" . . . and is easily handled . . . slows away in the cupboard when not in use . . . and costs only $3.50. It's lightweight . . . about the size of a "tea cart" (remember, the good old days when you used one?) . . . and is of ivory enameled wood. The trays (two of them) lift out . . . the legs fold together . . . and there you are! Yes . . . it has rubber tires so that you don't sound like an approaching ice wagon when you trundle it along. And we think it's pretty smart of this store to have it so soon . . . when it's just barely appearing in New York, we hear!

Tauber, Noted Tenor, Denies He'll Wed

SALZBURG, Austria, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Richard Tauber, famous operatic tenor, today denied published reports he was engaged to the beautiful Russian opera star, Mary Losseff. He said:

"She and I are great friends, but I am not thinking of marriage. I am entirely occupied with my work and have no time for private affairs."

FOOT NOTES FOR AUTUMN

Soakeskin and kid trim the green antelope pump directly below. Center below, a colonial tongue model in black gabardine with a deep side panel of patent. Bottom, a blue kid sandal, piped with white kid.

Note the jaunty length as well as the semi-formal top on the navy chiffon costume sketched. It is an all-day frock for late summer and early fall wear, with a pleated cape which transforms its dinner dress prettiness into a street costume. The trimming is white braid, laid on in flat coil rings.

EVERYBODY breaks down and buys at least one new white hat and one new pair of white shoes when mid-summer arrives with an explosion of extra heat, but immediately afterwards, it is lightweight, dark colored shoes that seem to be the best bets for the wardrobe. Even though the days continue to be warm, frocks of darker shades broken alluringly, and we dash into ensembles of black satin, navy in brown chiffon, and sets in the somber shades.

So the dark shoe which is cut out coolly or piped with a touch of lighter color, and in general very much the slipper sort of footwear, is of importance to us now. Dressmaker details, little appliqués, bows, inserts and fabric contrasts are a high spot of such shoes this late summer with plenty of sandal and opera models offered — both styles which are really becoming to feet of most sizes and shapes.

There are some nice green shades which will be smart with the metal and silk fabric frocks now appearing so successfully over a wide price range. Black for this season is jazzed a bit with patent leather or touches of reptile contrast. Although higher heels are usually more attractive for shoes intended for wear with soft, lightweight gowns, the low heel which created a furore last spring is still with us—in the flat or the Latin shape.

WOMEN who are about to outfit their feet for the next few months can rest assured that they can buy ringless stockings at a very modest price to wear with their low cut new shoes. These "even season" shoes are among the prettiest of the year.

Glass Dresses To Have Good Qualities

By DOROTHY ROE

Universal Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—There have now revised the old axiom to read—Ladies in glass dresses should never throw stones.

The first glass dress in history has made its appearance at a Paris fashion preview and soon we may see young ladies of fashion attired for the ball and equipped with placards reading

"Fragile—handle with care."

It might be a good thing, at that, for gentlemen who go in for the death clutch on the dance floor probably would remember their manners after cutting their fingers a couple of times on glass dresses.

The new glass dress is not a supple spun glass, however, and not so brittle as it looks. It gives to its wearer the appearance of a Dresden china doll, and is the first major invention of the factory world since cellophane and waterproofed velvets made their appearance a couple of seasons ago.

Eager dressmakers are warned, that the process has not yet been perfected for the general market, and the Schiaparelli model gown so far is the only glass dress in existence.

But it probably won't be long now until it will appear in American shops to add to the wonders of the skyscraper age.

And it's only slightly more breath-taking than other new fabrics of the season—for instance the new lame called poison, which is used for evening jackets and has a soft downy nap like angora.

There's also a shaggy material like gold and silver fur used for evening wraps and a lace weave that will fashion some of the most luxurious evening gowns of the winter.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Mary Landon Baker's socially historic record for altar dodging is being badly beaten on the matrimonial front of France's Riviera by Phyllis Dorothea Allyn, a pretty damsel who hails from Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Baker

Phyllis, who is the daughter of the Phillip Morton Allyns, now living in Cannes, has already left three men virtually at the church door and now it looks very much as if she is going to leave a fourth.

The first was an American, the second an Italian officer, and the third, a Dutchman. The fourth is Rene Vandeleur, young Belgian realtor, whom she was to have wed July 7.

Twice postponed at the last minute, friends now say the ceremony probably will never take place because "Phyllis has changed her mind again."

One little stumbling block—a divorce from his first wife—bars the aisle to the altar for Martha Gellhorn, beautiful blonde daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Gellhorn, St. Louis socialites, and Bertrand de Jouvenel, handsome son of one of the most distinguished French families.

Bertrand, who is the son of Henri de Jouvenel, France's former ambassador to Italy, hopes to be "free" from his first wife this October.

Martha has lived here seven years. Both she and Bertrand are writers and he is a rising young political leader.

Bertrand is said to have inspired his former stepmother, the famous novelist, Colette, to write her popular novel, "Cherie."

MME. PAUL DU MONNET

Maxine Elliott's Chateau de L'Horizon, near Cannes, is being referred to on the Riviera as "That titled boarding house." The list of Maxine's house guests always looks like a page out of Burke's peerage.

The week's guests included Lady Castelrosse and the Duke of Sutherland.

Lady Castlerosse, incidentally, established a new record at the Cannes Casino the other night when the roulette ball spun with such fury that it hopped, skipped and jumped right into the upturned brim of milady's straw hat.

Frank J. Gould's latest accomplishment is the rhumba. He has learned to dance it so well, I am told, that the casino floor at Juan Les Pins is cleared when "the master" glides forth.

The best dressed American women in Europe last week: At Venice, Princess Alexis (Barbara Hutton) Mdivani, in gold embroidered Chinese pajamas with gold mandarin hat and slippers, lounging with her handsome prince. . . . At Cannes, Peggy Hopkins Joyce, dressed in a navy blue beach dress, bolero and beret, strolling along the beach very chummily with the Italian Duke De Laurino.

SUN-TELEGRAPH

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Things I Never Knew About Horse-Racing.

One reason they made betting legal on local tracks is because the State solons were staggered when they learned that at a recent meeting in Florida, twenty-seven million bucks were played on the mutuel machines. (Most of it was New York dough, too!)

The reason jockeys keep close to the rail is because it is the shortest route home. Then again, the turf close to the rail is not as rough as in the center of the track, thus making the galloping much easier.

When the finish of a race is very close, the customers must guess the winner, because from nearly every point of the track, the finish posts are viewed from a deceptive angle.

The judge's stand is in perfect line with the finish posts—so perfect, in fact, that to mistake the winner, even by a nose, is impossible. (Oh, sure!)

The saliva test is not given to every nag as generally believed. The rule calls for only two horses on every track a day. On some tracks, perhaps, a few more nags are tested, but it isn't compulsory.

It is not considered a horrible thing among the paddocks to needle a horse. This is the only way some racing plugs can be made to run. (Especially the nag tagged "Okay Winchell!")

Belmont Park is the only track in the East that has a sprint track. It crosses the main track at an angle and is only six furlongs in length.

Money is wagered on the Kentucky Derby many weeks before the big classic is run. The chumps get better odds that way.

There is no such thing as a "sure thing." So-called inside information is nothing else but facts, based solely upon a nag's past record. (But try to tell a sap!)

Folks who pay big prices for information are suckers. Newspaper handicappers give better information, and the cost is only the price of a paper.

Naturally, a horse that has run in the money nine out of ten starts, has more class and a better chance of winning, than a plug that has never seen a purse.

Information purported to come right from the owner is also a lot of horse hoofs! No owner knows for sure that his horse will win. He only hopes he will.

Proof of this is offered by a recent race in which Slapdash and Faireno were entered in a race by the same stable. One was hurt against the rail and slowed up. The other was pocketed at the turn, so neither of them won, though they were "sure things," and the two best nags that ever came under the Fitzsimmons wing.

It is a fact, however, that a stable may not be trying to win. But there's nothing illegal about that. Owners very often enter a horse merely for the workout.

Some saps lay their dough on a jockey instead of a horse. If properly ridden, it is the horse that wins the race, not the jockey.

No jockey ever uses his spurs. They are worn simply because it is a racetrack tradition.

Most of the clockers begin work at the break of day, and only the trainer knows the name of the horse that is being clocked.

Two-year-olds are in reality only a year and six months old.

The birth record of a race horse begins on January 1. A nag born in August becomes a year old six months later.

Most racing nags are born between January 1 and midsummer.

A 3-year-old is never as old as that. They're younger by all of six months.

Blinkers are worn only by certain 2-year-olds, because they shy easily. This does not retard or help them to win.

Some people think a horse needs a drink of water after a race. To give a horse water at such a critical moment would paralyze its stomach.

It is difficult for even jockeys and trainers to tell their horses apart. All unmarked horses look alike. It is only by birth marks that they can be identified.

You would run out of numbers if you tried to count the people who play horses in New York City on any racing day.

Bookmakers lose plenty of money on telephone bets. Telephone players show up when they win, and seldom when they lose.

The temptation to lay a heavy wager over the telephone is great, because there is no immediate layout of cash involved.

The bookmaking business is not all fun and glory. These lads come under the surveillance of three police department divisions, namely, the chief inspector's office, the inspector's office and the local precinct cops.

A fellow can be pinched for accepting a racing slip, but not for laying a bet.

Reasons why people should not play horses are too numerous to print. There are approximately 25 uncontrollable accidents that can happen in the course of a race to prevent a horse from winning.

For example, a horse may have a stomachache just before the race, which nobody knows anything about. Just try running around a cinderpath track with a pain in your center.

Every bookie outside the track expects at least four pinches a year. They're in the bag!

Many bookmakers in the Wall street and office sectors take bets as low as 25 cents. In that case, if a horse wins and pays 2 to 5, you owe the bookmaker money!

Death House Drama Built Around Tiger Woman

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The largest audience yet gathered in the Arnold Auditorium by the Civic Playhouse thrilled and laughed last night as Chester Wallace won three hundred bucks from Martin Fallon in Alfred L. Golden's new drama, "The Female of the Species," while Judith Anderson sang sentimental ballads in ribald vein in the death house where she was waiting to go to the electric chair.

Mr. Seibel

She went to the chair finally, breaking down half way, and Chester won his bet. But there should be another act in which Chester is sentenced six months for stealing the show. As a philosophic death watch in the corridor of the condemned, he gave a rich characterization that was never overdone — and so compellingly human that the aforesaid larceny was easy.

The drama is obviously based on the career and end of that redoubtable Irene who was the Tiger Woman of the news columns a few years ago. This is the role played by Judith Anderson in true tigerish style. Except for a scene in the first act, when she impersonates the pious sister of the first gangster who has been condemned, in order to get an interview with him, and a scene in the second act when she takes farewell of her lover, her character is in the same key of festive ferocity. And she does it with real bravura—if she had more to do in the last act, Chester Wallace's larceny would not have been so easy.

But this play is so well cast that it would be difficult to mark any role with asterisks. Edward Blaine as the condemned prisoner in act one and Lee Daschbach as the condemned prisoner in act three both made the most of their opportunities to act. In fact, it would be doubtful if such opportunities for acting would be afforded the inmates of a real death row. But this prison is very satisfactory in several respects—the wardens, deputy wardens, watchmen and matrons live very entertaining lives in the corridor, assisted by a handy carpenter.

Helen Wayne had a bit of touching sentimental play, and Frank Furlong made a very businesslike warden, but all 12 of the cast acquitted themselves with high honor. The playwright, a Pittsburgher who began at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, had given them ample opportunities, for his play is written to score points, and never misses a shot. The first act is rather the best of the three, and the second act has too much "tuning the fiddles," but all through there is tension that does not snap and is relieved by brisk dialogue and the quiet humor of the Chester Wallace characterization.

There is plenty of realism, plenty of exciting action, and a consistent story with continuous suspense. With a bare suggestion of "The Valiant" and "The Last Mile," Golden has evolved a stark tragedy out of his hard-boiled female bandit's psychology. But he has come dangerously close to making it a lively comedy based upon the whimsical philosophy of his death watch. Adding these two elements together, the result is a gripping and amusing play that ought to get much further than the Civic Playhouse. The audience thought so and the author had to make several bows and a speech.

Henderson's Band In Kennywood

Two orchestras will wage a "battle of music" tonight in Kennywood. Fletcher Henderson, called "the colored king of jazz," and George Williams and his band are the competing musical organizations. Jack Bowman, master of ceremonies, will referee. Henderson established an all-time record on Broadway with an eight-year run and was a pioneer in ocean-to-ocean broadcasts.

HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—Hello! Just as the sudden, spurting-like advent of the talkies proved the lifesaver to a slowly but surely passing out silent movie, so will natural color and third dimension films be the next revolutionary developments in film making—and this was predicted by one of Hollywood's pioneer producers, Jesse L. Lasky.

Mr. Lasky

Lasky, now producing for Fox, believes that these new mechanical and scientific developments will bring about a real rejuvenation of the industry, and send boxoffice grosses soaring.

Novelty of presentation has always been the keynote of cinema entertainment. Perhaps the "gentle hint," prompted obviously by censorship and purity clauses, will also be "the mother of invention" for something entirely new. Anyway, Lasky is quite timely—if not a trifle ahead of time—with his ideas.

Warners' dusted off Ben Hecht's ancient mystery novel (written on a bet), "The Florentine Dagger," and scenarist Tom Reed will modernize it for a celluloid chill-getter.

There's a HITCH in Anita Louise's long-term ticket with Warners. She wants a clause which will permit her to do one picture on the outside—and it will probably all be ironed out by the time you read this.

You can mark this down in your book with black ink and big letters—David Jack Holt, tiny actor, is definitely the next massive rave of the film public. I saw a preview of "You Belong to Me," starring Lee Tracy and Helen Mack—and Master Holt wrapped up the entire picture for himself! If you didn't think Shirley Temple could ever have a rival, you're wrong—He's it!

Director Bill Beaudine pulled up stakes, heading for New York and then to London to megaphone a ditty, "Funny Face," for British International. The missus is tagging along—and they'll be celebratin' their twentieth wedding anniversary over there—and congrats!

Glenda Farrell captured a lengthy ticket from Warners' and a boost in billing... Little Patricia O'Neal, just 10, portrays Ruby Keeler as a kid in "Dames," and is a-headin' for a career as a dancer in the flickers.

Some of the lads and lassies were chinning about a certain movie feller who had been married five or six times and was again listening to wedding bells. Maxie Rosenbloom piped up with:

"He must have a charge account with the minister!"

Allan Rogers has been singing Ted Snyder's new tune, "Mother Ireland Sing a Song" (words by J. Educational lot, and the company Keirn Brennan); even if you just look you might want to hear a ditty. In fact, he's been looking up benefits to introduce it.

Figuring that only confusion would result, Warners' changed Mervin Light's first moniker to Robert. He's a juvenile.

The other night a very embarrassing incident occurred when Maxie Rosenbloom, clad only in his shorts, was accidentally locked out of his hotel room. A playful pal then started ringing all the nearby doorbells, and Maxie, in the excitement, started running up and down the hallway, much to everybody's amusement. Even the manager laughed so much he couldn't open the door.

Quite timely is the title "Going, Going, Gone." This was the last comedy to be made on the old moved out when the film was completed. It was this ancient studio that King Vidor and Louise Fazenda got their start to fame.

Max Reinhardt wanted Hugh Herbert to play "Puck" in the Hollywood Bowl presentation of "Midsummer Night's Dream," but Eddie Cantor cut in and may do it for a gag.

Jane Cowl has taken her pen in hand and is doing her initial screen scribbling by adding some dialogue to the next Francis Lederer movie at RKO, "Romance in Manhattan."

Miss Cowl

Fred Newmeyer, director, is back from shooting orders in an English studio, and now puttering around his gold mine—and the funny thing about it, it actually has the stuff that glitters... The Conrad Nagel divorce didn't even cause the flutter of an eyelash—it was expected for so long... Ward Morehouse's screen yarn, "Bagdad on the Hudson," is being re-written by Rian James (one's a columnist and the other is an ex-) and it will carry off the caption of "It Happened in New York," for Universal.

Oscar, Paramount's shoe-shiner, and muchly-press-agent actor (when he acts) is probably the only shine 'em up guy to crash the ether waves. He goes on the air with Lanny Ross for a dialogue routine.

Lupe Velez's battle with Producer Bill Rowland over her salary while she waits for a re-write of "The Girl Friend" script will probably result in the fiery Mexican jumping-bean going out of the cast.

Edward Everett Horton had a "Giving-away-spree" the other day. Silken dressing gowns to all the men in the cast, perfume for the women and gifts for all the laborers on the set of "The Gay Divorce."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Billy B. Van, who retired from the stage at the very top of his career as a vaudeville jokester and stellar comedian of the classier of musical comedies, is still a showman, and he is putting on an act—demonstration of his own make of soap—in connection with a convention in the Hotel William Penn. It isn't such a great change, at least in technique, he says. Only the makeup is different. The comedian, according to Billy, has to deliver goods bought and paid for by the customer right there, while the demonstrator has the article to show.

Mr. Van was the comedian in "The Rainbow Girl" that showed in the Nixon some years ago, the prima donna of which was Grace Walsh. Now she is Mrs. Van, mother of three children they are rearing back in the hills of New Hampshire. That wasn't his last show in Pittsburgh, but for obvious reasons, he likes to recall it.

Several years prior to his retirement from the stage he had gone into the medicinal soap business, and it grew to such proportions that he quit the theater to nurse his growing enterprise. No old actors' home for Billy B. Van, whose smile is a natural for showmanship, stage or any kind.

Among his cherished local friends were the late Senator John P. Harris and John B. Reynolds, while those still here include Harry Davis, Eugene L. Connelly and Harry Brown.

The Hill Top Community Playhouse of Knoxville will begin casting this week for "Death Takes a Holiday," to be produced in October, with John J. Davis, who appeared with the Epworthian Players in the spring in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." The October production will be the first of a series. D. M. Hall is supervising director.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—At the crack of dawn t'other day Gene Raymond received a telegram saying: "Where will you be lunching? I must have your autograph," signed "The Oklahoma Tornado." To make a long story short, the lady who sent the message dipped her beak into every one of our eateries, but to no avail, finally ending up at the Beverly Hills Tennis Club and practically tornadoing up the joint, even going so far as to refuse, as substitute, the monickers of Freddie March and Robert Montgomery. It would seem she had bet that she could get Mr. Raymond's before leaving for Oklahoma, so she traced it off the register.

No longer will you see Fifi Dorsay with what you thought was her natural black hair, nor will you hear her French accent. The hair is now au naturel, a beautiful shade of light brown, while the French accent is being done away with via the making of phonograph records to perfect her English, and all this since there is no longer a demand for French versions, or French accented roles.

or it may be delayed several months. Bill says he and Marion haven't got as far as naming the definite date. But they're in love—as if Hollywood needed to be told—and both are now free to marry. Laura La Plante's foreign divorce gave Bill the immediate right. And Marion's divorce from Eddie Hillman recently became final.

Dad Keaton In Film

Wearing make-up for the first time in years, Joe Keaton, aged 56 years, father of Buster Keaton, is playing his first movie part in Helen Hayes' picture, "What Every Woman Knows".

Save for one genefit performance, this is the first time the elder Keaton has donned the grease-paint since the Keaton family vaudeville act broke up in San Francisco and the youthful Buster to come to Hollywood and begin his clowning career in the movies.

Your Theater and Mine

By KARL KRUG

FLASH—The Fulton Theater will reopen on Thursday, August 23, with either Franchot Tone in "Straight Is the Way" or "Paris Interlude," with Madge Evans and Robert Young, as the first picture of the season.

This, as the fellow said, is life. Adolphe Menjou, the Pittsburgh actor, was fired from his Cornell University theatrical society as a hopeless incompetent... Now they're planning to name it for him... While that fine old silent photo play, "Tell It to the Marines," is still being shown... It was purchased by the United States government and every rookie marine must see it as part of his early training... Lon Chaney is it's star, the same Lon Chaney omitted from his list of greatest screen players of all time by Sam Goldwyn... Hee, hee, hee.

Words of wisdom: "If the public wants a play or a picture it will patronize it. If not, it will die of its own ailments... Dialogue which is true, sincere and essential to the story should not be deleted for the sake of some youngster in the theater who cried because he didn't want to be left at home alone."—Judith Anderson.

"Berkeley Square" and "Voltaire" were cancelled by 25 per cent of the film theaters... "Abraham Lincoln" played in Honest Abe's own Springfield, Ill., to an audience of 20 people... In one territory, exhibitors were persuaded to play "Alice in Wonderland" only on condition that they get the Mae West pictures... "Cavalcade" was cancelled by nearly all the small towns... But there was not a single cancellation of "I'm No Angel" or "So This Is Africa."

What to do, what to do when the censor bogey man comes around?

Eugene L. Connelly, veteran Pittsburgh showman, who has been seriously ill in the Magee Hospital for the past few weeks of heat prostration, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home in South Aiken avenue... Mr. Connelly is definitely on the mend, which will be good news to his thousands of friends and acquaintances in the amusement world, both here and elsewhere.

Paramount has engaged one "Duke" York to appear in one of their coming productions. The Duke is the gent who travels up and down the land offering a cash prize to anyone who can make him smile. So far, his act hasn't cost him a dime. However, after a few days in Hollywood, the odds are a thousand to one he'll be laughing right out loud!

In Which the Customers Do the Work.

"DEAR MARK," writes June Ryan, of Rochester, N. Y. "It's about time, I think, that you turned from crooks and gangsters, and added a touch of class to the column. Here's a little story about the Duke of Norfolk and the Earl of Derby that should fit the bill very nicely.

"The late Duke of Norfolk—'Premier Peer of the Realm,' if you please—was known as the most slovenly dresser in England. He cared nothing at all about his personal appearance.

"His trousers were never creased. His coat was always wrinkled. His sox were a holy terror. And his shoes always harbored a spoon or two of the royal soup. But he was happy, and the situation worried him not at all.

"Exactly the opposite was his friend, the Earl of Derby. Visiting the Duke's home for a week-end, the Earl of Derby was very much concerned over his host's lack of respect for correct attire.

"He said nothing about it, however, until they walked through the village one afternoon. Lord Norfolk, greatly loved, was greeted with affection and courtesy by his neighbors. And the Earl of Derby finally spoke his mind.

"'My dear fellow,' he said, 'you seem to be greatly admired. I am happy to see it. But I must tell you that your rig-out is a disgrace. Why don't you do something about it?

"'Surely you know it is becoming for a gentleman to dress properly. Why don't you change your ways? You look like a tramp!'

"Lord Norfolk smiled easily.

"'It doesn't really matter,' he replied. 'After all, everyone knows me here.'

"A year later, Norfolk visited Derby's estate in India. The Earl looked at his friend and shook his head sadly.

"'Haven't changed a bit, I see,' he asserted. 'Even in India, your clothes are slovenly.'

"Lord Norfolk shrugged his shoulders.

"A CHAP from a nudist colony recently came to this city," writes Dr. C. W. Jackman, of Chicago, "to see the wonders of the Fair.

"I'M sorry," apologizes Eddie Garr, "that I gave you a wrong steer by saying that 'it's a woman's privilege to change your mind.'

"I just happened to overhear several of my married friends discussing how closely their wives guard the family exchequer—and I've come to the conclusion that it's a woman's privilege to mind your change."

"THERE was a picture star in town a few weeks ago," writes Fred Miller, "who came here for the opening of his new film. Reports from the Coast had it that the star had switched his style of playing, and that the results were pretty sad.

"He sat at a table with some of the Broadway boys, and worried about his personal appearance the following night.

"'I don't know how they'll take me as a romantic hero,' he frowned, 'and I'm frightened about that audience when I take my bow. If I make a speech, what shall I say?'

"A newspaperman smiled happily.

"'I saw your picture in the projection room yesterday,' he asserted, 'and you needn't worry about your speech. Just say you're sorry!'"

"ADD this to your definitions of a bachelor," suggested Fred Koszalka.

"A bachelor is a chap who believes it is better to have loved and lost—than never to be free again!" . . .

"NO question about it," observes Bill Huggins. "Walt Disney certainly proves the truth of that old adage. He's just another instance of the man who built a better mouse-trap than his neighbor!" . . .

"DID you hear the one about the tattooed man," asks Hugh Wedlock, Jr., "who went to the chiropractor for an adjustment?

"Well, when the chiropractor got through, the tattooed man was as mad as the devil. Three pictures were out of focus!"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Return the Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If a girl has been engaged and has broken her engagement owing to the fact that the man wasn't true to her . . . he went with another girl during the engagement . . . and the girl kept the ring, is it proper for her to wear the ring on her ring hand? It is on a plain setting, or should I have it set over, or shouldn't I wear it at all? D.

The girl not only should not wear the ring, but she should not even consider keeping the ring. When an engagement is broken, a girl should return her engagement ring. Any sensitive-minded girl would despise keeping the symbol of an engagement that no longer exists . . . and especially under these circumstances, when the man has been such a cad.

To Shift or Not to Shift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper when eating to cut the food with the knife in the right hand, the fork in the left hand and then to raise the food to the mouth with the fork in the left hand, or laying the knife across the plate, change the fork to the right hand, and lift the food to the mouth with the fork in the right hand? K.

Both forms of eating are correct. The first way the fork-shifting way is used oftenest on this side of the ocean; the non fork-shifting way, or the "continental" way, is used in Europe. The reasons why this question arises so often is, I think, that people now travel more than they used to, and in traveling, observe different ways of eating. Also people are more eager than formerly, I believe, to eat correctly. In any event, the non fork-shifting way of eating has taken unto itself converts, for people realize that they can quickly and easily acquire the non fork-shifting way of eating, and they realize, too, that it is not so full of fussy, unnecessary motions as the fork-shifting way.

TELLING WORLD SNAKE FAILED

Universal Service.

SYLVA, N. C., Aug. 14.—With radio, stage and pulpit offers pouring in on him, the Rev. Albert Trexler announced he will broadcast tonight at 8:30 over a nationwide hookup, to tell the world how his "faith in God" enabled him to suffer rattlesnake bites in his pulpit, and recover from them without medical aid.

The mountain preacher has also received an offer from a Baltimore impresario, Harry L. Katz, to tour the United States, preaching in principal cities, he said.

Announcing his decision to make the radio talk, Trexler said:

"All my experience with the snake has been for the glory of God, and I will continue to preach his word by radio, from the stage, and from the pulpit. My arm will be well in a few days, and I will take up the work of outlawing sin from this earth."

WHEAT LEADERS FIND CONTROL NECESSARY

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—That necessity still exists for government measures to bring wheat farmers a satisfactory margin of profit was stressed at the opening session today of the International Wheat Conference.

A review of the current situation disclosed that the wheat "diplomats" expect the 1,000,000,000 bushel glut of world stocks will be considerably alleviated as a result of the universal drought. This, they estimate, will cut normal production this year by 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels a spokesman said.

"But we still have far to go if we want to safeguard the world against the danger of grave crises in the future.

"The drought will go a long way this year toward getting rid of the world's surplus but we are convinced it will not go as far as recent reports indicated. Furthermore, we cannot count on similar favorable prospects next year and the year after."

A summary of drought results made at the meeting brought out that Argentina alone of the big producers, will have a good crop. But big carryovers were found still to be a serious menace.

Just back from a European tour, Andrew Cairns, of Canada, secretary of the world wheat commission, said he found that France, Yugo-Slavia and Hungary especially will have a larger carryover than was anticipated earlier.

1% CUT ACREAGE

The first problem to be tackled by the conference at which 15 countries are represented, is acreage reduction.

It was learned that American, Canadian and Australian delegates, who held preliminary meetings yesterday, want to maintain reductions already effected during the past year and also to bring European countries into the scheme.

At least a 15 per cent reduction by each of the four big producers—for the United States this would mean merely maintaining the reduction effected during the past year—and reductions of from 10 to 15 per cent by various European countries is desired.

The "big four" are Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina.

EXTEND PACT

If an agreement can be reached delegates expect it to lead to an extension of the international wheat pact signed by 21 countries last fall. The pact ends July 31, 1935, but any acreage reductions next year would affect crops marketed during 1935-36.

Delegates indicated the question of extension of the wheat pact probably would be taken up before the subject of export quotas. There are strong indications the United States will be satisfied with a quota of about 35,000,000 bushels, although it was tentatively granted 84,000,000 bushels for the second year.

In this connection it was pointed out that the drought has drastically changed the world wheat situation.

The attitude of American, Canadian and Australian delegates toward an Argentine demand for a quota of 150,000,000 bushels, it was learned, will depend upon what Argentina does regarding acreage reduction.

That country's delegate, Rodolfo Garcia-Arias, is expected to make a report today or tomorrow on the extent of acreage reduction in Argentina.

Department Sees End of Surplus

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Abnormal surplus wheat stocks throughout the world will be reduced, if not eliminated, under the blaze of world-wide drought conditions, the Department of Agriculture reported today.

American per capita wheat production this year is the lowest on record, the total crop being under 500,000,000 bushels.

Canadian estimates indicate a crop not much above last season's short crop. Europe's crop likewise is down. The department said:

"Indications are that the world, excluding Russia and China, will produce about 400,000,000 bushels less wheat than last year, with the probable result that abnormal surplus stocks of wheat will cease to exist."

The report said there is no likelihood that the population will be short of foodstuffs, but livestock in over more than half the country is already short of feed.

STOCKS STEADY IN SLUGGISH TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—With the Treasury permitting gold to flow out of the country to support the dollar, inflationary fires cooled in the stock market today.

Prices of shares held very steady in sluggish trading, save for some of the silver stocks, where moderate reactions developed. Some of the foods, oils and tractions were a little higher. Bonds were firm, including U. S. governments. In commodities, grains resumed their advance, but such staples as cotton, sugar and rubber were lower.

United States Smelting, Howe Sound and Cerro de Pasco lost major fractions to a point, while gains of fractions to a point appeared in General Foods, Standard Brands, Socony-Vacuum, Seaboard Oil, Standard of California, Armour preferred new, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Interboro. United States Steel, American Telephone and Case were fractionally lower.

It was announced that $1,000,000 in gold was being exported by one of the Wall street banks as a normal exchange operation resulting from the high premiums commanded by the French francs and other leading currencies over the dollar. While Secretary Morgenthau had said last winter, when the dollar was devalued and placed on an international bullion basis, that exports of metal would be licensed whenever the dollar sank to levels that would make such operations profitable, today's export was the first test of the Treasury's policy. It was accepted as evidence that the dollar was on a free gold basis, so far as international transactions were concerned.

Excitement over possible silver inflation resulting from news last week that currency would be issued against silver held in the Treasury up to June 14, or the date of the enactment of the silver purchase act, at $1.29 per ounce, was also definitely quieted by Secretary Morgenthau's explanation that this was a special situation, and that metal bought under the silver purchase act would be used as currency backing only to the extent of the cost of the metal. With considerable Treasury financing to be done on September 15 and October 15, Wall street concluded that inflation fears would definitely be quieted from now on. The Treasury Department announced that it had purchased $45,098,100 in Treasury securities during the week ended August 13, which was the period in which active selling of those obligations developed.

Beet Sugar Crop Smallest in Years

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—United State beet sugar production during the current season, based on crop condition as of July 31, will approximate 1,050,000 short tons and will compare with 1,635,000 tons produced in 1933, according to Facts About Sugar. This would be the smallest crop since 1926, when 898,000 short tons were produced.

Hog Prices Reach Top Level of 1931

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The hog market opened 15 to 25 cents higher today with a top of $5.30. The latter equaled the outside figure of October, 1931. Light receipts here and in the West, with the western run approximately 20,000 head less than a week ago and a year ago, had considerable influence in forcing prices upward.

Corporate Financing Gains During July

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Corporate financing in July totaled $161,249,300 comparing with the June aggregate of only $13,688,680 and the July, 1933, figure of $74,520,650. The seven-month total is $419,516,310 this year, as against $221,980,970 in the similar 1933 period and the high record of $6,721,938,385 in 1929.

Gasoline Prices Drop at Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Low octane gasoline has eased further in the spot market under pressure of low priced offerings and is now quoted 3¾ to 4 cents a gallon, as compared with 3⅞ to 4 cents last week. Gasoline can be purchased for 3½ cents in East Texas.

PENNANT-BOUND GIANTS TEST CLASS AGAINST BUCS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Giants Bring New Punch. Weintraub Added Threat. General Offense Clicking.

Two Schools of Tigers. Anzacs Now Misnomer. Madison Records Fade.

As though the Pirates, in losing nine out of 13 games to the Giants prior to the present series, had not had trouble enough trying to combat the swatting tendencies of Messrs. Terry, Jackson, Ott, O'Doul and others, the league leaders had a brand new gun to train on the Pittsburgh pitching staff when they came to town today for a string of five games. The added threat to the peace of mind of Pie Traynor's hurlers is Phil Weintraub, Jewish outfielder recalled two weeks ago from Nashville in the Southern Association.

Phil Weintraub

Weintraub, a left-hand swinger and thrower, is remembered as having made his debut as a Giant here on September 7, last year. He left considerable to be desired as a fielder, but displayed a punch by pasting one of Heinie Meine's offerings into the right-field stand. The extent to which he has developed that punch may be judged from the fact that he came away from the Southern Association on July 31 leading that loop with a batting average of .401. And, far from being slowed down by major league pitching, Phil has done better since he rejoined the world champions in the big time.

SOCKING MAJOR PITCHERS AT .467 RATE

While Weintraub has made only one extra-base drive, a two-bagger, he has rapped out enough singles to make himself the hitting sensation of the newcomers in the Heydler girdle. Batting safely in all but two of his 13 games to date, the Giant recruit has connected for 21 hits in 45 times at bat for the huge average of .467, knocking in 14 runs and scoring 10 himself.

Weintraub still is a bit short of being a Tris Speaker in the field, particularly on ground balls, but offensively he's giving Bill Terry's club a big lift toward another pennant. Just how well the New York offense in general has been clicking, by the way, is evidenced by the fact that of the leading six hitters in the National League no fewer than five are Giants, if Weintraub may be included. The others are Manager Terry, Harry Danning, Mel Ott and Joe Moore.

NEW BALL BLOCKS TIGER COMPARISONS

Charley O'Leary, who played shortstop for Detroit's first American League champions in 1907, preceding Donie Bush, was asked to compare the present Tigers with the original pennant winners. O'Leary says any such comparison is impossible on account of the change to the lively ball. He won't even venture the opinion that Cobb, Crawford, McIntyre and Jones made a better outfield than Goslin, Fox, White, Walker and Doljack. O'Leary praises the club of 27 years ago as a great one, but contends that no one can say the team of 1934 is not as good. The two clubs belong in different schools, he holds, and can't be compared because of the lively pill, which he asserts makes baseball a farce.

Charley O'Leary

Charley recalls that if the Tigers of 1907 made one run for Wild Bill Donovan in the first inning, the game was as good as over. Donovan would win it, 1 to 0, if they didn't make any more runs for him. But today, as O'Leary views it, one run doesn't mean a thing nor do four, or five, or six. When you started a pitcher in the old days, the chances were 10 to 1 he would finish, but when you start one now, the chances are 10 to 1 that he won't. The rabbit ball is killing the finer instincts of the game, O'Leary thinks, reporting that Detroit players told him they had cut open one of the modern pellets and found a rubber core the size of a handball.

CALLING 'EM ANZACS NO LONGER PROPER

The continued practice of referring to Australian athletic performers as Anzacs is very much out of order. The term was all right at one time, but it doesn't fit any longer. The name properly was applied only to the Australian and New Zealand contingent that fought at Gallipoli. And it was an appropriate title in sports during the period before the World War when Australians and New Zealanders teamed up in various athletic events.

For instance, they had such a team, which made its proper title Australasian, in the 1912 Olympic Games at Stockholm. Their 800-meter swimming team had Healy, Hardwick and Boardman, of Australia, and Longworth, of New Zealand. Similar hookups in tennis won the Davis Cup six times, four of the victories in the challenge round being scored over the United States. The team members were the famous Norman Brookes, of Australia, and Anthony Wilding, of New Zealand. Pittsburghers remember them from a first-hand view in 1914, when Brookes and Wilding defeated O. Kreuzer and O. Froitsheim, of Germany, at the Allegheny Country Club in the semi-final of the elimination rounds, then going on to defeat the British Isles and the United States later. But now Australia and New Zealand have separate organizations, and Australian athletes don't like being called Anzacs. There is no ill feeling, just natural good-natured rivalry.

FAST GOING BY EUROPEAN SWIM STARS

Only two years ago, Helene Madison was the greatest of women swimmers. It was predicted that her equal would not be seen in a long time and that her records would stand indefinitely. But already the new girl stars are making Helene's former world figures look slow. Where Lenore Kight, of Homestead and others left off in this country, Willy Den Ouden has started in. The latter, who at a 15-year-old contestant for Holland in the last Olympic Games almost defeated Miss Madison, recently broke Helene's 400-meter record of 5 minutes 28.5 seconds by better than 12 seconds, swimming the distance in 5 minutes and 16 seconds. Incidentally, she swam the first 100 meters in 1 minute 12.2 seconds, and 200 meters in 2 minutes and 22 seconds. As one amazed veteran comments, if you don't think that's fast, try it.

Helene Madison

Europe now boasts two other youthful stars. One is Norman Mainwright, of England, who swam the half mile in 10 minutes and 4 seconds, knocking a half minute off the British record. The other is Ferenc Calk, of Austria, a sprint swimmer, who paddled 100 meters in the sensational time of 58.9 seconds. Other European competition has demonstrated that Jean Taris, the stiff-armed Frenchman who staged the sensational 400-meter duel with Buster Crabbe in the Olympic Games last year still is supreme at that distance.

Another Golfing Bobby Jones -.- New Uniform Fits, Hack Decides

DETROIT'S BOBBY JONES (RIGHT) HANDS WESTERN JUNIOR GOLF CUP TO FRED HAAS

A Bobby Jones other than the Atlantan of grand slam links fame crashed into the golf headlines when Detroit's 18-year-old star of the same name staged rally after rally to fight his way into the final of the Western Junior championship. Bobby was beaten by Fred Haas, of New Orleans, for the title. Hack Wilson, the home run king of the National League when he was with the Cubs a few seasons ago, has "caught on" with the Phils after being released by the Dodgers, with whom he "enjoyed" a fine batting slump. The Quakers expect their short right field fence to help Hack fatten his swat mark. Hack says he always wanted to play in Philadelphia and predicts a comeback for himself with the Quakers. These are International News Photo Service pictures.

By JAMES MILLER

While Eddie Zivic, the fourth member of the fighting family from out Lawrenceville way, and his brother, Fritzie, were mopping up on the Pacific coast fighters a few months ago, he must have seen some plastic surgery work done and thought he would like to try his hand at same.

His first attempt at the art of face lifting was a success last night at Hickey Park, Millvale, where he strove to remove a few lumps from the face of Frankie (Little Man, What Now) Marchese, of New York, and was doing nicely by himself when Marchese decided that his movie contract was in jeopardy and resigned in his corner at the end of the sixth round, the loser by a technical knockout.

EARLY ROUNDS TAME

Eddie recently has developed a penchant for taking the big city boxers for a skyride. Just three weeks ago Zivic scored his second knockout over Joey Costa, a darn good boxer from New York.

The first two rounds last night were very tame, with Zivic contenting himself by jabbing the much shorter Marchese around with ease. The third brought a little action as Marchese adopted

When Simmons, star outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, was forced out of the lineup for a few days with a slight injury he converted his brief vacation into a honeymoon by marrying Dores Reader, 19, of Chicago. Milwaukee is Al's home town, but the newlyweds are to make their home in Chicago until late in the fall. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

HAMBLETONIAN FIELD SMALL

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 14. — (AP.)—Eight of the country's leading 3-year-old trotters including Emily Stokes, the favorite, owned by C. W. Phellis, of New York City, today were named to start in the $40,000 Hambletonian, richest of the light harness racing stakes, over the Good Time Park track here tomorrow.

With the starting fee of $500 being paid on only eight horses, the races will have a value of less than $30,000, the smallest in the history of the event that was first staged in 1926 with Guy McKinney winning the major share of nearly $74,000.

Named to go to the post with Emily Stokes where Princess Peg, owned by J. I. and E. T. Lyle Plainfield, N. J.; Ella Brewer, from W. N. Reynolds' barns of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Henry H. Knight's Reynolda, Chicago; Bertha C. Hanover, from L. B. Sheppard's Hanover (Pa.) farms; Vitamine, owned by Martin B. Dodd, Winsted, Conn.; E. L. Mefford's Lord Jim, of Columbus, O., and Muscletone, which will carry the silks of C. B. Shaffer, Lexington.

The odds shifted somewhat today, but Emily Stokes remained the choice at 2 to 1. Lord Jim and Princess Peg moved up in the estimation of the prerace bettors, each being held at 3 to 1. Reynolda was quoted at 4 to 1, Muscletone 6 to 1, Vitamine 6 to 1, Bertha C. Hanover 10 to 1.

CHILLYSAUCE

When Earl Smith is in Allegheny County that's news, and according to Johnny Harris, head man of the McKeesport club of the Penn State Association, Oil of the Ozarks will appear in the lineup of the House of David club when it clashes with the Little Pirates Thursday night at 9:15 o'clock.

Earl Smith is perhaps the most colorful player the Buccos have owned in the past 20 years. His antics in the world series with Washington will always remain in the memory of the throngs that packed Forbes Field for those classic battles.

One of Earl's biggest victims of the great fights of nine years ago, strange to say, may be getting ready for another world series. Goose Goslin will be glad to know that Smith is not even inside the park, in the event the Tigers cop the flag.

Earl put his famous "wammy" spell on Goslin as he came up in one big clinch at the Oakland Orchard. Then as the pitcher started to throw, Smith sympathized with Goose as a result of Goslin's failure to be voted the most valuable player prize. The batter was beginning to warm up to the Pirate catcher as a strike popped into Earl's glove.

Goslin's teammate, Roger Peckinpaugh, had been given the award, much to Goose's regret. Smith again consoled Goslin as another strike sped over. Goslin finally fanned and Smith threw off his cloak and fake sympathy to shout:

Smith had Manager Bucky Harris, of the Senators, so angry that Bucky didn't know whether he was at the plate or No. 1 tee. Harris made one scratch hit in the series as he spent his time trying to get back at the annoying catcher.

The late John McGraw was so angry at Smith he would not have anything to do with him in a social way, but when danger threatened the Pirates in the fights with the Senators, McGraw got Smith out of bed at the Schenley Hotel to go over the Washington hitters with the man to whom he would not speak outside of line of duty.

Smith was an ineligible member of the Cardinals when they took on the Athletics in 1930. Earl was on the scene in uniform, but he had joined the Cards too late to be eligible for a playing role. Catcher Jimmy Wilson went down with injuries and the Cards wanted to get the permission of Connie Mack and his men to play Smith.

Mack threw up his hands in holy horror and exclaimed:

"Get Hartnett, of the Cubs, or any other star receiver to help out and it will be O. K. with us. We'll give clearance to anybody but Smith!"

SECOND PLACE SCRAP TORRID

The hectic second-place race in the Mid-Atlantic League has developed into a tie between the Huntington Red Birds and Johnstown, due to the formers' 6-5 defeat last night at the hands of Charleston, and the Jawns' 7-4 triumph over Springfield.

So far is Zanesville in the lead that the second-place race has stolen the limelight. The Dayton Ducks, a half-game behind Huntington and Johnstown, is another second-place contender.

Charleston's victory, marking the final game of the Huntington series, came as the Senators pushed over a ninth-inning tally on Benton's single, breaking a 5-5 deadlock.

Home runs by Madura and Browne, of Springfield, failed to offset six stolen bases by the Jawns and four Johnstown double plays as the Pennsylvanians downed the Ohioans. After the game, Johnstown players formed a guard around Umpire McQuillan to escort him through a crowd of fans who objected to his decisions.

Zanesville tallied a 7-1 victory over Beckley, marking the only game the Greys won in the series. Lefty Monogue held the Black Knights to two hits.

HARRIS GETS POST

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Jimmy Harris, of Philadelphia, regular guard on Notre Dame football teams of 1930-31-32, has been appointed line coach at Holy Cross College.

LEADERS OPEN TOUGH ROAD TRIP HERE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Memphis Bill went up the hill
Jes' like a sweatin' hoss—
But Bill was singin' merrily,
"There's One More River to Cross."

Yes, suh! It sure is the "Last Roundup" for Memphis Bill and his wild-ridin' diamond heroes, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago—and then another World Series with about 5,000 berries for a week's work.

And is Memphis Bill a businessman? Well, before he gets through he'll show you a pretty classy rating in Dun and Bradstreet. Folks, there is a ballgamer who is not out there in the sun every day just to get tan.

KEEPS TEAM DRIVING

Memphis Bill, at each meeting of his players, tells his boys about that pot of gold that rests at the end of the September rainbow. The New York lads have the gold fever, too, and they are right on their way to Klondike for the second time in two years.

The problem of winning a majority of the five engagements that confronts them in Pittsburgh did not seem to worry the National League leaders as they reached Pittsburgh this morning.

True, the Giants were all steamed up like a typical McGraw team upon reaching this hazardous city, but they bespoke confidence. They realize they already have copped 70 ball games and that by winning about half of their remaining battles they will be out beyond 90 triumphs, enough to insure the flag.

The ambitious Cubs are four full games behind the Terry Clan, and, while Lefty Grimm's entry is noted for its strength on the home lot, it will have to make a lot of hay in the next two weeks to get on an even footing with the New Yorkers. Even should they catch up with Terry, the Cubs must make another long eastern trip. The Bruins are no phenoms on the road by any means.

PHIL SOCKS 'EM!

The most interesting figure in the Giant troupe reaching Pittsburgh was a big Jewish kid named Phil Weintraub, who has won a regular job in the New York outfield.

Phil was called in from the Nashville farm about two weeks ago. He was hitting around .400 for the Southern Association club and he picked up where he left off as quickly as he reached the Isle of Manhattan.

BROUILLARD SIGNED FOR BOUT WITH ANSON GREEN HERE

GREENLEE FIELD TO BE SCENE OF BATTLE

International News Service.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14.—Lou Brouillard, former world welterweight and middleweight champion, will engage Anson Green in a 10-round bout at Pittsburgh next Monday, Lou's manager, Maurice Lemoine, announced today. Lemoine said he had just received a wire from Jules Beck, matchmaker, sealing the match.

The winner probably will meet the winner of the Dundee-Varez battle to be fought in Pittsburgh in September.

BECK REVEALS PLANS

Jules Beck, local boxing promoter, today said he had closed with Lou Brouillard for a bout with Anson Green, local Negro middleweight, but that Green had yet to affix his signature to the contract.

Green, following his fine victory over Young Stuhley, of Chicago, last Thursday night at Greenlee Field, left for Conneaut Lake.

Beck plans to stage the fight next Monday night despite the fact that Bus Vogel proposes to stage a show at Hickey Park Millvale, the same evening. Beck hopes to arrange with Vogel to have the latter postpone his Millvale show.

The fifth session saw Zivic given the word by Luke Carney, his manager, and he went to work, trying deperately to shove over a sleep-producing wallop. Right hand after right hand bounced off Marchese's chin, and apparently this flurry of hard blows, along with the punishment he received in the sixth, prompted him to say adios for the night.

SMITH BEATS AMBROSE

It was a hard fight and a close fight, with both fighters tossing punches in abundance. Baxter, as one official said following the bout, lost his vote by his continuous holding and hitting. From this corner, Vaughn, with his big early lead, deserved the award.

Teddy Smith, Negro, of Akron, 155¼, defeated Dick Ambrose, of Bloomfield, 158, in the second five-rounder.

Jack Trammel, lanky Negro heavyweight, also from Cleveland, dropped Carl Montebano, of Braddock, who subbed for Nick Malloy, for a three count in the first round and beat him easily the rest of the five heats to win the unanimous decision. Trammel weighed 186½ pounds and Montebano 176½. Red Robinson and Joe Orsini were the referees and Mike Moran and Lou Meininger judged. There will be a show next Monday, although no bouts have been signed as yet.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Matchmaker Jules Beck announces that he has Jackie Wilson, Negro featherweight of Homewood, signed to box Paul Lee, of Tennessee, in the feature bout of a double windup at Greenlee Field Thursday night. In the other 10, Frankie Hughes, of Indianapolis, who has scored wins over Eddie Kid Wolfe, Ray Kiser, Don LaRue, Sylvan Bass and other good ones, will meet Tiger Joe Randall, Negro, of Elizabeth. Two sixes will complete the card.

Sammy Paris, Hill district featherweight, has a few fights lined up. Saturday night he meets Young Terry at Akron; August 22 he takes on Clair Repole at Wheeling and the next night he is matched with Young Terry again at Parkersburg, W. Va.

YAROSZ, BUTCH SCORE WIN.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 14.—Bud Saltis, of Chicago, today knows why they rate Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, the uncrowned king of the middleweights. Bud took a lesson from the Monaca star in a 10-round engagement here last night, and, along with the lesson, took a sound whipping.

Yarosz, in his final tune-up bout before his proposed title battle with Champion Vince Dundee in Pittsburgh next month, didn't open up until the eighth round. Saltis managed to stay on his feet, but that was about all.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Hickey Park, Millvale—Eddie Zivic won by technical knockout over Frankie Marchese, 6 rounds; Jimmy Vaughn defeated Charley Baxter, referee's decision, 5 rounds; Teddy Smith defeated Dick Ambrose, 5 rounds; Jack Trammel defeated Carl Montebano, 5 rounds.

At East Liverpool, O.—Ted Yarosz defeated Bud Saltis, 10 rounds; Charley Burns and Len Shepherd drew, 8 rounds; Mose Butch defeated Doss Fields, 8 rounds; Marty Gornick knocked out Sammy Keller, 1 round; Ray Eberle defeated Keith Gomballet, 4 rounds.

At Old Orchard, Me.—Sammy Fuller knocked out Dick Edwards, 2 rounds.

BOUT POSTPONED

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The heavyweight battle between Steve Dudas and Stanley Poreda, scheduled for last night, was postponed until tonight because of rain.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE TICK FENCE—Ticks, those vicious little blood-sucking mites that infest the hides of cattle and sheep, and even the skin of man, have been denied entrance into the state of Mississippi by means of double barbed wire fences, the fences being about 20 feet apart. The reason for this ingenious preventive is that the tick, after falling off the animal, seeks the first parking space available—leaves, rocks or sticks—and awaits the passing of another animal to which he may attach himself. Naturally between the fences no animal passes and the tick who gets in the forbidden area dies of malnutrition. The stretch of double fence I illustrated is located in the area of Washington Parish, La., and Walthall County, Miss.

TOURNEY JINX AGAIN SOCKS EDGEWOOD

By TOM BIRKS

Tom Erich, popular pro and officials of the Edgewood Country Club are stepping about today with their fingers crossed and will continue to do the same next Monday evening when, if all goes well, the Western Pennsylvania Open golf tournament will be a matter of history.

Yesterday, for the first time in the history of local golf, a major tournament was postponed, simply because the elements made it absolutely impossible to hold the event. The West Penn Open was booked for Edgewood, but the rain and fog of yesterday morning put an effective kibosh on the proceedings.

Edgewood has had tough luck with major tournaments. It wasn't so long ago that the local golf riders took away another West Penn tourney because the club's fairways were too dry. The club cannot seem to strike a happy medium. First it loses a tourney because it was too dry and now because it was too wet.

Seeking to shatter the jinx that has followed him in the West Penn amateur golf championship, Fred Brand, Jr., former Penn State star and Shannopin ace, has entered the amateur tourney tomorrow, his first since his recent operation for the removal of his appendix.

Fred was in wonderful form last year at Highland when Knox Young won the title and was considered a logical choice to win, but the popular Penn Stater passed out of the picture in the semi-finals.

The Pittsburgh chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, will stage its regular monthly tournament at the South Hills Country Club this afternoon.

The Highland Country Club men's team will defend its western Pennsylvania team championship August 22. This match will set the stage for the finals on August 28. The entrants have as yet to be announced, along with the courses where the matches will be played.

The North and South parks championship tournaments will be staged during the early part of next month. Definite dates remain to be set, but September 10 tentatively has been set for the South Park affair.

Perry Del Vecchio, Vincent Eldred and Sam Parks, Jr., have filed their entries for the $2,500 invitation tournament to be held at Hershey, Pa., August 31 to September 1.

CARDS BEAT TIGERS

Indians and Giants Card Exhibition Trip

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball Club, has announced negotiations with the New York Giants have been completed for another barnstorming tour at the end of the 1935 training season.

Bradley said both clubs felt they had derived immense benefit from the tour last spring in which 13 games were played, nine of them won by the Indians. The Giants will join the Indians in New Orleans next April 1 for a series of one-day stands in smaller cities of the South.

'TOY BULLDOG' GROWLS AGAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Aging Mickey Walker, the Toy Bulldog of the ring, pretender to the middleweight throne he once occupied without dissent, is going to beat back over a familiar trail tonight when he squares off with Young Corbett, of Fresno, in a 10-round bout under the 160-pound limit.

After being bounced around in the heavyweight class since 1931, Walker has decided to compete hereafter as a 160-pounder. At 33 years of age and decidedly trim since he shaved off considerable surplus avoirdupoise, the one-time welterweight and middleweight king has impressed followers with his condition.

Tourney Jinx Again Socks Edgewood — Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER

To the Sports Editor:

In a way, this is sports news. At least it is something I don't think many people have thought about, which probably is just as it should be. But I saw an article in the National Geographic Magazine, in which it said—of I am quoting correctly—that there are more than 5,000 known species of ants, and that doesn't include your Aunt Hilda. Imagine 5,000 DIFFERENT kinds of ants. One thing we learn from ants is that even that low in life there is a constant struggle to keep alive, with one kind of ant battling another kind and so forth.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

Redwings Foozle Chance to Gain

Greenberg's Redwings, of the Penn State Association, might have been a full game and a half out in front in the second half race today had it not been for the eighth inning of their game with Washington yesterday.

Tied at 3-all in the eighth, McLean cracked and Washington tallied two runs, enough to eventually bring about a 5-to-4 victory.

The defeat was routine to Greensburg, as the second-place McKeesport team also lost, bowing to Monessen, 6 to 5. Monessen hit at timely moments to record the triumph.

Jeannette hit the hill hard and often to batter out an 11-to-3 win over Charleroi. Compton blanked Charleroi until the eight inning.

Deans Duck Game, Called on Carpet

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Dizzy and Paul Dean, the Cardinal pitching aces, are on the carpet once more. They "ducked" the Detroit exhibition game.

President Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Nationals, doesn't know why. He said they were on their own to make the trip.

The Cards who spent the day in their hotel here, expressed at length about sore arms and sickness and about no services that action at the ball park when the heads departed.

Last year Dizzy was fined $100 for skipping an exhibition game. The fine was later remitted by Owner Sam Breadon of the Cardinals.

First Fall Showing Wednesday, Aug. 15th

IN steps Autumn . . . out step the men! New shoes to match new wardrobes have marched right out into the foreground and are claiming attention of every man who claims to be well-dressed. Shoes that have a distinction all their own—typically 1934 in feeling.

Note the wider use of Norwegian leather—that heavier, more durable new leather that calls for saddle soap (in the English manner, no less!) instead of polish! Heed the ranks of rough grained leathers that match up with Fall tweeds and rougher woolens! And of course there are conservative styles for the conservative man as usual . . . even they showing the touch of the seasonal smartness! In men's shoe shops and departments all over town.

TIGERS AND YANKS BATTLE FOR FIRST PLACE BEFORE 70,000

FIRST SELLOUT OF SEASON AT STADIUM

run lead in the first after the Tigers had been retired in order.

Crosetti got a break when Greenberg misjudged his foul and drew a walk. He scored a moment later when Saltzgaver drove a long homer into the right field stands. The crowd pleaded with Ruth to follow suit, but the best the Babe could do was to coax a walk. He went to third as Gehrig singled, Gehrig taking second on the throw to third. Ruth was cut down at the plate on Dickey's roller to short, Gehrig moving to third. He scored on Chapman's fly to White.

The Tigers and Yanks both went out in order in the second inning.

GOMEZ WALKS TWO

Gomez lost his control momentarily in the third and Owen and Hayworth drew walks, the first Tigers to reach base. Crowder, however, forced Owen at third on an attempted sacrifice and Fox and White were easy outs to retire the side.

The Yankees added two more runs in their half to increase their lead to 5-0. Withone out, Ruth single. Chapman also singled. Dickey going to second. Selkirk followed with another hit to score Dickey.

YANKEE PROW FIRST AGAIN

MATTAPOISETT, Mass., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Yankee, of Boston, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, former Navy Secretary, again has whipped her rivals for the responsibility of defending the America's Cup.

She finished a 32-mile course yesterday more than a minute ahead of Frederick Prince's Weetamoe, more than two minutes ahead of Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow and five minutes ahead of Vanitie, Gerard Lambert's old cup boat, now ineligible.

The Boston boat overcame the disadvantage of a poor start, caused in part by a desire to protect her new light-weather mainsail. A stiff breeze—about 17 knots—swept Buzzards Bay as the cup boats got away, but it faded throughout the day until it did not exceed 10 knots.

It was a race of many changes in position of the contenders. At one time or another each of the four held the lead. The course was leeward-windward.

Vanitie rounded the first mark in the lead, with Rainbow, Weetamoe and Yankee following in that order. On the next windward leg Weetamoe gave her best performance of the season, and after crossing Rainbow's bow took the lead. At the second mark Yankee, too, through some skillful tactics on the part of her skipper, was able to wear down Rainbow and Vanitie to move up into second place.

Meenan, Illinois Grid Star, Dies

DENVER, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—The football career of Ken Meenan, 22, scheduled to be a bulwark of backfield strength for the University of Illinois this fall, was at an end today.

An amputation of his left leg in a final effort to save his life proved futile. He died late last night at St. Luke's Hospital, the victim of blood poisoning which developed after an automobile crashed into a motorcycle he was piloting in Estes Park last Tuesday.

Meenan was a backfield star at Northwestern University on the championship team of 1931, until barred when he got married. After leaving Northwestern he played at Temple and enrolled as a freshman at Illinois last fall.

Sports Shorts

Tommy Hitchcock, 10-goal polo star, is making a rapid recovery from head injuries he suffered in a fall from his horse a week ago, and may be available for the East-West series in September.

Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, today in New York received an offer of $16,000 to meet Harry Mizler in a bout in London late in September, and an offer to box Cleto Locatelli in Rome.

Thirty-three teams, representing 47 police departments and 300 individual marksmen have entered the third annual police pistol matches to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Harrisburg.

When rain halted his final round match with Jimmy Allen, of Elkins, W. Va., yesterday, the flip of a coin made Frankie Williams, University of Virginia star, the men's singles champion in the Blue Grass tennis tournament at Bluefield, W. Va.

Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, who recently adopted Sacramento, Cal., as his home, today accepted an invitation to be the guest of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce at a civic dinner on August 24.

Traynor Ace for 12 Years—Here's Why!

Third Base 'Home' To Pie, Alert to Guard 'Castle'

Recognized as baseball's premier third baseman over a dozen years, Pie Traynor, Pirate manager, is going to be 35 in a couple of months. The wet spell of yesterday gave this high-spirited Buccaneer a chance to pause and indulge a reverie. Pie, himself, of a poetic nature, went into quiet rhapsody as he took in the beauty of Forbes Field, the showers having given the verdure a freshened green covering that was easy on the eye.

The New Englander looked back through the years to the day when George Gibson, Pirate boss of that era, shouted:

"Get out there on that base, young fellow, you're my regular thirdsacker!"

REVEALS DETERMINATION

"Do you know why so much was written about me having no opposition for third base through the years? Well, I'll tell you.

"For 12 years I have been going out to third base in the practice session talking to myself. When I go to the bag daily and take in the beauty of everything in the great outdoors, I find myself saying:

"Pie this is wonderful to be out here. See how nice it is around Schenley Park and the Carnegie Institute. And this spot around third base is so fresh and green all the time. Pie, do you realize that this is your home? That's just what it is—and your home is your castle and don't allow any intruder to get near it! This third base spot at Forbes Field always belongs to you alone and don't ever give a thought to the day that you must move out for some kid."

ATTITUDE BAFFLING

Traynor smiled after he had finished his little excursion into the past. He added, in a tone of regret:

"I can't understand why so many kids in their early 20's in present-day baseball are so ready to sit on the bench when they have some slight sickness or injury. There's so much happiness in store for them if they hustle."

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 14.—Pittsburgh contenders in the twelfth annual United States public parks tennis championships are scheduled to make belated competitive debuts on the Parade Ground courts here today.

Harry Wald, former Pitt star and man-to-man victor in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh public parks classic last month, eased past bracket one yesterday by default of Fred Hargesheimer, of Rochester, Minn., and this morning at 10 o'clock engages Bill Lurie, spectacular New York dark horse, in the second round for the right to a probable crack at ex-champion Ted Drewes, St. Louis hope, on the morrow.

MRS. ARTZBERGER PLAYS

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jean Artzberger, five times West Penn representative in national municipal events, having drawn a bye through the initial round of the women's singles milling, battles Elizabeth Kesting, of St. Paul, at 1 p. m. Miss Kesting, a junior at the University of Minnesota, is unseeded in the draw, but rates No. 2 in the national girls' rankings and has twice sported the Northwestern feminine diadem. The Pittsburgher, who is playing nicely after three days' intensive practice here, is primed for a torrid struggle with the Gopher luminary.

Interesting from the Pittsburgh viewpoint is the fact that Walls' opponent, Lurie, emerged victorious yesterday in the outstanding fray of the opening card. The Gothamite, a wiry youngster of medium height, flashed not only speed and resourcefulness, but also indomitable courage in taking over Gordon Keener, of Tulsa, 5-7, 9-7, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1. Both lads offered the all-court game, with Keener displaying perhaps the more torrid pace and more aggressive attack and Lurie exhibiting a fine defense that included an almost occult ability to spirit the pellet back from seemingly impossible situations.

FAVORITES VICTORS

With only men's singles on the bill, results followed the dope to perfection. Champion Arnold Simons, ace of Louisville, romped over Max Gurman, of Kalamazoo, and thereby landed a tussle today with Ernie Koslan, formidable Bronx citizen, who is said to have once made it tough for Jean Borotra and who yesterday spurted brilliantly after a wobbly start to eliminate Rex Norris, Lansing contestant, 3-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1. Drewes, seeded second, pushed over Howard Gamper, of Fort Dodge, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, and next must oppose Kasal Peckoff, veteran Buffalo star.

Billy Schommer, home aspirant and third on the favored roster, packed too much power for Warfield Donahue, Simons' doubles partner, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

KEN HIGH OPEN

The New Kensington High School football team is open for games at home on September 15 and 22. Schools interested in filling these dates are asked to write or call Carl Glock, New Kensington High School, New Kensington, Pa.

Softball Tournament Secretary.

The girls will entertain East End softball followers this evening when the Goldenson Vanities, managed by Helen Kasputis, encounter Peter McBarron's Modern Food team, of East Pittsburgh, in a semi-final game in the girls' division in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament play-off series.

Edythe Forsythe, bespectacled pitcher, will be sent to the mound to hurl for the Vanities. Turning back St. Ann's, Fruska Gora and the Cecil Red Y's, the only teams she opposed, Miss Forsythe's brilliant twirling featured the Vanities' march to the Section II championship.

SOUTHPAW BATTERY

McBarron has his left-handed battery, Eva Spivak and Helen Weideli, primed for this game. The moderns finished in second place in Bracket I with five victories and one defeat. The lone setback was suffered against the West Newton Scholastics, who won the sectional title.

Another girls' semi-final game will be played tomorrow when the West Newton Scholastics engage the Cecil Red Y's on the Schenley High School Field.

Tickets for the elimination finals, to be played at Greenlee Field on Monday and Wednesday evenings of next week, are to be placed on sale tomorrow in the lobby of the Sun-Telegraph Building and at the Sun-Telegraph's downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street. The price is to be only 25 cents, and this despite the fact that two games are to be played each day.

FINAL GAMES NEAR

These games will determine the champions of the various classes and the senior champion, which will represent Pittsburgh in the national tournament, which is to open on September 8 at Chicago. Tickets not sold to those who do their bargain shopping early will be disposed of at Greenlee Field on the days of the games.

Special tickets will be sold for 10 cents to members of teams which were eliminated in the tournament. These tickets can be obtained at this office.

The two semi-final games in the senior division will be played this week. The Campbell Shamrocks will have the Weise Newsies, of Bridgeville, for their opposition tomorrow at Washington Park, Bedford avenue, while the S. A. O'Tooles tangle with the Commercials Friday on the Schenley High School Field.

SOFTBALL SLANTS

The Campbell Shamrocks will invade Elizabeth today to oppose the Elizabeth Produce team in an exhibition softball game.

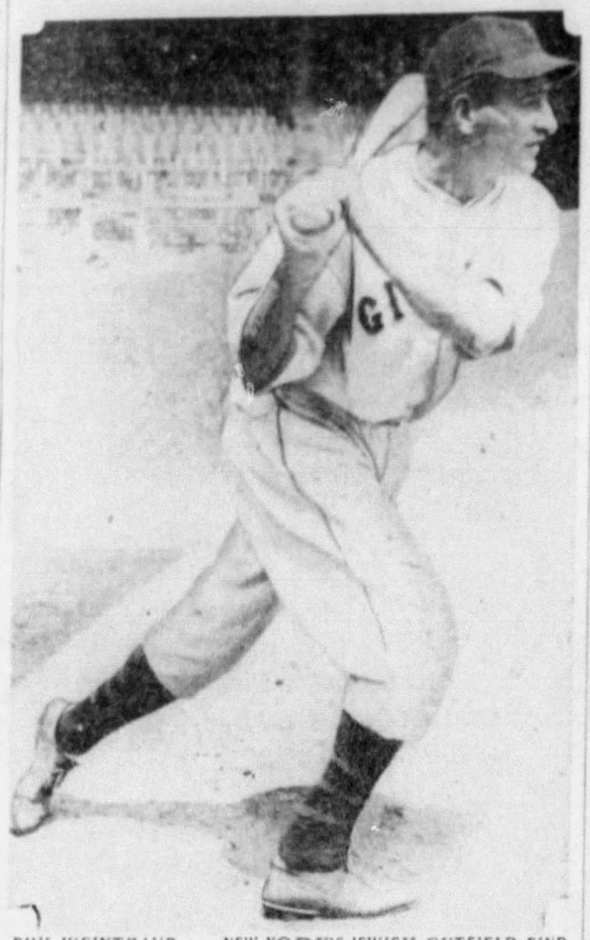
Manager Bob Adams' C. J. Wahls softballers will meet the E. J. McAvoys in a return game at Wilson Park today. Teams wishing to book games with the Wahls may do so by calling the manager at Fairfax 6171.

Pitcher Melvin Port yielded five hits as the Harris Reds defeated the Snubs A. C., 2 to 1, yesterday on the Schenley High School Field.

MITCHELL VICTOR

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 14.—Mike Mitchell, local star, won by a technical knockout over Rosy Rosales, of Cleveland, when the latter failed to come out for the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round bout. Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, lost to Steve O'Malley in the 10-round semi-final.

Phil Fills Giant Need



PHIL WEINTRAUB . . . NEW YORK'S JEWISH OUTFIELD FIND

Weintraub, who made his big league debut with the Giants here last spring and who is back with the Terrymen after having been farmed out for further seasoning, gives promise of fulfilling the New York club's hope for a Jewish star. He is an outfielder with a punch. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

BOOKS WITHIN STEP OF CITY LOOP TITLE

Unless something is done right away, they may as well call off the entire City League schedule for the second half, award the Books another title and forget about the circuit until next season.

The Books are within a step of another title and said step isn't one that is likely to tax the streaching abilities of Heinie Boll and his mates.

With Dormont out of the picture, due to the South Hills' club's sudden withdrawal from the loop last Saturday, the Books are six full games out in front of the second place Parmelee nine and apparently are going to boost even this safe margin. This evening, the defending champions take on Mt. Oliver, a club away down in the ruck, while the second place Cabbies meet Immaculate Heart at West Penn Park.

The Books boosted their rating last evening by knocking off Homewood, 16 to 4, at Olympia Park. The champions collected 17 safe hits, including four by Soapy Heyl and five by Manager Heinie Boll. Heinie swatted four doubles and Heyl blasted a home run.

Dormont opens its independent campaign this evening, meeting Homewood at Homewood. Manager George Falconer, of Dormont, is authority for the statement that his club will meet the strongest opposition the tri-state section can offer for the remainder of the season.

DIVERS IN EXHIBITION

Harold (Dutch) Smith and Farid Simaika, Olympic diving stars, will give exhibitions in the Willows pool again this evening, completing their tour of this section. They put on their act in the same pool last night.

LOCAL NETTERS WIN ABROAD

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Rain yesterday halted the opening round play in the fifteenth annual Western Maryland tennis tournament, but not until three of the men's singles matches had been disposed of.

W. J. Clardy, Pittsburgh, beat James Allen, also of Pittsburgh, 6-2, 6-2. Wylie Glassmire, Washington, defeated Will Weber, Clarksburg, W. Va., 6-3, 9-11, 6-3, and Gerald Maloney, Pittsburgh, won from William Schaeffer, Kingwood, W. Va., 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Competition will be resumed today, weather permitting.

CHATHAM, BOYD WIN

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 14.—A pair of Pittsburgh netters, C. Boyd, of Wilkinsburg, and John Chatham, turned in opening round victories in the twenty-eighth annual Northwestern Pennsylvania tennis tournament here yesterday.

Chatham turned back Z. Zielanski, of Buffalo, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4, and Boyd put out H. Tennebaum, 6-3, 6-3.

One major upset was furnished in the junior singles, this year presenting the strongest field in the history of the series, when Charles Snyder, of Greenville, blasted Lee Boetger, of Erie, out of the running.

SHIELDS BEATS JACOBS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Francis X. Shields, member of the United States Davis Cup singles forces and the defending titlist in the current Newport Casino tennis play, today qualified for the fourth round by breezing through Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, 6-3, 6-3.

Shields relied almost entirely upon speed and had his forehand strokes well under control as he ousted the experienced Baltimore player and entered the quarter-finals, which will be over the three-out-of-five sets distance, against another rugged opponent, J. Gilbert, Hall, of New York.

Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, who gained the junior title last week and, as a result, was a day late arriving here, made his Casino bow by defeating Arthur Hendricks, of New York, 6-1, 6-3, in a second-round match.

The eighth seeded, Jack Tidaball, of Hollywood, Cal., was far from his best on a heavy court, but he managed to gain the quarter-finals with a 6-1, 1-6, 6-3 win over John Ray, of Boston.

SECOND ROUND SINGLES

Campbell Cracks Par in Test Round

LAVAL-SUR-LE-LAC, Que., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—His woods long and accurate and his short game working perfectly, Albert (Scotty) Campbell, of Seattle, yesterday blasted par on the Laval-Sur-Le-Lac course with a 67 in his final practice before starting defense of his Canadian amateur golf championship today.

Campbell sank every putt, conceding himself nothing, and turned in a card of 34-33—67, compared with par of 36-35—71.

The field of 128 will play the first 18-hole match play round today. Two rounds tomorrow and two Thursday will cut the survivors to the four semi-finalists. The semi-finals Friday and the finals Saturday will be at 36 holes.

Sport Chatterbox

How about a Curbstone Coaches' Association for the coming football season? . . . An idea cooked up in the busy brain of Jack Kennard . . . Meet each Monday at noon . . . With one or two prominent coaches in attendance . . . Give 'em the old quiz and have 'em answer all questions . . . Pertaining to the games of the previous Saturday . . . A right snappy idea . . . Detroit has one with several hundred members . . . It won't hurt the coaches and it won't hurt the game and it will give all the John Q. Fans an opportunity to satisfy themselves that grandstand quarterbacking isn't so easy . . . . If youse gents are interested, drop a line either to this department or to Kennard at the Keystone Club . . . Maybe we can get together.

There are a flock of gents who ought to go for the idea . . . for example . . . Bill Behrenson, Herb Covington, Dex Very . . . Cal Bolster, Warren McMillan, O. E. Roberts, Bob Waddell, Chick Swartz, Nate Parker, Red Friesell, Joe Dasher, Nordi Hoffman . . . Jean Caspar, Walter McVey, Hank Hangartner, Lefty Hill, Stan Waechter, Hooper Berkman, Parker Robbins, Ken Shaffer . . . Arlie Johnson and gosh knows how many others.

The Giants are in town today . . . recalling memories of other Giant teams that have played here . . . in the days of Buck Herzog, Heinie Zimmerman, Hal Chase, George Kelly and others . . . Ross Young, Eddie Roush, Slim Salee . . . What memories! . . . Tom Clark, present Giant coach, and Lloyd Crouch likely will get together again.

You'd hardly know Bunny Burzio, Tech's great guard of last fall . . . He weighs eight pounds less than a Mack truck . . . Tiger Walton's another gent who has taken on plenty of heft . . . He'll report to the Boston pros weighing better than 240 pounds . . . All of which he'll need.

There never was a better amateur boxing card arranged hereabouts than the one set for the police pension fund show next week . . . The Billy Miller-Sammy Angott go itself will be worth the price of admission . . . And if Sammy happens to get that right hand across he'll do plenty of damage to Bill's whiskers . . . The rest of the card is just as strong.

The boys like Young Corbett at 10 to 6 over Mickey Walker tonight . . . Maybe they'll have changed their minds at about 10 to 10 . . . There may be more than a growl or two remaining in the Toy Bulldog.—JESS CARVER.

HELEN LACKS CONFIDENCE

FOREST HILLS, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A champion without confidence—that's the picture Helen Jacobs painted of herself today as she collided with her second test in defense of the women's national tennis championship. As she prepared to take on Jane Sharp, of Pasadena, in a second round match, she said:

"It's a funny thing with me, but I'm never confident before a match, or a tournament, for that matter. My practice is to go on to the court and do my best and let the result depend on the way I play.

"Naturally, I would like to win the championship again this year, but there are plenty of stiff players in the field. For example, there are Carolin Babcock, Sarah Palfrey, and don't forget Betty Nuthall."

Miss Jacobs dispelled some of the fears about her game by the decisive manner in which she squelched Marjorie Sachs, of Cambridge, Mass., in the first round. She won both sets at love in what amounted to a complete reversal of the form she showed in the Seabright invitation tournament final a fortnight ago.

The Jacobs-Sharp match shared the spotlight of the second round with the engagement between Miss Nuthall and Baroness Maude Levi, of Minden, Nev.

Little Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., was figured to be an easy winner over Mae Ceurvorst, of Wichita, Kan., while Miss Babcock, of Los Angeles, was not expected to encounter any difficulty in disposing of Ann Page, of Philadelphia.

Personalities in Softball

By sending a terrific drive to left center field for a two-base hit to score Leo Yimin in the ninth inning, Charles Rubinoff, one of the best left-fielders in the district, led the Commercial Garage tossers, champions of Bracket V, to victory when it appeared that they were hopelessly beaten by Glenfield in the quarter-final round game of the playoff series in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's amateur softball tournament. It was that two-bagger that put life into the Commercials and they came back to score five runs—and win, 13-10, and get a place in the semi-finals. Although Rubinoff throws left-handed he is able to bat both ways. The classy outfielder graduated from Fifth Avenue High School in 1929. There he starred at baseball, football and volleyball.

Chas. Rubinoff

Dan Hagan, slugging pitcher with the S. A. O'Toole Club, of Hazelwood, may get the call to pitch against the Commercial Garage team in the semi-final playoff series game Friday in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament. When Hagan is not scheduled to pitch he plays in the outfield because of his hitting ability. He is a graduate of St. Rosalia High School, where he starred at baseball. The O'Tooles defeated the Hungry Nine Club, of Carnegie, and the E. J. Noftzs, of Lawrenceville, to get into the semi-finals.

Memory Test

1—Iron Man Joe McGinnity's best record as a pitcher for the New York Giants was made in 1904, when he won 35 games and lost 8.

2—Neal Ball, of Cleveland, was credited with the first unassisted triple play in major league baseball history, against Boston, in 1909.

3—Paul Hines, of Providence, was credited with an unassisted triple play against Boston in 1878, but a search of the records reveals the fact that he caught a fly ball, raced to third and retired a runner and then threw to second base for a double play.

4—The Indianapolis Speedway was the first in the United States, marking the end of road races, which were deemed too dangerous for both drivers and spectators, to be inspected in 1910 and the first race was held the following year.

5—The National amateur golf tournament was held at the Oakmont Country Club in 1919 and 1925.

Cast Into Eden

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

CHAPTER XXII.

Linda went into her room and came out with a half of the bisected fruit. She set it on the table. In structure it was like a melon, a honeydew, but instead of the trabecula that holds the seeds the inner cavity was hollow, like a cocoanut, but divided in its long axis by a septume that contained a single long flat seed.

Jerome leaned down to examine it. "The juice is effervescing a little."

"Yes, it seems to have started to ferment on the tree. Taste it again."

He did so, dipping out a little in his cup. "Marvelous! It reminds me of something . . . but I can't remember what."

She gave him a spoon. "Try the pulp. It's sheer delight."

The flavor of the creamy pulp that was in consistency like that of a perfect melon, but smoother and finer, was still more reminiscent to Jerome. But of what he could not tell.

"I don't know, Linda. It's like a composite of all the finer fruits. But no end more delicate. It's sort of a master fruit . . . and you know, it's making me feel rather . . . well . . ."

"Me too," Linda said.

Effect Heavenly

"That's true, Jerry. But it can't be poisonous. The effect is heavenly. When I first tasted it it made me want to dance and sing and romp."

"Why not? Half a pint of the juice of the Forbidden Fruit. That's the way it ought to act."

"That's just what it is. The original love-potion."

He said harshly: "The sun-distilled essence of Original Sin. Humanity's first trouble maker. The primeval Cause of Man's disobedience to orders from Divine Headquarters. Its effect has been all the world's dishonesty and betrayal of trust and neglect of duty and indulgence of lust and murder and misery."

She protested: "That's not fair, Jerry."

"No, all this isn't fair to you nor to me nor to our unknown host. There's something sinister about it. And something terrible is sure to come of it unless we stop right here."

"Don't be so superstitious. It's nothing but coincidence, Jerry."

"Perhaps, but . . . You ate some of that fruit, went and dolled yourself up in orange blossoms and jasmine and bougainvillea and flamboyants. I'll bet you've been admiring yourself in the big mirror over in the corner of the living room. You showed off for me, like a nautch girl. You may be Eve, but I'm not Adam by a long shot. I've always had a good healthy contempt for that weak-kneed guy. No rib's been cut out of me, nor will any be!"

Contempt for Adam

Linda laughed. "I've always had a contempt for Adam, too. I'd have quit him cold if I'd been Eve. I'd . . ."

"But she didn't quit him, and the result was that her eldest son took after him and murdered his brother and then tried to put over another alibi and, when that failed, began to whine and whimper and to ask since when he'd been his brother's keeper. Nothing doing . . . none of this Old Adam stuff for mine. He was a chiseler . . . and his first born was worse."

"What about Eve?"

"Oh, Eve . . ." Jerome made a hopeless gesture. "She was just . . . well, Eve. She took it on the chin, just as you would. We men talk a lot about courage but you women have it . . . without any talk about it." He slanted his head as if listening, then said: "Go and get yourself as you were. All that flower perfume on top of the drink . . ."

"Jerry, we're not living in Bible times . . ."

"You bet we are. Men have always been living in the Bible, and men are going to keep on living in the Bible until there are no more men left on earth. Then there will be only the Bible."

"My dear, you're—"

"If I were I'd want to stick on here until the Avenging Angel came. The worst of being sober is that you're always doing what you don't want to . . . for the sake of somebody else."

Linda stepped to where he stood, closely in front of him. Jerome did not move. She threw her arms round his neck. Still he did not move. His arms hung straight down at his sides.

"Jerry . . ."

"Listen . . ." His ears had caught a sound that was heavy but faint with distance. It seemed to undertone the stillness all about, like a bass accompaniment for something that the ears could not interpret, but yet was there.

Linda heard it. Still clasping Jerome, she asked: "What's that?"

"What?"

They stood for a moment listening. The thumping sounded nearer. Then the strange eerie cry that had first tormented them came faintly, from somewhere down the course of the stream.

"That's the Racketeer," Linda said. "Somebody must be landing."

"Maybe it's the Dueno. I'd better hide the fruit."

"Don't hide anything. All we are going to tell is the truth."

"We're not Adam and Eve any more than he's God. There's been no Fall. We've got nothing to be ashamed of."

"You haven't, Jerry. But I . . ."

An angry bellowing broke out from not far in the jungle. It was amphoric, deep, and ended in a gutteral muttering. A hush followed. Then from the direction of the beach they heard a sudden clatter and what sounded like a shouted order.

Gorilla Not Pleased

Jerome said: "Old Man Gorilla doesn't seem so pleased to have his master back again."

"No, he may have hoped he'd gone for good and that we were the permanent caretakers."

"Why not? We've treated them like human beings, Jerry. I'm frightened. More than I was of the gorilla family."

"You needn't be. We've got nothing to be scared about. If his gorillas set our boat adrift and steal our clothes and yank what little you have left off you, what can he expect?"

"We haven't looted it, even if that was our intention. It ripened and fell. That's the literal truth."

They went out on the verandah and waited. It was nearly sunset and in half an hour would be dark. No more sound came from the gorillas. The macaw had not shown itself for several days. Jerome thought it might have flown across to the mainland, disliking their presence on the premises. The affection of these birds is limited, and those they do not love are often objects of hate.

Synopsis

Jerome Crain, young naval architect, and a beautiful society girl, named Linda, land on a strange island in the Caribbean after having fled from a quarantined yacht. Their skiff is set adrift and their clothes stolen. Intermittently blood-curdling cries come from the jungle. They find a well-kept though deserted plantation and take refuge in a small house there. That night, Linda's slip is torn off by some unseen creature and again the eerie scream is heard. The mystery of the prowlers clears with the appearance of a mother and father gorilla, their cub and another hairy monster. Jerome recites poetry and feeds the animals sugar water to keep them from getting vicious. The dislike which Linda and Jerome had for one another changes to admiration. They discover a strange tree full of luscious fruit. A sign promises dire punishment to any who touch it. The gorilla chases them from the tree. Jerome and Linda confess their love for each other. Jerome finds needed tools and food.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

School isn't far away again fuzzy-fellows!

How do you feel about school opening again? We wish some of our members would write and tell us what they hope to do this coming semester.

We know some boys and girls who have been studying up this summer, so that their school will be more fun this fall. All kinds of study can be fun if you are interested. And if you study the right way.

Often it doesn't do much good to study history as a dry bunch of dates when great men did things. But when you read it like a story book you remember it.

If you haven't written a letter to enter in the contest this week do it now! Remember, the contest ends Thursday midnight.

If you live in the Pittsburgh district, you should have your letter in the mail not later than tomorrow. And it would be no such better to mail it today. The subject is "What Are Your Ideas About Washing Your Neck and Ears?"

Send all your letters (you can write as many as you wish) to the Junior Patrol Contest, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

One of the most important things a long vacation can do for you is to build up your health. Then you don't get sick so easily. The doctors say that you have more "resistance" to germs and infections. And that means that if you are healthy enough, perhaps you will not get so many colds this winter, and maybe you will not have any other kind of illness.

They say that the sun is important in keeping healthy, and that it's a good idea to take sunbaths, especially in the morning. Of course, good food and plenty of it is very important, too.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Rich Wife :-: Daily Short Short-Story

By NORMA DE LAZELL

They had quarreled only twice. Once about his working and once about her working. Two years ago every one had warned Joan that her marriage to Tim would be a failure. "No real man would live on his wife's money," they had said, or "no rich woman wants her husband to punch a clock!"

"Lord, Joan," Tim had stormed during their first quarrel, "you can't expect me to be happy just playing with your hobbies! You would hate me if I just golfed, grew flowers, collected stamps and played bridge. Honestly, darling, wouldn't you? My work is with germs and such.

"I'll have to punch a clock, but some day you will be proud of me. Won't you let me live my life my way for a while?"

The earnest pleading in his eyes had made her realize that Tim was right. Joan had given in and Tim had gone to work. Their second quarrel had been worse.

"Why don't you do something with your talents, Joan? Why don't you paint or do something worth while? You are wasting your life with fool hobbies and insane people!" Those sharp words of Tim's still hurt Joan.

Two years of happiness and now it was over. In a few minutes a woman was coming to see her. "Alice Sommers," she had said her name was, and "it is important. I want to see you alone. It is about Tim!"

Joan shuddered as she recalled the way she had said "Tim." It could mean only one thing. This Alice loved Tim, her Tim.

Joan remembered how busy she had been all week. There had been the dance, the lawn party, the bazaar. Tim had not been home much. He had said he had been working on an experiment. The doorbell rang sharply and Joan knew that it was Alice Sommers even before the maid announced her.

"It's rather private!" said Alice. "I can talk to you here?" Her glance questioned the door of Tim's den.

"As well here as anywhere. What can you have to tell me about my husband?" she said, motioning her guest to the nearest chair.

"Only this! We love each other," Alice said.

"Tim loves you . . .?" exclaimed Joan.

"Yes." The word came with a ring of conviction.

"Yes," Alice hurried on. "You see, while it is an old story, it is a true one. I am ambitious. I naturally want the things every woman is entitled to. I sing well and would like to have my chance in concert!"

"You could not do that as Tim's wife," Joan interrupted. "He has no money!"

"I know that, but I will give up Tim. Mrs. Sears, for $5,000!" Alice said slowly.

"Oh! Blackmail!" Joan arose scornfully from her chair. "And how am I to know that there is any truth in what you say?"

"I have the evidence!"

"Your word, as evidence, against Tim's words of love?" inquired Joan.

"No!" said Alice. "Not my word. His letters!"

Joan sank into her chair. "You have these letters with you?" she asked in a low voice.

"Yes." Alice calmly added. "You can have them and Tim, in exchange for a check today."

"May I see them, please?" Joan was talking to gain time. She did not want to see Tim's writing, addressed to this Alice Sommers, but she must have evidence before she decided.

Alice took a package of letters from her purse, tied fittingly as love letters should be, thought Joan. Alice snapped the blue ribbon from them and spread them fanlike in her hands. Yes! Even up-side-down, Joan knew it was Tim's handwriting.

Joan stared at them, tears dimming her vision. "No, no!" she protested. "They were meant for your eyes." She looked at the envelopes in her hands a long time. Tim's handwriting seemed to merge into a meaningless flow of blue ink. Only the small squares, silhouetted against the white paper in the corners, stood about like red danger signals.

"One thousand dollars apiece," Joan continued in a level voice. "That is a high price to pay for words and handwriting that you know by heart. No!" Joan rose with a decisive motion. "You can take Tim. You can have him instead of the $5,000! He will be home soon. When he comes I will send him to you. Now go! And don't ever come back."

"Right," agreed Tim, coming into the room. "I came home early and heard her."

"Oh, Tim!" Joan swung around to face him. "I am so glad that you are here. Wasn't she horrid?"

Tim looked earnestly into Joan's eyes before answering.

"Darling, what a brick you are!" he said, taking her into his arms. "You still believe that that I love you, in spite of the evidence? I did write those letters, Joan!"

"Yes, I know, Tim. And meant every loving word in them, but that is all over now."

"How did you know?" asked Tim.

"I did not at first," confessed Joan. "I believed every word she said, Tim, my hobbies did the trick. My stamp collection. The postmarks were blurred, but I knew the stamps on those letters were eight years old!"

Bickersome Days Ahead for Dictators

This dictator business on the other side of the Tuna Lagoon must end up in ether jimmys.

First of all, a dictator gets to be the biggest man of his country. He owns the only platter in the cafeteria.

There is no more proposition for the local boy who made good. It has been a tough climb on a ladder made of nursing nurses. Naturally, a man like that won't going to stop just because there won't no more ladder. He is going to develop the Napoleonic complex with a tri-cornered hat and boots.

Right next door is another dictator who is running his country on the time keeping the hobs in reserve for a tough year. Those two dictatorial bearcats are going to eye each other. That will lead to diplomatic twinges. From then on in chaose up sides and every dictator for himself.

One must lose. The winner then takes over the adjacent territory and remodels it. That brings him into silver wedges with still another and more monotonous dictator who will not take no for an answer and hates the sound of yes.

And neither will the most ambitious dictator. We cannot mention his name right now for we don't know it. But you can bet your commons and your glasses it will happen as sure as china have whiskers.

It will be an interesting series of post-prandial events to watch from a safe and serene distance. We may get into it. And we may not. If Lafayette ever slept in Bulgaria or had a nervous breakdown in Siberia, of course we will have to go across and repay the debt of gratitude.

Outside of that, we may manage to remain neutral. When Lafayette calls us we are bell boys.

Paste this on your windshield, for The Bug is a prophet who sees into the future like an owl in a forest fire. It may not happen this week, nor next month, nor next year. But it will occur some time between now and 2284. Make a note of that and give us a century or two to make good.

Quackeries Exposed

The Brain Trust Is Disturbed by Dr. Millikan's Sensible Words About Americanism

Was ever such a pother and outcry as greeted the sober, earnest words spoken over the radio the other day by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, one of the most eminent of America's learned men?

The sad dog liberals, the mad dog communists, every illiterate professor and every ultra ignoramus—the latter-day intelligentsia, in short—saw their quackeries slipping and endangered by a few simple words of obvious truth and good sense.

And how they rallied under the instinct of a common peril to denounce the man who had spoken the truth about them!

Dr. Millikan was talking about Americanism.

Like the man of lifelong quest for precision and veracity that he is, he cited facts and figures to show the extraordinary progress that America can claim in material and spiritual wealth, as the result of its loyalty to the ideals of freedom and individualism, and reviewed the opportunities enjoyed by every citizen to attain just such a position of power and influence among his fellows as his own character, industry and capacity create for him.

This man of observation and reflection, who has brought the highest distinction to his country, the most prized recognitions from the learned bodies of other countries, referred to the two most serious dangers that menace American life—first, the danger of infection from abroad with the bacillus of dictatorship, and second, the danger of too much paternalism from our government at home.

As a consequence of the latter he foresees the inevitable breakdown of the character of our people and the effectiveness of our government.

He put into words what many of us are beginning to see with growing clearness—that the rapid and unlimited enlargement of government function is destined to be "the coming slavery."

And for the silly little men who constitute the brain trust—the "gaseous cerebrums," as H. L. Mencken calls them—who have no formula but the unceasing extension of the powers of the state into fields which private initiative can and will handle better, Dr. Millikan has words that crunch and penetrate, words that etch and perfectly describe.

Such persons he says are ENEMIES OF FREE GOVERNMENT AND "THE MOST PERNICIOUS INFLUENCE IN AMERICAN LIFE TODAY!"

Only a little while ago it was Mr. Hearst who was speaking in this vein, calling upon us to reaffirm our loyalty to American traditions and American institutions and fundamental American principles, and expressing his belief that "therein lies our salvation in any and every emergency."

Then came Henry Ford, insisting that "the recovery we need is our spirit of American independence and individualism."

Now it is the famous thinker and scientist, Dr. Millikan, who speaks up for Americanism.

Cannot the gentlemen of the brain trust, with their half-baked and alien theories and concepts, see the way the wind is blowing? Can they not read the writing on the wall?

The American people are tired of them—have had enough of them—want to be done with them!

Nothing but woe, confusion, declining confidence, diminishing hope, deepening dejection, has come from their false diagnoses and the grotesque remedies they have proposed.

New Airplane Service

Not Friendship, But Business, Puts Pittsburgh on Coast-to-Coast Schedule

Transcontinental and Western Air., Inc., which dropped Pittsburgh from its direct coast-to-coast schedule, in protest against the rates charged for the use of the municipal airport, announces a new coast-to-coast service starting tomorrow on which Pittsburgh will be a regular stop.

Officials of the company are careful to say that this does not mean they have become reconciled to the airport rates. The explanation for putting Pittsburgh back on their lines is that the overnight transcontinental trips are so popular as to warrant giving additional service.

They are sensible enough, in short, not to bite off their nose to spite their face. They see a chance to make money by stopping here for passengers even if the port rates are excessive.

The County Commissioners should be slow to pounce on this as evidence that the company has been bluffing and the airport rates are justified.

The public understands that it cost a fortune to build the airport and a large revenue is required to pay the interest on the bonds and maintain the port. But the public is not willing on that account, we believe, to charge more than other municipalities charge for similar service if it means we are to forfeit the good-will of the aviation companies and be looked upon as extortionary.

Inopportune

This Is Not the Proper Time for a Comprehensive Legislative Session.

According to the Philadelphia Record, the regular Republican organization there has decided that if the Legislature is called into special session to provide funds for the relief of the unemployed it will help to get such legislation enacted but will refuse to go along with Gov. Pinchot in any of his other legislative plans. This is said to be the attitude of the Republican State organization.

The Governor has announced that if a special session is unavoidable he will call not only for relief legislation but for a comprehensive program of social, labor and utilities measures.

If the attitude of the Republican organization has been accurately described, a "wide open" call will merely result in wrangling and time-wasting at the taxpayers' expense.

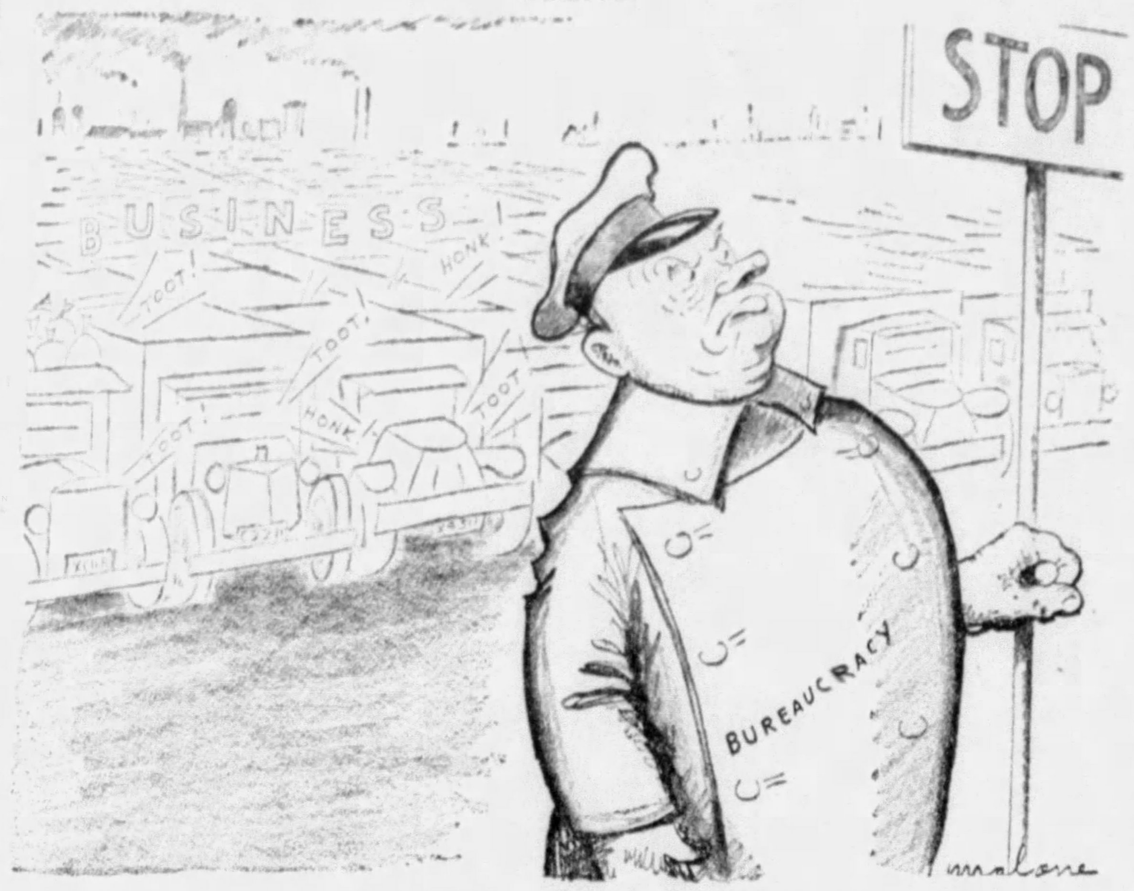
Gov. Pinchot would do well to limit the call to the relief legislation.

But before a special session is convoked, it is desirable that another appeal be made directly to President Roosevelt, in the hope that the Federal Government will continue to supply relief funds until the next Legislature meets in regular session, five months from now.

The Governor says, in a not very hopeful public statement, that he will go to Washington soon to see what can be done. It is hard to believe that if the President can be made to see the facts he will not intervene, as, according to Gov. Pinchot, he did once before, to save Pennsylvania from the threatening hardships.

Obstructing Traffic

(Copyright, 1934.)



Some figures issued by the United States Civil Service Commission are interesting, not to say amazing, to taxpayers.

They show that the New Deal in its first fiscal year added 95,662 Federal employes to the vast army on Uncle Sam's payroll.

Apart from the military, legislative and judicial departments, the Government on the last day of June had 661,094 big and little servants—including, of course, a lot of plain politicians along with the faithful and valuable employes.

That is one aspect of the meaning of BUREAUCRACY.

But TOO MUCH regulation may be as bad as none.

The law of trade and industry is motion, which is also the natural law of traffic.

Traffic is not traffic when motion stops. It is a blockade.

And commerce and production are effective only to the extent that goods move in the market places and men are gainfully employed.

At present, business is not going ahead as it wants to do. The restraining hand of bureaucracy holds it back.

It looks as if the statutes against restraint of trade need to be revised and invoked against the NRA with its little bureaus and its ten thousand or more codes, orders and bewildering interpretations.

Snob Often Snubbed

By Winifred Black

MARY T. is worried!

Mary has a long lost brother visiting her and brother's table manners are really too bad. He doesn't know the difference between a millionaire and a tramp and doesn't want to know. And it is time for Mary to know. And it is time for Mary to give her annual anniversary dinner and what on earth will she do with brother?

She'd like to invite him to take a little trip somewhere, but her husband won't let her. John thinks that maybe if brother stays he won't have to wear his tuxedo, and that would be a great relief to John.

Poor Mary, and she does so love to be "correct". If mulberry is the color for the season Mary's house is a mulberry patch. When the long, narrow dining room tables came in Mary sold her perfectly good black oak, round table—and it belonged to John's great-grandmother, too. Now she could cry her eyes out about it, because she went to Boston on a visit and the very grandest and swellest aunt in Boston was using a big old-fashioned round table and Mary is afraid round tables are "coming back".

She has a good many worries, has Mary. Tables and draperies and the correct thing to serve and everything.

Isn't it queer there are so many things that she doesn't worry about at all?

I saw Mary's boarding school daughter insult a salesgirl in one of the big shops the other day and the tears came to the salesgirl's pretty black eyes, but she didn't say a word. How could she with the floor walker looking right at her.

And Mary never said a word to her daughter about that, and she was right there and saw the whole thing.

And the other day, when a shabbily dressed old lady come into a tea at the house of one of Mary's friends, Mary snubbed the shabby old lady and so did Mary's daughter. But when it turned out that the shabby old lady was a howling swell and was giving a smart tea for her boarding school granddaughter and Mary's daughter was not invited, Mary cried over it. She said she didn't think people had any right to go around disguised like that.

Poor Mary, how surprised she would be if she realized that some of her relatives are just as ashamed of her as she is of her long-lost brother.

Isn't it a pity someone didn't take the trouble to teach Mary real courtesy and real manners and just a little bit of real common sense, with a careless smattering of kindness?

ISN'T IT SO?

Forgive every man's faults except your own.

Treading on other people's toes isn't going to get you very far up in the world.

We must conform, to a certain extent, to the conventionalities of society, for they are the ripened results of varied and long experience.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

DARE TO FEEL!
DARE TO FEEL
WHAT YOU WANT TO FEEL!

We've grown afraid
Of Feelings, we Moderns—
We don't know where
Feelings will take us,
Or what they may cost us.
Those sudden impulses
Of enthusiasm and pity,
Righteous indignation,
Scorn and mirth,
They're swell,
At the moment,
But suppose
We gave way to them,
Where'd they land us?
Nobody knows!

Impulses like that
(We say to ourselves)
Sometimes involve people
In the doggondest
Situations.
Suppose we let ourselves
Go like that—
People might laugh at us,
Or blame us,
Or expect us to take sides,
Or pay bills—
You never can tell!

Yes, it's wonderful
To read about people
Having feelings in books—
Or to watch them emoting,
Recklessly, gorgeously,
On stages and movie films,
But when it comes
To behaving like that Oneself—nothing doing!

But, of course,
Though we're careful
About feeling,
We don't want
To appear paralyzed.
So we take great pains
To seem to feel
As Nice People
Are Expected to feel
At certain occasions,
On certain subjects—
Making the proper gestures—
Rooling our eyes,
Sighing, shuddering,
Breathing hard
Through our noses—
Saying—"Oh,
"Isn't it too
"Pe-e-erfectly
(Or frightful—
Or outrageous—
Or heartbreaking.)
Yes, we PRETEND to feel,
And we usually Manage to put on
A very good act.
But it's only an act,
Most of us
Would no more dream
Of feeling naturally,
Or expressing
Those feelings nakedly,
Then we'd dream of going
To a session of Congress
In corn plasters.

What fools we are!
Not daring to feel
Lest we mess up life,
And, as a result,
Missing life entirely.
For, if you don't feel,
You don't live.
Feelings are
What Life is made of;
Life isn't the sum
Of the places you've gone
Or the people you've met,
Or the days you've existed
Or even the things you've done—
Life is the sum
Of the things you've felt;
You live
In your feelings;
As much as you feel;
Your power over other people,
Your ability to understand them,
The richness or leanness
Of your own experience,
Even your approach to God,
Depends on your feelings.

Your life is as big
As your own feelings—
Outer circumstances,
May keep you from behaving
In the Grand Manner—
But nothing
But your own cussedness
And cowardice
Can keep you from feeling
In the Grand Manner.
And no live person who dares
To think for himself—
Who dares to let himself
Be wrung by pity,
Burned by fury,
Lashed by shame
Or uplifted by ecstacy,
Can ever be Entirely obscure
Or unsuccessful—
For the very richness
And audacity
Of such a man's feelings,
Set him apart from
And give him power over
The timid, sluggish herd.

Dare to feel!
Dare to feel!
What you want to feel
Regardless of expediency—
And don't worry
About what that feeling
Will do to your life—
That feeling IS your life,
It is all the life
You will ever have—
If it is a noble feeling,
If it makes you
Stronger and wiser,
Gentler and more tolerant,
It is worth
Anything it costs—
And you should worry
About cowardly cracklers!

TOKIO, Aug. 14.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Japanese naval committee announces today they are going ahead with ship building. If allowed at next conference, they will have them. If not allowed, they will have them, too. Can't beat logic like that. At Japanese-American swimming meet, our backstroke boy won, one swimming on stomach, but lost in tonight's races. I am coaching them all to turn over on back. Sure hot here.

Rhyming Optimist

Key to Dreams

The keys on my ring are of little worth,
Leading to things well known;
But here in my hand I hold a key
Found on a paving stone.

Too long for a sailor's box;
I turn it about in my palm again
And wonder what it unlocks.

No symbol of all I have seen on earth
Is as potent as this to me,
And I have no words for the strange allure
Which lies in the unknown key.

A hidden and lovely place;
And show me a dreamed-of face.

And never, as long as I can clasp
Closely this time-stained key,
Will the gates of romance again be closed,
Or the door of dreams, for me!

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

You owe something to your city, village or rural community besides paying of your debts and taxes.

You should help support some church and local organization.

There are many requests for funds for worthy causes.

These agencies must be supported, for it is only through the liberality of donors that they are able to carry on their activities.

There are many which must rely on individuals for their existence.

Too many men feel that it is not incumbent upon them to donate toward lines of effort except those for which taxes are levied.

Many important bodies are failing to function because individuals who are able to give financial aid are not interested enough to do so.

In making a budget, allowance should be made for donations.

Human Side of the News

The Isle of Man, Where Kaye Don Has Been Convicted Of Manslaughter, Is One of the World's Queer Spots

By Edwin C. Hill

STRANGE ARCANUM of age-old traditions, of old and residual human values, is the Isle of Man, where Kaye Don, the motorboat speed king, is sentenced to four months in prison—found guilty of manslaughter in the accidental death of his mechanic. The centuries overlap here, and there is irony in a speed demon trapped in the musty old Deemster court. Manxmen have traveled slower and fared better than some who have filched the lightning to speed their coming and going.

The little Isle of Man in the Irish Sea is the only solvent country in Europe; it is the only country which annually budgets a surplus; the only country with no national debt. It has no crime. Its last murderer was hanged 80 years ago.

Read the ancient oath, taken by the judge who sentenced Kay Don:

"By this book and by the holy contents thereof, and by the wonderful works that God hath marvelously wrought in the heavens above and in the earth beneath, in six days and seven nights, I do swear that I will execute the laws of this island justly between our sovereign lord the king, and his subjects within the isle, and betwixt party and party, as indifferently as the herring backbone doth lie in the middle of the fish."

The Isle of Man is a "possession of England," with a resident lieutenant governor, who, however, lays only a light scepter on the stiff-necked islanders. They have their own little flag—a triune boot, with the three legs kicking, traditionally, at England, Scotland and Ireland. In the middle ages, it was ruled first by a Welsh and then by a Scandinavian dynasty. In the fifteenth century, it became the feudal principality of the Stanley dynasty, later purchased by England.

Manx Cats Bring Fancy Prices

IT HAS some copper, lead and zinc, fisheries and arable land, but happily no gold or iron ore to drag it into the vast complex of warring European trade interests. It goes its ancient way peacefully because it has no trouble-making surplus of anything. Here is the "autarchy," which the big nations out beyond the Irish Sea dream about, but cannot achieve. Like Horace, they would turn to their Sabine farm, but cannot.

But the Manxmen can and do. No debt; no crime. Even their tailless cats are paced to the tempo of their neat little controlled economy. When there are too many of them and prices are threatened, they breed less—and more when scarcity looms. Budgeting cats is serious business there, for these strange creatures that prowled the wind-swept island before the Manxmen themselves bring fancy prices in the world markets.

Hall Caine, the Manxman, who died three years ago, at the age of 78, made more money than any other novelist in the world. When H. G. Wells was earning $100,000 a year, he was earning $500,000. He earned vastly more than Barrie or Arnold Bennett or Somerset Maugham and, unless I am mistaken, our own prolific Harold Bell Wright. His estate, after shrinkage in the depression and after large gifts to philanthropies and relatives before his death, was more than $2,500,000. Two sons survive him, Ralph Hall Caine, member of parliament, and Derwent Caine.

He was a blacksmith's son reared by foster parents in a little crofter's cottage on the Isle of Man. He finished his days in the great Greeba castle on Peel Mountain, overlooking the island. Virtually self-educated, he went to England in the hope of becoming an architect, but was unsuccessful and became a writer for trade journals. There he met Dante Gabriel Rossetti. At first sight Rossetti commandeered him for his secretary—this earnest and poetic youth, with the finely shaped head and eager, penetrating gaze. It was an association which lasted many years.

Caine an Authority On the Bible

IN THE LONDON of Ruskin and Morris and Swinburne, Hall Caine caught pace with the great intellectual and spiritual outreach of the day. Soon he was writing; finishing manuscripts and destroying them; meditating for days, and then fairly spawning his lines of slanting, crabbed handwriting. He was supposed to know the Bible better than any other living man. Certainly his work is imbued with the stately dignity and the austere simplicity of the Scriptures. He is the great exemplar of the excellence of the St. James text as a model for the writing man.

He left Rossetti to return to his beloved Isle of Man, 30 miles west of England and 32 miles east of Ireland, to write his novels. Year by year the sales of his books increased. They were translated into virtually every modern language. He lived simply, deeply and sensitively, grounded in the life and tradition of the island. More and more he looked like Shakespeare as the years rolled gently on—with his pointed white beard and his high, scholarly forehead. He was knighted in 1918.

There is a timely note in the fact that Hall Caine's "Life of Christ" is just now ready for publication. At his death, this indefatiguable worker, schooled in industry in his childhood, left this manuscript of 3,500,000 words, drawn from years of diligent research. And timely, too, it is to recall that the man with this prodigious output, the man who made more money than any other writer, did not dictate and did not use a typewriter. He used a stub pencil, writing on any stray scrap of paper on his knee—never on a desk.

Education Is 'Stepchild' Of the Administration

By James T. Williams, Jr.

PUBLIC EDUCATION has thus far received little encouragement and less support from the federal government since the Roosevelt administration came to power.

The late and unlamented Seventy-third Congress not only failed to provide for the expansion of the Federal Office of Education into a Department of Education, but it neglected to appropriate sufficient funds to enable the Office of Education to discharge all of the duties assigned to it.

Meantime, public education is in jeopardy throughout the Union. It has been dealt a crushing blow by the depression. It has been starved by the pork-barrel politicians on the payroll of local, county and state governments.

These politicians in state after state are blocking the efforts of the people to modernize the obsolete system of county and local government, which is an inheritance from the days of the oxcart.

Until the yoke of oxcart government is lifted from the necks of the people, until this system of county and local government which has outlived its usefulness is modernized, millions of dollars will be squandered upon its support which ought to be going to the support of public schools.

Parasites Consume Schools' Money

THE POLITICAL parasites on the payroll of oxcart government are eating up the money which public schools so urgently need for their support.

Because thousands of useless officeholders are feeding at the public trough, thousands of public school teachers are unpaid and many more thousands are grossly underpaid. Public schools have been closed in many states and in other states the school term has been drastically curtailed.

At the very time when widespread unemployment makes it imperative that school facilities should be multiplied, the school term lengthened, the school age increased, the training of teachers improved, and the compensation of good teachers made commensurate with the loyal and efficient service they perform, public education in state after state is going backward instead of forward.

Under the American system of government, the support and control of public education is a primary function of each and every state in the Union. But there are national responsibilities for education which only the federal government is able to discharge.

In its findings and recommendations regarding federal relations to education, the National Advisory Committee on Education has clearly charted the leadership which the federal government should provide in promoting education in the several states.

This distinguished committee in its report has pointed out that:

"From the revolution to the Civil War, the federal government encouraged and financially aided education in the states.

"It endowed higher and common schools with lands, and made grants of surplus tax money; but it did not attempt to regulate the purposes, define the programs, supervise the teaching or otherwise control public education in the states. Throughout this long earlier period, its spirit and its acts were in harmony with the principle of state and local autonomy."

Recommend Secretary Of Education

TO THE END that this traditional American policy of federal encouragement of education, supported and controlled by the several states, may be carried forward, the National Advisory Committee on Education recommended that a Department of Education with a Secretary of Education at its head be established in the federal government.

The nucleus for such a department now exists in the Federal Office of Education, which was originally established in 1867 as a Department of Education. The same functions that were assigned to this agency in 1867 would be the functions which the new Department of Education would perform. It would collect "such statistics and facts as shall show the condition and progress of education in the several states and territories."

It would diffuse "such information respecting the organization and management of schools and school systems, and methods of teaching, as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and will otherwise promote the cause of education throughout the country."

President Coolidge strongly favored the restoration of such a Department of Education that there might be in the federal city a federal headquarters for education competent to meet the increasing national responsibility for education in ways that are consistent with that traditional American policy which leaves to the several states the authority and responsibility for the control and support of education.
